Wallace Flays Republicans in Acceptance Speech

Asserts Election Of Roosevelt Is Needed To Curb Hitler's Designs

Declares Nazi Dictator Wants President Defeated and Says Republicans Would Aid Totalitarians

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 29 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace tonight called upon the voters of the United States to curb Hitler's "designs against this hemisphere" by re-electing President Roosevelt.

Formally accepting the Democratic nomination for vice president in a prepared address in his hometown, the former secretary of agriculture charged the Republicans with being "the appeasement party in the United States today."

Titling the speech the new fight for freedom," Wallace declared this nation "must face the fact the the dictators have definite designs against this hemisphere."

"Their tactics here as in Europe are to divide and conquer," he said. "They hope by propaganda and bartering agreements to set one nation against another. Out of the confusion which they have created they hope to build political power and eventually military power.

"They hope to get rid of the unyielding Roosevelt."

The nominee said he did not "wish to imply that the Republican leaders are wilfully and consciously giving aid and comfort to Hitler."

"But I want to emphasize that replacement of Roosevelt, even if it were by the most patriotic leadership that could be found, would cause Hitler to rejoice. I do not believe the American people will turn their backs on the man Hitler wants to see defeated."

Maintaining that President Roosevelt has "understood the Hitler menace from the start," Wallace declared:

Communists Deny Petition Fraud

Maryland Party Issues Statement Replying To Charges

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Communist party of Maryland issued a statement here today denying any fraud in its petition filed with the secretary of state to get Communist candidates on the state ballot in the November election.

The statement, issued through Sam Banks, party treasurer, said the party would "take all necessary action to defend our place on the ballot."

The petition bearing about 2,200 signatures was filed before the May primary to get the names of the Communist candidate for president, vice-president and that of Dr. Albert E. Blumberg, senatorial candidate, on the ballot.

An investigation of reports submitted to the Dies Committee purporting to show that some of the names were fraudently obtained was ordered today by Governor O'Conor. Photorgaphic copies of alleged evidence in the Dies' Committee files in Washington will be turned to the state's attorney's office here tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Grand Duchess Marie Romanoff, niece of the last Czar of Russia, was fingerprinted today under the alien registration act.

"It was very amusing," the New York fashion consultant said.

Democrats Pay Tribute to Late Governor Ritchie

Notables Praise Him at Dinner at Braddock Heights

BRADDOCK HEIGHTS, Md., Aug. 29 (AP) — State Democratic dignitaries gathered here tonight to pay their annual tribute to the memory of the late Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, whose fifteen-year occupancy of the governor's mansion was the longest reign in free state history.

The Jeffersonian Club of Frederick county sponsored the annual "Ritchie Day Dinner," commemorating the popular governor's birth.

Headed by Governor O'Conor, the present state administration was represented by officials from virtually every governmental department.

Federal, city and county officials were on the long list of speakers, all of whom praised Ritchie's service to the state and party.

Springboard for Campaign

Although it is a "non-political" affair, the annual dinner in campaign years usually is made a springboard for the Democratic campaign.

Among the speakers invited were Democratic National Committeeman W. Preston Lane, and Rep. William D. Byron, seeking re-election from the Sixth Congressional district.

Others invited to speak were Senators Millard E. Tydings and George Radcliffe; Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore and Sen-

Raids Continue With Number of Casualties Kept Secret by Censor

Houses Damaged, Fires Started by Incendiary Bombs; Raiders Spread Out over English Towns

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 30 (Friday) — Scream bombs dropped in a residential district of the London area caused a number of casualties early today.

(Censorship prohibited an estimate of the number killed or wounded.)

While Nazi bombers generally avoided the Metropolitan area or circled it warily, other raiders spread out over English towns and countryside.

A lone raider over a southeast coast town dropped a number of scream bombs without causing much property damage and with no casualties reported.

Some houses were damaged when about twenty high explosive bombs and several fire-starters fell in a northeast coast town during the night.

The southeast coast area experienced three raids during the night but bombs did negligible damage.

Over the capital itself there was little activity after a mass formation of 200 raiders was beaten off the southeast coast late yesterday by British fighters.

Fire Bombing Likely

A steady glow rising from the city's outskirts late last night soon after the raiders were first heard suggested a fire bomb had been dropped but no general air alarm had been sounded in London up to 2:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m., e.s.t.).

Tonight's raid was in sharp contrast to the 7-hour pummelling London took overnight, Wednesday-Thursday.

However, an inland northwestern town suffered its heaviest raid of the war today. Refugees took shelter in hotel basements and available underground hideouts, as the raiders crossed the town again and again.

High-flying raiders also were active over northeastern coastal cities, weathering an intensive anti-aircraft barrage. Flares were seen dropping followed by heavy explosions. Water mains in some country districts burst.

"Nuisance" Visitation

Thus, it appeared that a "nuisance" visitation was under way—one designed not so much to destroy London buildings as to strain London nerves.

The heart of the city was curiously quiet early this morning. Searchlights sent aloft their beams only intermittently.

Willkie Sees Danger in Plan To Take Control of Plants under Draft Bill

Republican Candidate Says It Would Create Dictatorship; Asks Roosevelt's Opinion of Bill

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 29 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie said late today that a provision of the conscription bill authorizing the government to take over private plants would set up "a potential dictatorship." He demanded that President Roosevelt state his view on the provision.

In a formal 1,100-word statement, the Republican presidential nominee declared that the conscription of manpower was the democratic way to obtain defense personnel, but he added:

"At the eleventh hour (of Senate debate), however, an amendment was introduced by New Deal senators Overton (D-La) and Russell (D-Ga) and passed by the Senate, which gives the president, whenever the secretary of war or secretary of navy is unable to arrive at an agreement with the owner of any plant or facility which is deemed necessary for national defense, power to acquire such plant or facility."

Reads Statement

Willkie's statement, which he read to reporters during a press conference on his front porch said that "in the event of emergency, the industries and assets of this country are at the disposal of the people."

"Let us not create that emergency before it actually exists by setting up a potential dictatorship," he added.

Declaring that the Russell-Overton amendment had been supported by Democratic Leader Alben W. Barkley and other "senators known to be close to the administration," the Republican nominee noted that the president had declined his suggestion that the two debate campaign issues.

"That is his privilege," Willkie added, "but in this instance so much is at stake that I put this question to him directly.

"Is he for or against the Overton-Russell amendment?"

Asks Serious Answer

"I put this up to the president now," the nominee added, "and I hope that he does not answer with any quip about how Wendell Willkie loves property and he loves humanity. I say, without any personal criticism of the president, that it has been his good fortune at every stage in his life to possess and enjoy more wealth and more income than I have. This is true today as it was in the past."

In response to press conference questions, Willkie described the Senate approved amendment as "stupendous," "staggering" and "revolutionary."

"It may be that the American people want to socialize and Sovietize our system of free enterprise," he continued. "If they do, that is all right, but that is one of the fundamental issues of this campaign and I want to debate it."

Would Vote Against Bill

The amendment, Willkie asserted "raises an obstacle" to House passage of the conscription measure.

Germany, Italy Trying To Solve Balkan Problems

Hold Separate Discussions with Hungarians and Rumanians

By The Associated Press

VIENNA, Aug. 29—Germany and Italy turned their ministerial attention to the turbulent Hungarian-Rumanian frontier today, and in separate discussions with Hungarian and Rumanian diplomats, began the shaping of a new axis-sponsored "peace."

The contours of a new line that will divide the disputed province of Transylvania and its 3,500,00 people between Hungary and Rumania were still hidden tonight.

Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop of Germany and Count Galeazzo Ciano of Italy conferred for two hours each with the Hungarian representatives, Premier Count Pal Teleky and Foreign Minister Count Istvan Csaky, and Rumanian representatives, Foreign Minister Mihail Maoilescu and his aide, Valerie Pop.

"Concluding Results Today

A German spokesman said "concluding results" presumably would be reached tomorrow.

He said the length of the talks meant Ribbentrop and Ciano were going deeply into the complicated language, historical and mixed population problems of Transylvania in a "spirit of comradely cooperation."

The talks, held at the Imperial hotel headquarters of Ribbentrop and Ciano, were prefaced however, by an acid exchange of communications in which Rumania charged a Hungarian plane with bombing a Rumanian airport and Hungary indignantly rejoined.

Germans minimized the importance of Rumanian-Russian border clashes, widely reported in the foreign press, but emphasized their desire to see "quiet, peace,order, contentment and lasting stability" in the Balkans, suppliers of Axis raw materials, while the struggle with England is on.

Berlin Has Night Of Peace from Expected Raids

German Bombers Deliver Usual Attacks on the British Coast

BERLIN, Aug. 30 (Friday (AP)" — No British air raids developed during the night and Berliners, though warned by the press and authorities to prepare themselves for repeated attacks on residential sections, slept undisturbed.

The morning press was filled with bitter comment on the bombing of a workers' quarter early Thursday which killed ten civilians.

Attack British Coast

Yesterday the Nazi air force beat heavily at England's coast in angry retaliation for a three-hour raid on Berlin by British bombers, the most punishing ever made on this capital.

While men still searched gingerly about Berlin's streets for British time bombs, the German command loosed upon the British naval base of Portsmouth its most feared air weapon, solid squadrons of Stuka dive bombers.

Returning pilots declared a surprise attack was hammered home spectacularly in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire.

When they left, they said, Portsmouth harbor was "a sea of flames"; a nearby airdrome was "a desert full of craters."

Liverpool Bombed

Both incendiary and demolition bombs were dropped in the morning darkness on Liverpool harbor; on Chathom, the military and naval center thirty miles southeast of London; on Thameshaven, lying on the north shore of the Thames estuary; on the ports of Middlesbrough, Cardiff and Bristol; on the airports of Eastchurch and Southend, in southeast England; on munitions, armament and airplane plants at Sheffield, Norwich, and Coventry.

One important British attack on a military objective—the vital synthetic gasoline producing plant at Leuna, near Leipsig—was acknowledged, but Germans asserted only "slight" damage was wrought.

As to the bombing of Berlin, during which the British raiders dropped explosives within two miles of Adolf Hitler's ornate headquarters in the Wilhelmstrasse, the Nazi high command declared coldly that residential sections were "intentionally attacked."

Ten Known Dead

At least ten persons were killed and thirty injured, most of them in a working class section. A series of fires was set off and bomb craters were left in various parts of the city. One of the attacking planes was shot down.

Military Committee Takes Quick Action, but Hard Fight Looms on Floor; May Vote Next Week

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — A peace-time draft bill, making all men from twenty-one to forty-four, inclusive, subject to conscription for military training, emerged from the House Military Committee today with the leadership drawing up plans for its House passage by the end of next week.

Acting quickly, a day after the Senate's vote passing a more restricted version of peacetime conscription the committee endorsed the measure twenty to four. It deferred for the time being, however, action on an amendment empowering the government to seize defense production plants whose owners insist upon unduly high profits. A similar proposal was included in the Senate-approved measure.

Increase Defense Costs

The Senate, meanwhile, made rapid work of the huge $5,023,169,277 defense appropriation bill, adding $100,000,000 to provide housing for defense workers, and, at one point, engaging in a sharp exchange on the effect of such expenditures on the government's finances.

Downtown, the day produced an agreement between the navy and the United Aircraft Corporation for making 17,000 airplane engines, for both army and navy, by June, 1942. The job was said to entail a $2,500, plant expansion for United—with the government buying and retaining title to $7,000,000 worth of ma-

Even Poor Fish Has No Secrets

Scales Show Age, Where It Was Born and a Whole Lot More

SOLOMON'S, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—A fish has no "secrets" if you can read his scales—and a biologist can.

The scales reveal not only the age, but how many times the fish has spawned, and even where it was born. Not only can its "home" be placed in Chesapeake bay as against the Hudson river, but even in what tributary of the Chesapeake.

These scale studies tell more accurately than was previously possible whether "overfishing" threatens the fish population, and hence are of great importance in conservation, explained David W. Wallace, biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory here.

The "scale reading" was developed by Dr. R. A. Nesbit of the United States Fish and Wild Life Service, and by Wallace at the laboratory directed by Dr. R. V. Truitt.

The age of fish is revealed by growth "rings" on the scale—little blank spaces where new scale was not laid down due to retarded growth during winter. These "rings" resemble the annular growth rings in trees.

The origin of the fish can be told because the growth rate of the scale in the first year depends upon the aquatic environment. These "environments" differ—in temperature, salinity, food supply—even in neighboring rivers or bays. Measuring this growth tells where the fish was born.

The fish resorbs calcium from the outer edge of the scale at each spawning. This loss shows up as "scar tissue," a mark in that year's "ring" showing the fish has spawned.

Using scales taken from a number of fish in a commercial catch, biologists can determine the age of the majority of fish being caught at that time. If most are young and have not yet spawned, it indicates such "hard" fishing that next year's supply is threatened. Scale readings are corroborated by tagging and by measurements of size of fish.

House Passes Bill Taxing Excess Profits of American Corporations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Spurred by administration pleas for speed, the House jammed through to quick passage today a bill levying an "excess profits tax" on corporations and giving special tax treatment to the makers of military material.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it is reported to face some opposition in the Finance Committee.

The tax, applying to corporations regarless of whether they hold government contracts, ranges from twenty to fifty per cent on profits in excess of "normal." The nearest thing to an estimate of its yield was the "best guess" of Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn), one of the bill's managers, that it would produce $300,000,000 on 1940 corporation income and $900,000,000 annually thereafter.

Aimed at War Millionaires

The Ways and Means Committee said in its report that the tax was designed to prevent "creation of new war millionaires or the further substantial enrichment of already wealthy persons."

At the same time, the bill is intended to "break a bottleneck" in defense preparations, as Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) expressed it, by permitting contractors to deduct, when figuring taxes, the cost of expanding their plants for defense.

Another move to speed up the letting of defense contracts is a provision suspending — during the life of the excess profits tax — the Vinson-Trammel act's limitation on profits from government contracts for warships and aircraft. Those limitations are eight per cent on contracts let by competitive bids and seven per cent on negotiated contracts.

Urge Quick Passage

President Roosevelt and the Defense Commission had urged quick passage of the legislation. William S. Knudsen, one of the commissioners, said manufacturers had for a time held back on signing contracts because they were uncertain of the tax risks involved.

So easy was the bill's trip through the House that no one asked for a roll call vote. Only a weak scattering of "noes" was heard on the voice vote.

The legislation was brought up under procedure denounced by one member as "a gag of the most vicious kind," which prohibited offering of amendments not approved by the Ways and Means Committee, the group which drafted the bill.

Defense Commission Outlines Plan To Protect the Consuming Public

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Defense Commission outlined to retailers today a program for guarding Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer against "out-of-line prices" as a result of Uncle Sam's efforts to repair his ramparts.

Ben Lewis, chief economist of the consumers' division, told 140 representatives of national retail trade organizations that it already had been suggested that "we prepare the consumer for inevitable sacrifices."

"I am glad to say," he said, "that as of this date, we know of no total sacrifice—as distinct from minor inconveniences—which any consumers can properly be asked to make at this time in the name of defense."

Explains Basic Program

Explaining the basic program being set up for protection of normal civilian activity, Lewis said it would be carried out in this manner.

First, suggestions will be made as to how military purchases—not of an emergency nature—can be staggered so as not to disrupt the civilian markets.

"We shall never be found in the position of impeding government purchases," he added, "but we shall bring together significant information and urge that the fullest consideration be given to the timing and allocation of orders for military goods so that unnecessary strains and bottlenecks in the production of civilian goods shall not develop."

Second: An eye will be kept on price fluctuations through "a quickly operating system of accurate retail price reporting" that is being set up with the co-operation of the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the consumers' counsel of the department of agriculture.

Plan To Be on Top

"We plan to be 'on top' of the price situation as it develops in those lines of goods which are important in civilian budgets, or are particularly susceptible to the impact of the defense program, or which lend themselves easily to collusive control," he added.

"I can promise you that action will follow—action, which as men of business you will approve and support."

Lewis said that when there appeared to be no sound economic reason for "threatened or actual increases in prices," the parties participating in the increase would be asked for an explanation.

Then, if the increase is not abated, he said, the commission proposes to turn the light of publicity on it and, if necessary, "to call upon the assistance of the appropriate government agencies."

Returning pilots declared a surprise attack was hammered home spectacularly in the face of heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Liverpool Bombed

Both incendiary and demolition bombs were dropped in the morning darkness on Liverpool harbor; on Chathom, the military and naval center thirty miles southeast of London; on Thameshaven, lying on the north shore of the Thames estuary; on the ports of Middlesbrough, Cardiff and Bristol; on the airports of Eastchurch and Southend, in southeast England; on munitions, armament and airplane plants at Sheffield, Norwich, and Coventry.

One important British attack on a military objective—the vital synthetic gasoline producing plant at Leuna, near Leipsig—was acknowledged, but Germans asserted only "slight" damage was wrought.

As to the bombing of Berlin, during which the British raiders dropped explosives within two miles of Adolf Hitler's ornate headquarters in the Wilhelmstrasse, the Nazi high command declared coldly that residential sections were "intentionally attacked."

Ten Known Dead

At least ten persons were killed and thirty injured, most of them in a working class section. A series of fires was set off and bomb craters were left in various parts of the city. One of the attacking planes was shot down.

Military Committee Takes Quick Action, but Hard Fight Looms on Floor; May Vote Next Week

By RICHARD L. TURNER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — A peace-time draft bill, making all men from twenty-one to forty-four, inclusive, subject to conscription for military training, emerged from the House Military Committee today with the leadership drawing up plans for its House passage by the end of next week.

Acting quickly, a day after the Senate's vote passing a more restricted version of peacetime conscription the committee endorsed the measure, twenty to four. It deferred for the time being, however, action on an amendment empowering the government to seize defense production plants whose owners insist upon unduly high profits. A similar proposal was included in the Senate-approved measure.

Increase Defense Costs

The Senate, meanwhile, made rapid work of the huge $5,023,169,277 defense appropriation bill, adding $100,000,000 to provide housing for defense workers, and, at one point, engaging in a sharp exchange on the effect of such expenditures on the government's finances.

Downtown, the day produced an agreement between the navy and the United Aircraft Corporation for making 17,000 airplane engines, for both army and navy, by June, 1942. The job was said to entail a $2,500, plant expansion for United—with the government buying and retaining title to $7,000,000 worth of ma-

Rumania To Send Bulk of Army to The Soviet Line

Action To Be Taken As Soon As Land Disputes Are Settled

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, Aug. 30 (AP)—(Friday)—Reports circulated in the Rumanian capital today that attempts are being made by King Carol II to form a new cabinet in the midst of axis mediatory efforts to settle territorial demands of Rumania's bristling neighbors.

After an extraordinary cabinet session, in the Royal palace until near dawn, the king called in a number of prominent Iron Guard (Rumanian Nazi) members for private audiences.

BUCHAREST, Aug. 29—Rumania will throw the bulk of her army into a new line of defense near the Russian border as soon as territorial disputes with Bulgaria and Hungary have been settled definitely, diplomatic sources reported tonight.

Even Poor Fish Has No Secrets

Scales Show Age, Where It Was Born and a Whole Lot More

SOLOMON'S, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—A fish has no "secrets" if you can read his scales—and a biologist can.

The scales reveal not only the age, but how many times the fish has spawned, and even where it was born. Not only can its "home" be placed in Chesapeake bay as against the Hudson river, but even in what tributary of the Chesapeake.

These scale studies tell more accurately than was previously possible whether "overfishing" threatens the fish population, and hence are of great importance in conservation, explained David W. Wallace, biologist at the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory here.

The "scale reading" was developed by Dr. R. A. Nesbit of the United States Fish and Wild Life Service, and by Wallace at the laboratory directed by Dr. R. V. Truitt.

The age of fish is revealed by growth "rings" on the scale—little blank spaces where new scale was not laid down due to retarded growth during winter. These "rings" resemble the annular growth rings in trees.

The origin of the fish can be told because the growth rate of the scale in the first year depends upon the aquatic environment. These "environments" differ—in temperature, salinity, food supply—even in neighboring rivers or bays. Measuring this growth tells where the fish was born.

The fish resorbs calcium from the outer edge of the scale at each spawning. This loss shows up as "scar tissue," a mark in that year's "ring" showing the fish has spawned.

Using scales taken from a number of fish in a commercial catch, biologists can determine the age of the majority of fish being caught at that time. If most are young and have not yet spawned, it indicates such "hard" fishing that next year's supply is threatened. Scale readings are corroborated by tagging and by measurements of size of fish.

House Passes Bill Taxing Excess Profits of American Corporations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — Spurred by administration pleas for speed, the House jammed through to quick passage today a bill levying an "excess profits tax" on corporations and giving special tax treatment to the makers of military material.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it is reported to face some opposition in the Finance Committee.

The tax, applying to corporations regarless of whether they hold government contracts, ranges from twenty to fifty per cent on profits in excess of "normal." The nearest thing to an estimate of its yield was the "best guess" of Rep. Cooper (D-Tenn), one of the bill's managers, that it would produce $300,000,000 on 1940 corporation income and $900,000,000 annually thereafter.

Aimed at War Millionaires

The Ways and Means Committee said in its report that the tax was designed to prevent "creation of new war millionaires or the further substantial enrichment of already wealthy persons."

At the same time, the bill is intended to "break a bottleneck" in defense preparations, as Rep. Vinson (D-Ga) expressed it, by permitting contractors to deduct, when figuring taxes, the cost of expanding their plants for defense.

Another move to speed up the letting of defense contracts is a provision suspending — during the life of the excess profits tax — the Vinson-Trammel act's limitation on profits from government contracts for warships and aircraft. Those limitations are eight per cent on contracts let by competitive bids and seven per cent on negotiated contracts.

Urge Quick Passage

President Roosevelt and the Defense Commission had urged quick passage of the legislation. William S. Knudsen, one of the commissioners, said manufacturers had for a time held back on signing contracts because they were uncertain of the tax risks involved.

So easy was the bill's trip through the House that no one asked for a roll call vote. Only a weak scattering of "noes" was heard on the voice vote.

The legislation was brought up under procedure denounced by one member as "a gag of the most vicious kind," which prohibited offering of amendments not approved by the Ways and Means Committee, the group which drafted the bill.

Defense Commission Outlines Plan To Protect the Consuming Public

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Defense Commission outlined to retailers today a program for guarding Mr. and Mrs. Average Consumer against "out-of-line prices" as a result of Uncle Sam's efforts to repair his ramparts.

Ben Lewis, chief economist of the consumers' division, told 140 representatives of national retail trade organizations that it already had been suggested that "we prepare the consumer for inevitable sacrifices."

"I am glad to say," he said, "that as of this date, we know of no total sacrifice—as distinct from minor inconveniences—which any consumers can properly be asked to make at this time in the name of defense."

Explains Basic Program

Explaining the basic program being set up for protection of normal civilian activity, Lewis said it would be carried out in this manner.

First, suggestions will be made as to how military purchases—not of an emergency nature—can be staggered so as not to disrupt the civilian markets.

"We shall never be found in the position of impeding government purchases," he added, "but we shall bring together significant information and urge that the fullest consideration be given to the timing and allocation of orders for military goods so that unnecessary strains and bottlenecks in the production of civilian goods shall not develop."

Second: An eye will be kept on price fluctuations through "a quickly operating system of accurate retail price reporting" that is being set up with the co-operation of the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the consumers' counsel of the department of agriculture.

Plan To Be on Top

"We plan to be on top of the price situation as it develops in those lines of goods which are important in civilian budgets, or are particularly susceptible to the impact of the defense program, or which lend themselves easily to collusive control," he added.

"I can promise you that action will follow—action, which as men of business you will approve and support."

Lewis said that when there appeared to be no sound economic reason for "threatened or actual increases in prices," the parties participating in the increase would be asked for an explanation.

Then, if the increase is not abated, he said, the commission proposes to turn the light of publicity on it and, if necessary, "to call upon the assistance of the appropriate government agencies."

Norwegian Crown Princess Guest of Roosevelt at Fair

Visits Exhibits, Sideshows, Races and Hot Dog Stands

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt introduced Norwegian royalty today to one of America's famed rural institutions—a typical county fair with its exhibits, side-shows, races and hot dog stands.

With Crown Princess Martha by his side and her two daughters clambering over his car, Mr. Roosevelt spent an hour watching a horse show at the Dutchess county fair at nearby Rhinebeck.

Then they drove through a building of grange exhibits, in which the president's own chapel corners grange took the blue ribbon.

Drive from New York

The crown princess and her children, Princess Ragnhild, 10, Princess Astrid, 8, and Prince Harald, 3, drove up from New York City this morning in time for lunch.

They were accompanied by the Countess Ragni Ostgaard, lady in waiting; her son, Einar, 11; Wedel Jarlsberg, master of the Norwegian court; the Norwegian minister to the United States, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, and Mrs. Morgenstierne; Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, the president's naval aide; and George T. Summerlin, state department protocol chief.

Seek Permanent Home

All were luncheon guests but only the members of the Royal family and the Ostgaards remained on, for perhaps a week's stay, while efforts are made to find them a more permanent home in America.

The president arranged to make a short, informal talk Saturday at an annual reception given him by neighbors and friends who are members of the Roosevelt Home Club.

Harry L. Hopkins, who resigned as Secretary of Commerce because of bad health, also accepted an invitation to speak.

Presidential aides said Mr. Roosevelt's talk would be only of "local interest."

ment of the Dobruja question awaits only formal signature, but the Transylvanian dispute with Hungary still is hanging fire.

The Rumanian general staff, diplomats said, already is working on plans to make the Siretul river an "impregnable second line of defense" which Rumanians are convinced they could hold, even against the Red army.

Withdrawal of certain troops and supplies from the Soviet-Rumanian border, mentioned in last night's communique, now are disclosed to have been made to the Siretul line.

There is no official confirmation of rumors of new Russian frontier incidents. Authorities said these probably were merely "amplification of earlier reports" of clashes occurring there earlier this week.

The delicacy of the Russo-Rumanian situation was emphasized by reports that the mixed Russian-Rumanian commission sitting in Odessa for the past two months is swamped with complaints, demands and complicated technical problems arising out of the tranfer of Bessarabia to Russia. Feeling is still tense along the new border.

Many residents of southern Bucovina, fearful of further clashes between Soviet and Rumainan forces, were reported moving hurriedly southward into the old kingdom of Rumania.

Berlin Has

no material military objectives were hit. Foreign correspondents, in a quick trip of inspection, saw no damage of military importance.

The afternoon press discussed these raids defiantly.

It was announced that in future raids all telephone and telegraph communications from Germany will be halted until half an hour after the all clear signals sound.

Then, it was said, automobiles will be put at the disposal of of foreign correspondent to inspect any section of Berlin or its suburbs that they desire and make their reports.

No information may be sent from Germany while raids are in progress, it was added, lest British aviators intercept such messages and use them for military purposes.

Carol had made a declaration that he will yield no more territory to Soviet Russia and that hundreds of Rumanians are fleeing from the corner about Dorohoi, scene of a sanguinary Rumanian-Russian clash this week.

A mass reparation of --0,000 persons of German blood from Russian occupied Bessarabia and Bucovina in an agreement with the Soviet was announced today by DNB, official German news agency.

"SEA TANKS" ADD TO SOVIET NAVAL STRENGTH

Both in the Baltic, where this picture was made, and in the Black Sea near Rumania and Turkey, Russian naval strength has been greatly augmented by addition to the Red fleet of thousands of these armored speedboats, fitted with torpedo tubes and small guns. If the latest Balkan crisis develops into war, these craft may play a decisive role.

sition will, if the Republicans come into power, force us to make one concession after another to the totalitarian countries.

"These appeasers will have their way if the Republicans win, because they have contributed largely, both politically and financially, to the Republican cause. These people believe the Republicans in power could give them profitable business with a German-controlled Europe at the earliest possible moment."

Wallace linked the economic destinies of nations in the western hemisphere with the outcome of the present European conflict.

Praises Roosevelt

The vice presidential nominee characterized President Roosevelt as a symbol of democracy, particularly to the western nations.

"He has proved his friendship for them by more than seven years of fair dealing as a good neighbor," the speaker said. "Hitler must not be permitted to break the solidarity of the Americas."

Both Germany and the United States were shaken in 1932 by the depression, he continued, but "Germany met that crisis with dictatorship. The United States met it with Democracy and Roosevelt."

President Roosevelt "earlier than almost anyone else," Wallace said, perceived that the resultant dominating world issue was "freedom and a higher standard of living for all except the Nazi governing class."

"Time after time the president voiced the broadest possible warnings to the public in an effort to stir our people from their slumber. For these efforts he was charged with being a warmonger. Events have proved both the sincerity of his warnings and the accuracy of his judgment."

Turning to the farm issue the candidate said the GOP has selected "a campaign manager who in fifteen years in Congress has never voted for one vital and constructive farm law."

Scores Republicans

Wallace also said the Republicans voted 106 to 38 against appropriations for commodity loans on farm crops "four weks ago in Congress."

"Mind you," he observed, "this attempt to deal a mortal blow to the farm program was made only five weeks after the Republican party in solemn convention had pledged itself to help the farmer including in such help commodity loans. The Republican leaders say nice things about the farm program to get votes from the farmer. But when it comes to voting for the farmer, they don't deliver the goods."

Wallace said farm income and factory payrolls, "the two strong legs of recovery, have both been more than doubled" since 1933. Business profits, he added, "have been restored and increased."

"The Roosevelt remedy," he said, "was not a resort to dictatorship which so many conservatives were demanding in 1933, but simply more democracy. The Roosevelt programs gave more power to the people."

A "splendid start" has been made toward building up the nation's defenses," Wallace said, "but it is only a start."

In addition to army, navy and air force increases, he listed as a defense factor the "tremendous reserve supplies" of commodities stored in warehouses and bins under the AAA's "ever normal granary."

Touching on the administration's activites in combatting "fifth columns," Wallace declared:

"We are determined to break up the gigantic international conspiracy through which the Nazis are trying to subjugate our country."

Raids Continue

o'clock last night (6 p. m., eastern standard time).

At the same time other raiders were over other British towns — northeast, northwest, southwest, southeast.

Summing up yesterday's daylight operations, the ministry of Home Security declared early this morning that the Germans had machine gunned civilians in the Scilly Isles and in a southeast town, that a "small number" of civilians had been injured, and some fires set off by Nazi incenditary bombs. Nine German planes were declared shot down yesterday, against three British craft lost.

200 Planes Driven Off

During yesterday afternoon, British fighter planes had put to rout a 200-plane wave of German bombers which was heading for London.

A big formation of German fighter craft was beaten off, too, on the outskirts of a south coast town at 20,000 feet. They centered their attack on British barrage balloons, using aerial cannon. Three planes were destroyed in that single engagement, one of them British.

The German raiders this afternoon were engaged high above the Thames estuary, and witnesses said they were to preoccupied with swarming Spitfires, Defiants and Hurricanes to unload a single bomb.

The invaders broke their lofty formations and raced southeast for the channel.

A few hours later a strong formation of German Messerschmitt fighters swarmed to the outskirts of a south coast town at 20,000 feet and swooped to attack barrage balloons. Spitfires and Hurricane pilots fought them off, using machine-guns against the Germans' aerial cannon. Three planes came crashing down, one of them British.

Raid Military Objectives

This, however, came during a comparative lull in the vast aerial battle of island and continent, and it took second place to the accounts by the young men of two RAF squadrons who, in the words of the air ministry, rained "high explosive and incendiary bombs on a series of carefully selected military objectives and on works vital to air production" in Berlin Wednesday midnight.

Authorized accounts told of an eager scramble for places in the British planes; in one case, a coin was tossed to decide which pilot would get a seat, and then the beeline flight to Berlin.

"We took seven hours exactly," said one pilot.

Many Fires Started

"We bombed at midnight exactly . . .Somebody had been there before us. . .When we arrived we found the target well on fire. . . We could see it when we were twenty-five flying minutes away. . . We put our stick of bombs down just to the left of the big fire. . . Then four more fires started. . . They were burning with very bright, white lights . . . Altogether we were cruising around over Berlin for about half an hour."

The main target was stated officially to have been "only four miles from the center" of Berlin.

Today's battle over the Thames estuary, which turned spiraling exhaust streams into a frosty lacework against the sky marked the high point of aerial activity for both belligerents.

It was the most ambitious effort in the Germans' daytime followup of a night of fire-making and explosive bombing such as England and Wales had never seen before. All parts of the country reported fires demolition and death or injury to civilians as a result of the Wednesday to Thursday night assault.

It was London's worst night of the war.

Other fighting in the southeast and over two Welsh towns today were minor actions and at day's end there were no reports of damage or casualties.

Nice Invited

Former Governor Harry W. Nice, Republican candidate for the United States Senate who is opposing Radcliffe, was invited along with the two other living ex-governors of Maryland — Emerson C. Harrington and Phillips Lee Goldsborough.

Alton Y. Bennett of Frederick is president of the Jeffersonian Club. He and Mayor Lloyd C. Culler of Frederick represented Frederick county at the speakers table.

Ritchie was first elected in 1920 and won re-election three times, serving until Nice defeated him and took office in 1935. He died in February, 1936.

Willkie Sees

He added that if he were a member of the House he would vote against the bill if it contained authority for the government to take over private facilities in peacetime.

Such a provision, the Republican nominee said, actually would retard the defense program because private enterprise would be reluctant to build or expand plants "if the government could step in and seize them at any time."

He expressed belief that a majority of the people would welcome Senate approval of manpower conscription. He said he hoped the House "will quickly follow suit," and added that under a selective program "the sons of the rich as well as the sons of the poor and all others will serve."

Would Require

will begin consideration of the bill next Tuesday. Chairman May (D-Ky) said he would ask the Rules Committee for a rule allowing two days of general debate, and unlimited amendment thereafter, under the "five-minute rule." This inables any member to present an amendment and speak on it for that length of time.

Controversy developed within the committee on the question of including the Russell-Overton amendment which, adopted yesterday by the Senate, authorizes the government to take over industrial plants, needed for defense production, when no satisfactory agreement on prices chine tools — and six to eight months' preparatory work before production can be begun.

Battle Over Age Limits

By contrast with the House Committee's conscription bill, the measure passed last night by the Senate requires men between twenty-one and thirty inclusive to register for the draft. Leaders fully expect the question of the age limits to develop into a major controversy when the bill is brought before the House. No effort was made in the committee to substitute either the Senate figures or the original eighteen-sixty-four of the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

Under present plans, the House and profits can be reached with the owner.

Substitute Amendment

Rep. Brooks (D-La) proposed the amendment today, but it was not brought to a vote, because Rep. Smith (D-Conn) suggested a substitute, containing the same fundamental purpose but intended to assure that the government shall not acquire title to the properties seized, and to permit their operation under their present owners, subject to government direction.

The Senate's big appropriation bill contains funds and authorizations for starting work on a "two-ocean navy," and for purchasing the myriad items of equipment necessary to the maintenance of an army of 1,200,000.

Noting that Congress would vote to spend more than $11,000,000,000 for defense at this session, Senator Vandenberg said that all new taxes would net but $900,000,000 for the year, and asserted:

"I share the country's enthusiasm for national defense, but I know this costs money and somebody will have to pay for it."

"It is no time to criticize," retorted Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), in charge of the bill for the appropriations committee. "We must not spare in expenses for defense."

Vandenberg Not Criticizing

Vandenberg heatedly denied that he was criticizing. He had voted for all the previous defense appropriations, he said, and firmly believed in "total defense." He added that "in the final analysis the public credit is the first line of defense."

"The country's credit was never sounder than it is today," said McKellar.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass) vehemently complained that the bill endeavored to increase the profits of airplane manufacturers 'less than twenty-four hours after senators voted to conscript a year from the life of our youth."

"What will the country say about this," he demanded.

Walsh, an opponent of conscription, issued a formal statement later criticizing the measure passed last night.

"It should be clearly understood that the conscription bill which passed the Senate last night is not in any respect whatsoever a universal military training bill," he said. "Instead the measure sets up bureaucratic boards in every community, who are to register all male citizens between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one and will autocratically select a certain number of young men and draft them into the regular army, to be sent to any army post, anywhere in the western hemisphere, to at once train with regular troops.

"There is practically no objection by anyone in the Congress to a universal system of military training. The objection to the bill as passed is that power is given to these bureaus to select not all who are eligible, but a limited number and order them into the regular army service."

Norman Thomas Scores Both FDR And Opponent

Socialist Candidate Airs His Opinions of Rival Candidates

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Socialist Leader Norman Thomas took a look at the major party presidential candidates today, asserted that neither of them was discussing the "real issues" and that "personality and prejudice" would largely determine the election day winner.

Thomas talked to newsmen as a prelude to his own presidential campaign tour of 15,000 miles which will start in Buffalo, Sept. 4 and wind up in Boston, Nov. 4. This is the fourth consecutive time Thomas has been his party's presidential candidate.

"In personal charm and temperament both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie are alike," he said, adding that "both are doing a bad job in statesmanship and political leadership—not a good job. So far neither candiates has shown much."

Speaking of the campaign, he said "the Liberals are split, some being for Willkie and some for Roosevelt." He believed, he said, the labor vote was "overwhelmingly for Roosevelt, the so-called middle class commuter vote for Willkie and the farm vote split about 50-50 as of today."

"Willkie so far has been running on political 'it'" he continued, "but his political snowball is not rolling so well now. Willkie's acceptance speech forecast no integrated leadership but was pieced together."

Turning to Mr. Roosevelt, Thomas said: "The president's foreign policy is vulnerable to the nth degree."

"In 1936 he made an isolationist speech; in 1937 he spoke of collective security. Before the blitzkreig by Germany he gave the impression that he would throw the weight of American power for righteousness, and after the German attack he sought to have the country believe that we couldn't ever defend Omaha."

Five Corporations Accused of Fraud By Special Jury

Indictments Voted for Alleged Conspiracy in War Industries

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—For the third time in as many days, the special federal grand jury investigating war industries voted an indictment today, this time accusing five corporations and eight individuals of conspiring to control the production and sale of bentonite.

All the indictments have alleged violations of the anti-trust laws. The first in the series accused four companies and six individuals of price-fixing in the airplane fabric industry, the second named four companies and six individuals in the glass bulb industry.

Control Bentonite Output

In the indictment today, the grand jury asserted the defendants controlled more than 90 per cent of the nation's total output of bentonite—a natural clay used for castings of artillery gun carriages, airplane motor blocks, tank and tractor treads and other heavy materials vital to national defense.

Named in the bill were:

American Colloid Company of Lead, S. D., and Paul Bechter, president;

Wyodack Chemical Company of Cleveland, O., and Ralpy Ditty and Louis H. Heyl, president and general manager, respectively;

F. E. Schundler Bentonite Company of Belle Fourche, S. D., and F. E. Schundler, president.

Whitehead Brothers Company of New York, and Alfred J. Miller and A. Y. Gregory, president and vice president;

Processing Corporation of America, New York, and Joseph A. Anglada, president;

Nelson Littell, patent attorney, of New York.

Enjoyed Monopoly

The indictment said the defendants enjoyed a virtual monopoly in the bentonite trade since 1937 through three patents relating to a method of mixing the clay with foundry sand and thus permitting continued use of the latter, which heretofore had been discarded after one casting process.

Judge John Knotts Is Recommended For Judgeship

DENTON, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—Speculation over a successor to the late William Mason Shehan as chief judge of the Second Judicial circuit was started today by a recommendation that the appointment go to Judge J. Owen Knotts, of Denton.

Judge Knotts, now an associate judge of the Second Circuit, was recommended to Governor O'Conor by the Caroline County Bar Association.

There has been no indication from Annapolis as to when a successor will be named, or as to who is being considered.

Judge Shehan, one of the most prominent residents of the Eastern Shore, died Sunday. His term would not have expired until 1949.

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

For the sixth successive night Germany's warplanes discharged screaming death and destruction on England and early today a number of casualties resulted in a London residential area.

Under wartime censorship, no estimate on dead and injured was possible.

A single raider dropped scream bombs without much effect in a southeast town; a northeast coast town was hit by fire bombs that left several persons homeless.

There was no repetition of last night's British bombing attacks on Berlin and the citizens there, though warned to be ready for more raids, slept undisturbed.

Balkan turmoil growing out of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute over Transylvania was reflected in Bucharest by reports that King Carol was seeking to form a new cabinet.

Seek Peaceful Solution

The king summoned in cabinet, the crown council and leaders of the Rumanian Nazi organization, the Iron Guard, to discuss reports from Rumania's emissary to the Vienna conference called by the Axis powers in the hope of settling the controversy peacebly.

At Bologna, Italy, an unexplained munitions factory explosion killed ten persons and injured many others last night.

Two more French African territories switched their allegiance to Britain in the war against the Axis powers as desperate air fighting heaped death and ruin on two continents, from Norway to the equator.

The French Cameroons and Congo followed the lead of the Chad territory — Italian Libya's southern neighbor, it was announced by Gen. Charles De Gaulle, London leader of the "free Frenchmen" and recently sentenced to death in Absentia by the Vichy government of Marshal Petain.

Form Vast Link

Together these three possessions make up nearly all of French equatorial Africa. With British territories, they form a vast land link between the Mediterranean, South Atlantic and the Red Sea.

The Petain government promptly termed the desertions as British-inspired rebellions and dismissed their governors in the areas.

Nazi warplanes darted about London's defenses for the sixth straight night seeking openings to dump their explosives and fire bombs. The new night raids followed day-long attacks on vital British ports and industrial works. German spokesmen claimed heavy destruction at the naval base of Portsmouth which they said was left "a sea of flames."

The ports of Chatham, Bristol, Liverpool and Cardiff also were attacked.

British officials did not disclose the extent of property damage nor the uncounted civilians dying in flaming, battered homes or blown out of underground shelters where they sought safety.

The British pointed to their own widespread attacks on Berlin and other "selected military objectives" in western Germany and Norway such as ports, supply centers, factories and railway junctions.

Both sides accused each other of deliberate indiscriminate bombing of civilians.

Delayed Action Bombs Used

Ten persons were killed and twenty-eight injured in the raid on Berlin, and casualties were believed heavy in London. Added to the horror of these night and day-long atatcks were the delayed-action bombs, exploding hours after all-clear signals released millions from underground shelters.

RAF fighters intercepted one wave of 200 Nazi raiders late yesterday over the southeast coast, broke up their formation, and sent them roaring back to France, officials said.

As usual, each side claimed at least a 2-1 advantage in the number of planes downed.

In Rome the Facist high command declared its bombers bombed the Suez canal Wednesday for the first time. The Suez is Britain's vital empire-supply link.

House Passes

Debate was limited to two hours.

Several members objected in strong language to this procedure. Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif), for one, saying that it was contrary to the form of parliamentary government.

Fewer members criticized the bill. Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), objected to what the called the "aimless haste in the formulation of tax policies." Rep. Ford (R-Calif) declared the legislation "further taxed, over-taxed, over-regulated and harassed business" and probably would result in the "slow assassination" of the affected corporations.

Rep. Cooper said that only about 70,000 corporations would be affected. Those earning less than $5,000 would be exempt.

Earnings of all corporations up to seven per cent on the remainder of their investment would be declared "normal" and hence exempt.

Or, if it desired, a corporation could figure as normal profits its average earnings for the 1936-39 period, and pay the tax only on profits in excess of that figure.

However, in case its profit amounted to more than ten per cent of its investment, its income tax rate would go up from twenty and nine-tenths to twenty-five per cent.

Zivic Defeats Sammy Angott in Non-title Scrap

Wins Right To Meet Henry Armstrong Next Month

PITTSBRUGH, Aug. 29 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, punched his way to a decision tonight over the NBA lightweight champion Sammy Angott, of Washington, Pa., and Louisville, Ky., in ten fast rounds before 10,726 fans at Forbes Field.

Zivic's 143¼ pounds gave him a 6¼ weight advantage.

The decision in the non-title battle was unanimous. Zivic took charge in the first round and never was headed.

Henry Armstrong, the negro champion, who has signed to risk his welterweight title in a bout here next month against the winner in a Dapper Dan charity affair here, was a spectator.

There were no knockdowns but in the eighth Zivic's two-handed attack had his opponent bewildered and the Zivic rooters began yelling for a knockout.

Ben Moroz, 299, of Philadelphia, billed as the biggest man in the ring, lost by a technical knockout in the fourth round of a scheduled six round bout to Big Jim Thompson, 235-pound Pittsburgh negro.

Moroz winner of Golden and Silver glove boxing titles in Philadelphia two years ago, came up with a nasty cut over his left eye after taking a nine count causing Referee Al Graybar to end the contest.

Jackie Conn, 166, kid brother of Light Heavywight Champion Billy Conn, lost his first pro fight at home when Lou Pitts, 157, also of Pittsburgh, gave him a good lacing in six rounds.

In the last bout Saverio Turiello, 150, Italy, won a split decision over Carmen Notch, 147, of Pittsburgh in eight rounds.

250,000 Spaniards To Leave France For Mexico Homes

LES VERRIERES, Franco-Swiss Frontier, Aug. 29 (AP)—France and Mexico have signed an agreement at Vichy whereby all Spanish refugees in France since the Spanish civil war, numbering about 250,000, are to migrate to Mexico, it was reported tonight.

It also was reported from Vichy that the Mexican government was negotiating with Washington to charter United States ships to transport the homeless Spaniards to Mexico.

The agreement between France and Mexico was said to have been signed by Paul Baudouin, French foreign minister, and Louis Rodriguez for Mexico. The text is to be published Sept. 1.

Frederick Citizens Would Have Board To Handle Police

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—A bi-partisan commission to direct Frederick's city police department and a non-resident director of public safety have been recommended by a Citizen's committee after several months' study.

They urged that strict requirements be set up for the police department personnel, and that members of the force be denied any participation in politics.

The police on the other hand would enjoy a form of civil service under which they could be dismissed only for certain reasons, and they would be entitled to hearings. They also would be eligible for retirement at sixty-five, or before that if disabled.

The police commissioner would have full authority in directing the department, reporting its actions to the mayor and aldermen. The Citizens' committee recommended that the commission be created "on or before the next calendar year."

Under the committee's proposal, a non-resident director of public safety, or chief, would be named by the mayor and board for a three-year period.

He would have "full and absolute charge of all policemen or constables under the direction of the mayor and board of aldermen."

Willkie To Speak In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Wendell Willkie definifely will speak in Baltimore during his presidential campaign, Paul Robertson, chairman of the Republican City Committee, reported tonight on his return from a conference at Willkie headquarters in New York.

Robertson said the date and other details of the address would be announced soon.

Two District Deputy Game Wardens Named

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Appointment of district deputy game wardens for Frederick and Prince George's counties were announced today by Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte.

The appointments, based on civil service examinations:

Frederick county: B. Walter Kettells, Walkersville, succeeding Benjamin F. Phebus, who was named regional warden of the second region.

Prince George's: William J. Fierstein, Bladensburg, succeeding Arthur D. Jones, also promoted to regional warden.

LeCompte said Kettells placed first on the list in his examination, and Fierstein, who placed second in the Prince George's test, was given preference because he is a war veteran.

Applicants from the eligible list were given interviews and physical examinations before the appointments were made, LeCompte said.

Two other district deputies will be named in September, he added, one to succeed Joseph A. Minke, Allegany county, who is now regional warden of region one, the other to succeed Richard S. Browning, Garrett county, who retired because of physical disability.

The state has six regions, each one covering four counties, except for region one, composed of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Norwegian Crown Princess Guest of Roosevelt at Fair

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt introduced Norwegian royalty today to one of America's famed rural institutions—a typical county fair with its exhibits, side-shows, races and hot dog stands.

With Crown Princess Martha by his side and her two daughters clambering over his car, Mr. Roosevelt spent an hour watching a horse show at the Dutchess county fair at nearby Rhinebeck.

Then they drove through a building of grange exhibits, in which the president's own chapel corners grange took the blue ribbon.

Drive from New York

The crown princess and her children, Princess Ragnhild, 10, Princess Astrid, 8, and Prince Harald, 3, drove up from New York City this morning in time for lunch.

They were accompanied by the Countess Ragni Ostgaard, lady in waiting; her son, Einar, 11; Wedel Jarlsberg, master of the Norwegian court; the Norwegian minister to the United States, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, and Mrs. Morgenstierne; Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, the president's naval aide; and George T. Summerlin, state department protocol chief.

Seek Permanent Home

All were luncheon guests but only the members of the Royal family and the Ostgaards remained on, for perhaps a week's stay, while efforts are made to find them a more permanent home in America.

The president arranged to make a short, informal talk Saturday at an annual reception given him by neighbors and friends who are members of the Roosevelt Home Club.

Harry L. Hopkins, who resigned as Secretary of Commerce because of bad health, also accepted an invitation to speak.

Presidential aides said Mr. Roosevelt's talk would be only of "local interest."

Rumania To Send

ment of the Dobruja question awaits only formal signature, but the Transylvanian dispute with Hungary still is hanging fire.

The Rumanian general staff, diplomats said, already is working on plans to make the Siretul river an "impregnable second line of defense" which Rumanians are convinced they could hold, even against the Red army.

Withdrawal of certain troops and supplies from the Soviet-Rumanian border, mentioned in last night's communique, now are disclosed to have been made to the Siretul line.

There is no official confirmation of rumors of new Russian frontier incidents. Authorities said these probably were merely "amplification of earlier reports" of clashes occurring there earlier this week.

The delicacy of the Russo-Rumanian situation was emphasized by reports that the mixed Russian-Rumanian commission sitting in Odessa for the past two months is swamped with complaints, demands and complicated technical problems arising out of the tranfer of Bessarabia to Russia. Feeling is still tense along the new border.

Many residents of southern Bucovina, fearful of further clashes between Soviet and Rumainan forces, were reported moving hurriedly southward into the old kingdom of Rumania.

Berlin Has

no material military objectives were hit. Foreign correspondents, in a quick trip of inspection, saw no damage of military importance.

The afternoon press discussed these raids defiantly.

It was announced that in future raids all telephone and telegraph communications from Germany will be halted until half an hour after the all clear signals sound.

Then, it was said, automobiles will be put at the disposal of of foreign correspondent to inspect any section of Berlin or its suburbs that they desire and make their reports.

No information may be sent from Germany while raids are in progress, it was added, lest British aviators intercept such messages and use them for military purposes.

Germany, Italy

Carol had made a declaration that he will yield no more territory to Soviet Russia and that hundreds of Rumanians are fleeing from the corner about Dorohoi, scene of a sanguinary Rumanian-Russian clash this week.

A mass reparation of --0,000 persons of German blood from Russian occupied Bessarabia and Bucovina in an agrement with the Soviet was announced today by DNB, official German news agency.

"SEA TANKS" ADD TO SOVIET NAVAL STRENGTH

Both in the Baltic, where this picture was made, and in the Black Sea near Rumania and Turkey, Russian naval strength has been greatly augmented by addition to the Red fleet of thousands of these armored speedboats, fitted with torpedo tubes and small guns. If the latest Balkan crisis develops into war, these craft may play a decisive role.

Asserts Election

sition will, if the Republicans come into power, force us to make one concession after another to the totalitarian countries.

"These appeasers will have their way if the Republicans win, because they have contributed largely, both politically and financially, to the Republican cause. These people believe the Republicans in power could give them profitable business with a German-controlled Europe at the earliest possible moment."

Wallace linked the economic destinies of nations in the western hemisphere with the outcome of the present European conflict.

Praises Roosevelt

The vice presidential nominee characterized President Roosevelt as a symbol of democracy, particularly to the western nations.

"He has proved his friendship for them by more than seven years of fair dealing as a good neighbor," the speaker said. "Hitler must not be permitted to break the solidarity of the Americas."

Both Germany and the United States were shaken in 1932 by the depression, he continued, but "Germany met that crisis with dictatorship. The United States met it with Democracy and Roosevelt."

President Roosevelt "earlier than almost anyone else," Wallace said, perceived that the resultant dominating world issue was "freedom and a higher standard of living for all except the Nazi governing class."

"Time after time the president voiced the broadest possible warnings to the public in an effort to stir our people from their slumber. For these efforts he was charged with being a warmonger. Events have proved both the sincerity of his warnings and the accuracy of his judgment."

Turning to the farm issue the candidate said the GOP has selected "a campaign manager who in fifteen years in Congress has never voted for one vital and constructive farm law."

Scores Republicans

Wallace also said the Republicans voted 106 to 38 against appropriations for commodity loans on farm crops "four weks ago in Congress."

"Mind you," he observed, "this attempt to deal a mortal blow to the farm program was made only five weeks after the Republican party in solemn convention had pledged itself to help the farmer including in such help commodity loans. The Republican leaders say nice things about the farm program to get votes from the farmer. But when it comes to voting for the farmer, they don't deliver the goods."

Wallace said farm income and factory payrolls, "the two strong legs of recovery, have both been more than doubled" since 1933. Business profits, he added, "have been restored and increased."

"The Roosevelt remedy," he said, "was not a resort to dictatorship which so many conservatives were demanding in 1933, but simply more democracy. The Roosevelt programs gave more power to the people."

A "splendid start" has been made toward building up the nation's defenses," Wallace said, "but it is only a start."

In addition to army, navy and air force increases, he listed as a defense factor the "tremendous reserve supplies" of commodities stored in warehouses and bins under the AAA's "ever normal granary."

Touching on the administration's activites in combatting "fifth columns," Wallace declared:

"We are determined to break up the gigantic international conspiracy through which the Nazis are trying to subjugate our country."

Raids Continue

o'clock last night (6 p. m., eastern standard time).

At the same time other raiders were over other British towns — northeast, northwest, southwest, southeast.

Summing up yesterday's daylight operations, the ministry of Home Security declared early this morning that the Germans had machine gunned civilians in the Scilly Isles and in a southeast town, that a "small number" of civilians had been injured, and some fires set off by Nazi incenditary bombs. Nine German planes were declared shot down yesterday, against three British craft lost.

200 Planes Driven Off

During yesterday afternoon, British fighter planes had put to rout a 200-plane wave of German bombers which was heading for London.

A big formation of German fighter craft was beaten off, too, on the outskirts of a south coast town at 20,000 feet. They centered their attack on British barrage balloons, using aerial cannon. Three planes were destroyed in that single engagement, one of them British.

The German raiders this afternoon were engaged high above the Thames estuary, and witnesses said they were to preoccupied with swarming Spitfires, Defiants and Hurricanes to unload a single bomb.

The invaders broke their lofty formations and raced southeast for the channel.

A few hours later a strong formation of German Messerschmitt fighters swarmed to the outskirts of a south coast town at 20,000 feet and swooped to attack barrage balloons. Spitfires and Hurricane pilots fought them off, using machine-guns against the Germans' aerial cannon. Three planes came crashing down, one of them British.

Raid Military Objectives

This, however, came during a comparative lull in the vast aerial battle of island and continent, and it took second place to the accounts by the young men of two RAF squadrons who, in the words of the air ministry, rained "high explosive and incendiary bombs on a series of carefully selected military objectives and on works vital to air production" in Berlin Wednesday midnight.

Authorized accounts told of an eager scramble for places in the British planes; in one case, a coin was tossed to decide which pilot would get a seat, and then the beeline flight to Berlin.

"We took seven hours exactly," said one pilot.

Many Fires Started

"We bombed at midnight exactly . . .Somebody had been there before us. . .When we arrived we found the target well on fire. . . We could see it when we were twenty-five flying minutes away. . . We put our stick of bombs down just to the left of the big fire. . . Then four more fires started. . . They were burning with very bright, white lights . . . Altogether we were cruising around over Berlin for about half an hour."

The main target was stated officially to have been "only four miles from the center" of Berlin.

Today's battle over the Thames estuary, which turned spiraling exhaust streams into a frosty lacework against the sky marked the high point of aerial activity for both belligerents.

It was the most ambitious effort in the Germans' daytime followup of a night of fire-making and explosive bombing such as England and Wales had never seen before. All parts of the country reported fires demolition and death or injury to civilians as a result of the Wednesday to Thursday night assault.

It was London's worst night of the war.

Other fighting in the southeast and over two Welsh towns today were minor actions and at day's end there were no reports of damage or casualties.

Nice Invited

Former Governor Harry W. Nice, Republican candidate for the United States Senate who is opposing Radcliffe, was invited along with the two other living ex-governors of Maryland — Emerson C. Harrington and Phillips Lee Goldsborough.

Alton Y. Bennett of Frederick is president of the Jeffersonian Club. He and Mayor Lloyd C. Culler of Frederick represented Frederick county at the speakers table.

Ritchie was first elected in 1920 and won re-election three times, serving until Nice defeated him and took office in 1935. He died in February, 1936.

Willkie Sees

He added that if he were a member of the House he would vote against the bill if it contained authority for the government to take over private facilities in peacetime.

Such a provision, the Republican nominee said, actually would retard the defense program because private enterprise would be reluctant to build or expand plants "if the government could step in and seize them at any time."

He expressed belief that a majority of the people would welcome Senate approval of manpower conscription. He said he hoped the House "will quickly follow suit," and added that under a selective program "the sons of the rich as well as the sons of the poor and all others will serve."

Would Require

will begin consideration of the bill next Tuesday. Chairman May (D-Ky) said he would ask the Rules Committee for a rule allowing two days of general debate, and unlimited amendment thereafter, under the "five-minute rule." This inables any member to present an amendment and speak on it for that length of time.

Controversy developed within the committee on the question of including the Russell-Overton amendment which, adopted yesterday by the Senate, authorizes the government to take over industrial plants, needed for defense production, when no satisfactory agreement on prices chine tools — and six to eight months' preparatory work before production can be begun.

Battle Over Age Limits

By contrast with the House Committee's conscription bill, the measure passed last night by the Senate requires men between twenty-one and thirty inclusive to register for the draft. Leaders fully expect the question of the age limits to develop into a major controversy when the bill is brought before the House. No effort was made in the committee to substitute either the Senate figures or the original eighteen-sixty-four of the Burke-Wadsworth bill.

Under present plans, the House and profits can be reached with the owner.

Substitute Amendment

Rep. Brooks (D-La) proposed the amendment today, but it was not brought to a vote, because Rep. Smith (D-Conn) suggested a substitute, containing the same fundamental purpose but intended to assure that the government shall not acquire title to the properties seized, and to permit their operation under their present owners, subject to government direction.

The Senate's big appropriation bill contains funds and authorizations for starting work on a "two-ocean navy," and for purchasing the myriad items of equipment necessary to the maintenance of an army of 1,200,000.

Noting that Congress would vote to spend more than $11,000,000,000 for defense at this session, Senator Vandenberg said that all new taxes would net but $900,000,000 for the year, and asserted:

"I share the country's enthusiasm for national defense, but I know this costs money and somebody will have to pay for it."

"It is no time to criticize," retorted Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), in charge of the bill for the appropriations committee. "We must not spare in expenses for defense."

Vandenberg Not Criticizing

Vandenberg heatedly denied that he was criticizing. He had voted for all the previous defense appropriations, he said, and firmly believed in "total defense." He added that "in the final analysis the public credit is the first line of defense."

"The country's credit was never sounder than it is today," said McKellar.

Senator Walsh (D-Mass) vehemently complained that the bill endeavored to increase the profits of airplane manufacturers 'less than twenty-four hours after senators voted to conscript a year from the life of our youth."

"What will the country say about this," he demanded.

Walsh, an opponent of conscription, issued a formal statement later criticizing the measure passed last night.

"It should be clearly understood that the conscription bill which passed the Senate last night is not in any respect whatsoever a universal military training bill," he said. "Instead the measure sets up bureaucratic boards in every community, who are to register all male citizens between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one and will autocratically select a certain number of young men and draft them into the regular army, to be sent to any army post, anywhere in the western hemisphere, to at once train with regular troops.

"There is practically no objection by anyone in the Congress to a universal system of military training. The objection to the bill as passed is that power is given to these bureaus to select not all who are eligible, but a limited number and order them into the regular army service."

Norman Thomas Scores Both FDR And Opponent

Socialist Candidate Airs His Opinions of Rival Candidates

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Socialist Leader Norman Thomas took a look at the major party presidential candidates today, asserted that neither of them was discussing the "real issues" and that "personality and prejudice" would largely determine the election day winner.

Thomas talked to newsmen as a prelude to his own presidential campaign tour of 15,000 miles which will start in Buffalo, Sept. 4 and wind up in Boston, Nov. 4. This is the fourth consecutive time Thomas has been his party's presidential candidate.

"In personal charm and temperament both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie are alike," he said, adding that "both are doing a bad job in statesmanship and political leadership—not a good job. So far neither candiates has shown much."

Speaking of the campaign, he said "the Liberals are split, some being for Willkie and some for Roosevelt." He believed, he said, the labor vote was "overwhelmingly for Roosevelt, the so-called middle class commuter vote for Willkie and the farm vote split about 50-50 as of today."

"Willkie so far has been running on political 'it'" he continued, "but his political snowball is not rolling so well now. Willkie's acceptance speech forecast no integrated leadership but was pieced together."

Turning to Mr. Roosevelt, Thomas said: "The president's foreign policy is vulnerable to the nth degree."

"In 1936 he made an isolationist speech; in 1937 he spoke of collective security. Before the blitzkreig by Germany he gave the impression that he would throw the weight of American power for righteousness, and after the German attack he sought to have the country believe that we couldn't ever defend Omaha."

Five Corporations Accused of Fraud By Special Jury

Indictments Voted for Alleged Conspiracy in War Industries

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—For the third time in as many days, the special federal grand jury investigating war industries voted an indictment today, this time accusing five corporations and eight individuals of conspiring to control the production and sale of bentonite.

All the indictments have alleged violations of the anti-trust laws. The first in the series accused four companies and six individuals of price-fixing in the airplane fabric industry, the second named four companies and six individuals in the glass bulb industry.

Control Bentonite Output

In the indictment today, the grand jury asserted the defendants controlled more than 90 per cent of the nation's total output of bentonite—a natural clay used for castings of artillery gun carriages, airplane motor blocks, tank and tractor treads and other heavy materials vital to national defense.

Named in the bill were:

American Colloid Company of Lead, S. D., and Paul Bechter, president;

Wyodack Chemical Company of Cleveland, O., and Ralpy Ditty and Louis H. Heyl, president and general manager, respectively;

F. E. Schundler Bentonite Company of Belle Fourche, S. D., and F. E. Schundler, president.

Processing Corporation of America, New York, and Joseph A. Anglada, president;

Nelson Littell, patent attorney, of New York.

Enjoyed Monopoly

The indictment said the defendants enjoyed a virtual monopoly in the bentonite trade since 1937 through three patents relating to a method of mixing the clay with foundry sand and thus permitting continued use of the latter, which heretofore had been discarded after one casting process.

Judge John Knotts Is Recommended For Judgeship

DENTON, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—Speculation over a successor to the late William Mason Shehan as chief judge of the Second Judicial circuit was started today by a recommendation that the appointment go to Judge J. Owen Knotts, of Denton.

Judge Knotts, now an associate judge of the Second Circuit, was recommended to Governor O'Conor by the Caroline County Bar Association.

There has been no indication from Annapolis as to when a successor will be named, or as to who is being considered.

Judge Shehan, one of the most prominent residents of the Eastern Shore, died Sunday. His term would not have expired until 1949.

NORSE PRINCESS ON U. S. VISIT

Crown Princess Martha of Norway and her children arrive in New York on the United States refugee ship American Legion, out of Finland. They came to the U. S. from war-torn Europe on the invitation of President Roosevelt. The Princess visited America last year, but this is the first time for the children, Prince Harald, 3, the Princesses Ragnhild, 10, and Astrid, 8.

Summary of War News

By The Associated Press

For the sixth successive night Germany's warplanes discharged screaming death and destruction on England and early today a number of casualties resulted in a London residential area.

Under wartime censorship, no estimate on dead and injured was possible.

A single raider dropped scream bombs without much effect in a southeast town; a northeast coast town was hit by fire bombs that left several persons homeless.

There was no repetition of last night's British bombing attacks on Berlin and the citizens there, though warned to be ready for more raids, slept undisturbed.

Balkan turmoil growing out of the Hungarian-Rumanian dispute over Transylvania was reflected in Bucharest by reports that King Carol was seeking to form a new cabinet.

Seek Peaceful Solution

The king summoned in cabinet, the crown council and leaders of the Rumanian Nazi organization, the Iron Guard, to discuss reports from Rumania's emissary to the Vienna conference called by the Axis powers in the hope of settling the controversy peacebly.

At Bologna, Italy, an unexplained munitions factory explosion killed ten persons and injured many others last night.

Two more French African territories switched their allegiance to Britain in the war against the Axis powers as desperate air fighting heaped death and ruin on two continents, from Norway to the equator.

The French Cameroons and Congo followed the lead of the Chad territory — Italian Libya's southern neighbor, it was announced by Gen Charles De Gaulle, London leader of the "free Frenchmen" and recently sentenced to death in Absentia by the Vichy government of Marshal Petain.

Form Vast Link

Together these three possessions make up nearly all of French equatorial Africa. With British territories, they form a vast land link between the Mediterranean, South Atlantic and the Red Sea.

The Petain government promptly termed the desertions as British-inspired rebellions and dismissed their governors in the areas.

Nazi warplanes darted about London's defenses for the sixth straight night seeking openings to dump their explosives and fire bombs. The new night raids followed day-long attacks on vital British ports and industrial works. German spokesmen claimed heavy destruction at the naval base of Portsmouth which they said was left "a sea of flames."

The ports of Chatham, Bristol, Liverpool and Cardiff also were attacked.

British officials did not disclose the extent of property damage nor the uncounted civilians dying in flaming, battered homes or blown out of underground shelters where they sought safety.

The British pointed to their own widespread attacks on Berlin and other "selected military objectives" in western Germany and Norway such as ports, supply centers, factories and railway junctions.

Both sides accused each other of deliberate indiscriminate bombing of civilians.

Delayed Action Bombs Used

Ten persons were killed and twenty-eight injured in the raid on Berlin, and casualties were believed heavy in London. Added to the horror of these night and day-long atatcks were the delayed-action bombs, exploding hours after all-clear signals released millions from underground shelters.

RAF fighters intercepted one wave of 200 Nazi raiders late yesterday over the southeast coast, broke up their formation, and sent them roaring back to France, officials said.

As usual, each side claimed at least a 2-1 advantage in the number of planes downed.

In Rome the Facist high command declared its bombers bombed the Suez canal Wednesday for the first time. The Suez is Britain's vital empire-supply link.

House Passes

Debate was limited to two hours.

Several members objected in strong language to this procedure. Rep. Voorhis (D-Calif), for one, saying that it was contrary to the form of parliamentary government.

Fewer members criticized the bill.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), objected to what the called the "aimless haste in the formulation of tax policies." Rep. Ford (R-Calif) declared the legislation "further taxed, over-taxed, over-regulated and harassed business" and probably would result in the "slow assassination" of the affected corporations.

Rep. Cooper said that only about 70,000 corporations would be affected. Those earning less than $5,000 would be exempt.

Earnings of all corporations up to seven per cent on the remainder of their investment would be declared "normal" and hence exempt.

Or, if it desired, a corporation could figure as normal profits its average earnings for the 1936-39 period, and pay the tax only on profits in excess of that figure.

However, in case its profit amounted to more than ten per cent of its investment, its income tax rate would go up from twenty and nine-tenths to twenty-five per cent.

Zivic Defeats Sammy Angott in Non-title Scrap

Wins Right To Meet Henry Armstrong Next Month

PITTSBRUGH, Aug. 29 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh, punched his way to a decision tonight over the NBA lightweight champion Sammy Angott, of Washington, Pa., and Louisville, Ky., in ten fast rounds before 10,726 fans at Forbes Field.

Zivic's 143¾ pounds gave him a 6¼ weight advantage.

The decision in the non-title battle was unanimous. Zivic took charge in the first round and never was headed.

Henry Armstrong, the negro champion, who has signed to risk his welterweight title in a bout here next month against the winner in a Dapper Dan charity affair here, was a spectator.

There were no knockdowns but in the eighth Zivic's two-handed attack had his opponent bewildered and the Zivic rooters began yelling for a knockout.

Ben Moroz, 299, of Philadelphia, billed as the biggest man in the ring, lost by a technical knockout in the fourth round of a scheduled six round bout to Big Jim Thompson, 235-pound Pittsburgh negro.

Moroz winner of Golden and Silver glove boxing titles in Philadelphia two years ago, came up with a nasty cut over his left eye after taking a nine count causing Referee Al Graybar to end the contest.

Jackie Conn, 166, kid brother of Light Heavywight Champion Billy Conn, lost his first pro fight at home when Lou Pitts, 157, also of Pittsburgh, gave him a good lacing in six rounds.

In the last bout Saverio Turiello, 150, Italy, won a split decision over Carmen Notch, 147, of Pittsburgh in eight rounds.

250,000 Spaniards To Leave France For Mexico Homes

LES VERRIERES, Franco-Swiss Frontier, Aug. 29 (AP)—France and Mexico have signed an agrement at Vichy whereby all Spanish refugees in France since the Spanish civil war, numbering about 250,000, are to migrate to Mexico, it was reported tonight.

It also was reported from Vichy that the Mexican government was negotiating with Washington to charter United States ships to transport the homeless Spaniards to Mexico.

The agreement between France and Mexico was said to have been signed by Paul Baudouin, French foreign minister, and Louis Rodriguez for Mexico. The text is to be published Sept. 1.

Frederick Citizens Would Have Board To Handle Police

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—A bi-partisan commission to direct Frederick's city police department and a non-resident director of public safety have been recommended by a Citizen's committee after several months' study.

They urged that strict requirements be set up for the police department personnel, and that members of the force be denied any participation in politics.

The police on the other hand would enjoy a form of civil service under which they could be dismissed only for certain reasons, and they would be entitled to hearings. They also would be eligible for retirement at sixty-five, or before that if disabled.

The police commissioner would have full authority in directing the department, reporting its actions to the mayor and aldermen. The Citizens' committee recommended that the commission be created "on or before the next calendar year."

Under the committee's proposal, a non-resident director of public safety, or chief, would be named by the mayor and board for a three-year period.

He would have "full and absolute charge of all policemen or constables under the direction of the mayor and board of aldermen."

Willkie To Speak In Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Wendell Willkie definifely will speak in Baltimore during his presidential campaign, Paul Robertson, chairman of the Republican City Committee, reported tonight on his return from a conference at Willkie headquarters in New York.

Robertson said the date and other details of the address would be announced soon.

Two District Deputy Game Wardens Named

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP)—Appointment of district deputy game wardens for Frederick and Prince George's counties were announced today by Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte.

The appointments, based on civil service examinations:

Frederick county: B. Walter Kettells, Walkersville, succeeding Benjamin F. Phebus, who was named regional warden of the second region.

Prince George's: William J. Fierstein, Bladensburg, succeeding Arthur D. Jones, also promoted to regional warden.

LeCompte said Kettells placed first on the list in his examination, and Fierstein, who placed second in the Prince George's test, was given preference because he is a war veteran.

Applicants from the eligible list were given interviews and physical examinations before the appointments were made, LeCompte said.

Two other district deputies will be named in September, he added, one to succeed Joseph A. Minke, Allegany county, who is now regional warden of region one, the other to succeed Richard S. Browning, Garrett county, who retired because of physical disability.

The state has six regions, each one covering four counties, except for region one, composed of Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Pittsburgh's Steel Mills Boom As National Defense Program Piles Up Orders for Materials

100 per cent production

Steel for armament

Employment reaches new peak

By ALLEN J. FUNCH
Central Press Writer

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29—Pittsburgh's gigantic steel mills have reached capacity production.

From a high of 94.5 per cent of theoretical production reached last December, the steel industry slumped to 60.7 per cent last March 23.

Today the industry is once again well over 90 per cent of theoretical capacity—and actually has reached its capacity production.

Man and machine have been geared to the highest possible production schedules under the impetus of the largest and mightiest defense program ever carried out by a single nation.

For the next few months, at least, it is felt by executives in this area, the mills will continue to operate and produce the steel vital to the president's $14,000,000,000 defense program as rapidly as the red ore can be carried into the district from the Great Lakes ports.

24 Hours a Day

Day and night—in three eight-hour shifts—the nation's men of iron tend their roaring furnaces, casting tons of black soft coal smoke over the area as the snub-nosed Bessemer converters are tilted to the sky and allowed to burn off in a haze of brilliant sulphur-colored light.

Never since the days of the last World war has the district seen such activity. Never since the last World war has the steel worker so sharply felt the boom of the times.

Executives of Carnegie - Illinois Steel corporation, largest subsidiary of United States Steel, and Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, the largest independent producer in the Pittsburgh district, were unanimous in their predictions for a continued capacity production for the industry.

In substance, they reported:

"The present high rate of production seems bound to last for a long time.

"A sudden peace might affect the rate of production, but it seems more than likely that the national defense program will have advanced too far before any such move can or will be undertaken."

Reach Capacity

These executives reported that their mills have reached capacity production and that the theoretical capacity figures from now on will merely reflect slight variances in mill production due to heat waves or limits imposed by the machinery itself.

The United States navy alone already has begun to spend as much as $7,000,000 a month in the Pittsburgh area as work is being rushed to build a fleet capable of engaging any combination of foreign fleets which might attack the Western Hemisphere.

Captain Ralph T. Hanson, inspector of naval material here, said: "Steel, alumnium, armor plate, special alloys, electrical motors—in fact everything that goes into a battleship—are being purchased in increased quantities."

Money being expended by the army for defense materials is likewise reaching astronomical proportions.

The National Tube company at McKeesport recently reported receiving a $25,000,000 order for airplane bombs and other projectiles to be made of seamless pipe.

In order to fill the order, the company was forced suddenly to hire 1,000 to 1,500 additional men as well as to install considerable new machinery.

Aluminum Price Cut

A reflection of increased activity in the aluminum industry also was seen recently in the announcement by the Aluminum Company of America that it was cutting a cent a pound off its standard price. It was the second such cut this year.

The metal, which sold for 20 cents a pound until March 25, now sells for 19 cents a pound. The company reported the reduction was possible because of expansion of plant facilities and research activities and because of constant improvement of technique.

The company recently announced that a $56,000,000 expansion program, covering less than a five-year period, was nearing completion.

Large quantities of aluminum are used by the aircraft industry, which has been receiving awards from the government at better than $35,000,000 a day since June 6 under the guiding hand of William S. Knudsen, head of the defense production program.

In the first World war when boom times struck the Pittsburgh area it was noticeable in the demand for silk shirts, but today the steel workers seem to be going in for automobiles instead.

Since January, 1940, for instance, the number of new automobiles bought in this area has made a sensational rise of 57 per cent over the figure fo the previous year.

The Palace of Engineering, Wembley England, the largest concrete structure in the world, is so affected by temperature that it is one foot higher on a warm day than on a chilly night.

A 'Born Republican,' Any Way You Figure

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Gerry Garman of the sheriff's office says he's a "born Republican." He was born in Republic City, Republic county, on the Republic river in Kansas.

Garman's father and mother were Republicans; so were all his grandparents.

Cool Weather Holds Back Maryland Crops

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—The weekly report of weather and crop conditions in Maryland said the growing season was "about ten days backward of normal" due to a "very cool week."

"Crops, grasses and pastures improved somewhat," the report declared, adding, "crops are fair to good; grasses and pastures are fair. Growth and maturing of crops and fruits was retarded."

In Western Maryland, wheat and rye threshing ended, and a yield of sixteen bushels of wheat per acre was reported at Flintstone.

"Early tomatoes are plentiful and harvesting continues. Late tomatoes are maturing and reopening in the Eastern and Central divisions and developing in Western Maryland.

"Digging early potatoes continues in the Northern counties. Two-thirds of the crop has been dug at Sharpsburg.

"Late potato tubers are mostly good and are developing and sizing in Western Maryland, except there is some blight and they are maturing at Grantsville."

Some sweet potatoes are being dug at Easton and Snow Hill, and "they are excellent at Snow Hill."

The corn crop varies from poor to excellent, the report said, "but in general is mostly good."

Apples, peaches and pears are being picked.

"Sugar corn, string beans, cucumbers, pumpkins, cantalopes and watermelons are being harvested. Much ground was prepared for all sowing of grains."

The question of a general revision of Michigan's constitution is submitted to the voters every sixteenth year.

Why Democrats Cannot Stomach the Third Term

DEMOCRATS of the Jeffersonian type feel very strongly in opposition to the third term idea. The reason is that through the years the Democratic party has opposed it, and these citizens consider that in moving away from this sound tradition their party has been bilked and a long-established tenet unwarrantedly repudiated.

The Democratic national platform of 1896, for example, contained the following plank:

"We declare it to be the unwritten law of the republic, established by custom and usage of 100 years, and sanctified by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the presidential office."

February 10, 1928, the United States Senate adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved: That it is the sense of the Senate that the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

Among those voting for this resolution were: Senator Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman of the Democratic convention at Chicago; Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Platform committee at Chicago; Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee of the Senate; Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Finance committee of the Senate; Senator Henry F. Ashurst, chairman of the Judiciary committee of the Senate; Senators Elbridge Gerry, Carter Glass, Hayden, King, McKellar, Neely, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Oklahoma; Tydings and Wheeler, all members of the present United States Senate.

When those in charge of the recent Democratic national convention at Chicago maneuvered the renomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term as president, the engineer for that convention was none other than Senator Barkley. Also, nearly all of the Democrats who voted for the anti-third term resolution in 1928 took part in the ludicrous "drafting" of Roosevelt for a third term.

This record shows that the once proud Democratic party has been dragged into a deplorable stultification. It is no wonder so many real Democrats are now leaving the party, which, of course, is not now the Democratic party but Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal party.

Three Governmental Systems Essentially the Same

DELEGATES to the convention of the American Federation of Teachers are reported to have engaged in considerable argument over a resolution which condemned "all dictatorships, whether of Nazi, Fascist or Communist origin, whether in Germany, Italy or Russia."

Several disputants objected to the inclusion of Communism with Fascism and Nazilism, and the inclusion of Russia with Germany and Italy.

It is difficult to understand how any person, and particularly one as well informed as a teacher is supposed to be, can object to linking Russia with Germany and Italy as totalitarian states. If Germany and Italy are totalitarian, Russia certainly is.

Each of the three has shown an utter disregard for the rights of individuals within its borders. In each, the state regards itself as supreme, and the individual has no privileges that the government may not infringe upon as its whim directs. In fact, each of the three has shown a disregard of persons living outside its borders, and each has deliberately attacked small neighboring nations.

Mark Sullivan has repeatedly explained in his dispatches, which have appeared in the News, that all three schemes of government are the same in their fundamental ideologies, the only differences being that in Russia all property theoretically belongs to the state, while in Italy and Germany private ownership is permitted but under control of the state.

The same resolution which precipitated the dispute strangely contained a declaration in favor of democracy. The totalitarianism of Germany, Italy and Russia is the very antithesis of democracy. The two philosophies of government are in direct conflict. One can not be in sympathy with both.

Islands Would Have A Prestige Value

SOME FINANCIAL LEADERS in Wall Street are represented as believing that acquisition by the United States of British territory for naval bases in the Caribbean will be a great stroke for American business.

From the military viewpoint the most likely locations for bases on present British possessions are Bermuda, Antigua, Dominica, Trinidad, British Honduras, British Guiana and Jamaica. The Leeward and the Windward Isles, stretching from Puerto Rico to Venezuela, form a natural barrier to an attack on the Panama canal from the Atlantic side.

The United States now guards the Windward Passage south of Cuba from its base at Guantanamo and the Mona Passage from Puerto Rico. Other passages are unguarded and the leasing by Britain of these bases would give America an impressive military set-up in the Caribbean.

Financial leaders argue that Latin America is averse to hooking up to the United States commercially in any preponderant way. It is felt that if all these islands are fortified they will have an important commercial prestige value, giving the Latin countries greater assurance that the United States can and will offer military protection to its trade and commitments.

Air Conditioning Plays An Important Role

NO MORE STRIKING ILLUSTRATION of the increasing part air-conditioning is playing in the life of America could be found than in the circumstance that Congress has remained in session this summer with every evidence that its sojourn there on this occasion, for the first time in the history of the republic, has been with comfort.

When the Father of his Country selected the tract of land which is now the District of Columbia for the capital, he could not have expected Congress to consent to remain in session during July and August. For George Washington knew the climate along the Potomac and was aware the humidity on the banks of that watercourse could make a moderately high temperature intolerable.

But from time to time thereafter emergencies arose which made summer sessions inescapable and when they occurred there was unanimity in Congress against the wisdom of the Washington choice of a capital.

This summer, with the capitol and the Senate and House office buildings air-cooled, there hasn't been a peep out of the statesmen. A lot of them have been positively glad to escape the heat of a campaign at home.

Hitler May Be Forced To Turn Eastward

GENERAL SIR ARCHIBALD WAVELL, commander of Great Britain's armies in the Middle East, expresses the view that Hitler, balked in his plan to invade England, may emulate Napoleon and "turn East in search of easier success."

As autumn and winter approach, with unfavorable weather conditions for air combat or any other form of Nazi invasion, it is entirely possible that the fuehrer may take another tack, and it is significant that the Italian press has been trying hard to work itself into a fury against Greece on the charge that the Athens government has designs on Albania. Italian troops are reported massed at the Greek frontier.

An attack on Greece could hardly fail to bring Turkey into the war and thus the conflagration would spread with unpredictable results.

Action Is Promised from Lion's Resharpened Claws

IN DECLARING that Great Britain was assiduously preparing for a world offensive later, Herbert Morrison, British minister of supply, called attention to the score several hostile countries are accumulating with the big empire. While it has been engaged in a life or death grapple with Germany, other countries have been making holes in British prestige, being able to do so solely because Britain is busy on the home front.

With Germany repulsed at the Channel and Hitler's efforts thereafter confined to attempts to keep down rebellion in his conquered countries on the continent, the manner in which England, armed to the teeth, can finish off Italy and jab Japan all over the place in Asia will be a caution.

A year ago the British lion looked lazy enough. A year hence the chances are that he will have all the action in the world behind his re-sharpened claws, as Herbert Morrison asserts.

Wearing wet socks, we read, is a cure for insomnia. Now all we need is a sure cure for the head cold which would result.

Next to setting a new weather mark of any kind, making history is the most painful thing.

Children ARE Human

By MARSHALL MASLIN

There are times when even the most reasonable of fathers and mothers have serious doubts about their children.

Marshall Maslin

All theoretical deductions point to the assumption that they are human, but practical observation suggests very strongly that they are NOT.

I thought considerably on this matter and have at length decided that children ARE human, even when their actions seem to prove that they aren't.

After all, WE are human beings, aren't we? Assuming or accepting that fact, then our children must be human beings, too. Born of us, they are of our species. Even when they are soft little infants, they belong to the human race. They smile, they laugh, they think, they grow—we KNOW that eventually they will grow into adult human creatures. We detect traits and tendencies in them that have been inherited only from their parents.

In a few years they grow old enough to go to school. They do quite well and we are proud of their intelligence. We treat them as reasonable individuals and are glad to be responsible for their being alive. No matter what is in store for them, of ecstasy or grief, we have fulfilled our obligation toward the race.

But when they grow into their teens, into that callow and tortured period called adolescence, that's when bewildered parents begin to doubt whether children really ARE human.

Sometimes they do use their brains. (They must do that or how could they stay in school?) But so much of the time they seem to be using their brains only to bolster up their desires and emotions. (And many a parent has worn himself trying to convince his bright adolescent child that what he WANTS to do is exactly the opposite of what he OUGHT to do.) The persistent youngster may be human but he is far from being civilized, and he gets his father and mother into a state in which they CAN'T believe he IS a human being.

Nevertheless, my exhaustive researches give me encouragement. I have seen boys and girls who drove their parents crazy with worry turn into acceptable, delightful, and useful adults—and since I do know that something never comes out of nothing I believe that children ARE human. . . . Take my word for it, that's the truth!

Important Error In Conscription Bill Is Revealed

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

Hugh Johnson

NEW YORK CITY—In a matter in which you have given your guts, especially when you were very young, you are likely to take yourself too seriously. Maybe I am doing that about selective service. But on that subject I feel sometimes the agony that David Warfield made so clear to everybody in "The Return of Peter Grimm."

You remember that the gentle old florist had left some advice and directions to his children before he passed into the realms of infinite knowledge. There he learned the tragic error of those bequests. In the effort of his disembodied spirit to come back and avert disaster he suffered because, although he could mingle unseen with his beloved, he couldn't get his message to their ears. I think two of the most poignant words I have ever heard on our stage are his un-noted cry of anguish: "Hear me!"

Classification of Men

I feel a little that way about the Burke-Wadsworth Selective Service bill. As I have written before, it makes the classification, selection and deferment of men a matter of personalized executive discretion. There is something of a technicality here, but it is not an unimportant one. It is at the very heart of the democracy and public confidence and success in this effort.

The bill as written, and even as amended by the Senate, does not repose in the exclusive and uncontrolled jurisdiction of the selective service boards and absolute and final decision as to which men shall be taken for military service and which sholl be selected for civilian service. That could convert the whole effort from a perfect use of our democratic institution of local self-government to a possible hog-pen of favorism, influence and perhaps of political patronage and pressure.

This is no guess or conjecture on my art. It is a result of intense exl perience and furious effort in experimenting, building and perfecting this system in 1917 and 1918.

Affects Every Family

Now I know that this is the wish of neither the president, nor Mr. Willkie, nor any member of Congress or politician with influence in this effort. One of the most important things about this legislation is the effort on all sides to take it out of politics. I know that Mr. Roosevelt wants to keep it clean. I know that, apart from the undoubted patriotism of this wish, it could ruin any administration or any politician not to keep it clean. This legislation will, sooner or later, affect directly or indirectly, and, much or little, every home and family in this country in the most sacred of relations. It can's have even the color of unfairness or favor.

This understandable oversight is a simple result of the slap-dash fashion in which this bill was put together. There are other errors clearly revealed by experience. They can be corrected later without great harm. This one can't. This effort must pass into execution with such a display of fairness and efficiency as to capture public confidence from the beginning.

An Essential Matter

I called this fatal oversight to the attention of some senators who seemed to sense its importance without argument. So far as I have been able to learn they have not amended the bill and an amendment reported in the press from the House Committee, at least as reported, does not cure the fault.

If, in the present rush for passage, nobody else gives attention to this grave error, I hope the president himself will do so. I sometimes suspect that he does not altogether enthusiastically approve of some of the issues in this column. On this particular subject, however, I am sure that he concedes its information, experience and his intense common purpose with even this columnist, no matter how far he speaks, de profundis from the official dog house. It is an essential matter of national defense.—Distributed by United Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN NEW WAR POST

Benedict Crowell

President Roosevelt has named Benedict Crowell, wartime Assistant Secretary of War and director of munitions, as special consultant to the War Department in its rearmament program.

THE TAKEOFF.

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Before leaving Washington for a week, President Roosevelt devoted his last press conference to defense of defense. That is, he defended the progress of the armament program, against charges of slowness made by Democratic Senator Byrd, of Virginia, and charges of inefficiency by Republican Presidential Candidate Willkie.

Mark Sullivan

Mr. Roosevelt used many figures—about airplanes made and airplanes ordered; about contracts made, and work began in anticipation of contracts on the basis of what Mr. Roosevelt called "letters of intention"; about orders merely given, and actual work being done on orders; about a thirty-three per cent increase in the number of men working in navy yards, and so on and so on.

To compare Mr. Roosevelt's figures with Senator Byrd's; to distinguish between Senator Byrd's actual figures, which Mr. Roosevelt more or less conceded, and on the other hand what Mr. Roosevelt called the incorrect "implications" from those figures; to arrive at a second conclusion on the merit of the argument— to do that, one would need to be both a judge and an accountant.

Lexicographer Wanted

One would need to be also, as Mr. Roosevelt said, a lexicographer, for the dispute, as Mr. Roosevelt asserted, is in part a matter of terminology. One doubts whether the streams of figures and technical terms which appeared in the following day's papers carried much meaning to the average reader. They did not carry much to the present writer, who listened to the President's statements, and to his answers to questions.

So far as this writer knows, the armament program may be going well enough, or it may be seriously lagging. I got a notion, which Mr. Roosevelt did not say but which seemed to be in the background. It seemed as if some of the confusion may be due to the fact that many manufacturers have two kinds of contracts—contracts to make armament for Britain, and other contracts to make armament for the United States. It is a fair question of policy whether we should ask or require manufacturers to drop contracts for Britain in order to hurry contracts for us.

Congress Blamed

But one aspect of Mr. Roosevelt's self-defense had real importance. He put the blame, so far as he admitted any blame, on Congress. His allusions to Congress were prudently guarded, and some of his remarks he asked the newspaper men not to print, for he seemed to have a real desire to preserve propriety of appearances as between the executive and legislative branches. But he said that a large number of contracts for war supplies had been ready for signature on June 8, where upon Congress made a change in the law, thereby necessitating change in the contracts. He said that the contracts for many of the airplanes are involved in an appropriations bill still pending in Congress, and cannot be made until the bill is passed. He said that many contracts cannot intelligently be entered into by business men until business knows the details of the bill having to do with amortization, excess profits taxes, and profit limitations generally, which bill is only just starting through Congress.

When asked whether the delay in Congress could be charged up against political opposition in that body, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he could not be in the position of criticizing Congress.

Business Defended

Now the point is, not that Mr. Roosevelt blamed Congress—but that he did not blame business. On the contrary, and rather surprisingly, he defended business. When asked the direct question—whether, as has been charged, business is practicing a sit-down strike against limitation of profits—Mr. Roosevelt answered, almost warmly, no. He said that the policy about profits is that this preparedness drive shall not create a new crop of war millionaires. And Mr. Roosevelt added, with emphasis, that every business man he knows holds this conviction as strongly as himself. He defended again warmly, business men who want to know what the profit limitation law will contain, before they go ahead. Business men, Mr. Roosevelt said, are entitled to know where they are going.

This brings us to the heart of this whole situation. Within the New Deal are several varieties of hostility to business. There are critics of the kind America has always had, who work, often usefully, to reform business, but have no thought of destroying private business as an institution. There are others, extreme radicals, who do not believe in the American system of privately owned industry, and would gladly see some form of collectivism or government ownership substituted. There are others, more dilentate, who merely think privately owned business is doomed in America as in other parts of the world.

No Business Regimentation

From the different varieties of these, and with their differing actives, come charges against business in connection with the propaganda program. From sources chargeable to radical New Deal inspiration come assertions that private industry will not or cannot prepare America for war, that industry must be taken over by government. To the more radical, preparation for war brought opportunity. It gave them opportunity to promote their dogma that the conduct of war must be "total"; that all business and industry, every activity, must be regimented. It is not far-fetched to assume that a distant motive was in their minds; that if they would achieve "totality" for war, they would not let it lapse when the emergency ends.

From all such, Mr. Roosevelt separates himself, for the time being at least. In the past he has identified himself with some of them frequently, almost continuously.

Publisher Quits Mr. Roosevelt

South Dakota Editor Refuses To Countenance the Third Term

Robert D. Lusk, publisher of the Evening Huronite, of Huron, S. D., announces in an editorial headed "The New Deal," that he will not support Roosevelt. Mr. Lusk favored Roosevelt's candidacy in 1932 and worked for his re-election in 1936.

"The overwhelming re-election of President Roosevelt," says the editorial, in part, " brought about in him a serious and unexpected change. Me misinterpreted his vast majority as a personal mandate, which, subsequent elections have proved beyond doubt, was never intended, never granted. * * *

And most of it [Roosevelt's failure] stems from the misinterpretation of the 1936 landslide. It was not a blank check; it was not a mandate granting advance approval of anything Mr. Roosevelt might do; it was not a turning over of all power indefinitely; and it did not mean that the people of the United States felt that out of 130 millions Roosevelt was the only one qualified to rule. * * *

To a newspaper which has supported him for the presidency twice, to a newspaper which has been loathe to criticize him, to a newspaper which has freely and frequently praised him and publicly thanked him for what he has done for the people of this State in their adversity, the fact that President Roosevelt is seeking a third term and the manner in which he is seeking it are deep disappointments. But the Evening Huronite feels that it would not be true to the trust imposed in it by the people of this community were it to fail to protest against the breaking of one of the important safeguards of free government, the third term, now or in the future."

Maryland Farm Musings

Louise Roop, of Carroll county, and Helen Lechliter, of Allegany county, in recognition of outstanding 4-H Club work, have been presented with all-expense scholarships for the 4-H Club Tour of the New York World's Fair August 25 to 28, it is announced by Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girl's Club Leader for Maryland. More than fifty boys and girls from all sections of the state will make the tour.

Farms in Southern Maryland are becoming progressively smaller, according to a recent survey of that section. In 1880, the average farm in Southern Maryland contained 157.2 acres whereas in 1935 the average farm had 99.8 acres.

Records Show Women Killers Reverse Fiction

By EDWIN C. HILL

Edwin C. Hill

Recalling the murder mystery stories we have read, and talking with friends about them, we can't find a single one in which the murder was done by a woman. There are such, I know, but in the belles letters of homicide, even the most refined and subtle murders are done by men.

That probably has colored our thinking about such matters, and we were considerably jolted by this issue of United States Department of Justice statistics showing that women outrank men as killers by the ratio of thirteen to ten. In other crimes men hold the lead, but women turn more frequently to murder. We have heard that a Swiss scientist named Tournon made a comparative study of homicidal tendencies of men and women, but haven't been able to track it down.

Few Distinctions

Deductions are always easy in comparisons of behaviour between the sexes, but to the surface view in this instance, there are few obvious distinctions. Men and women both seem to kill for money, love, power or revenge. And each may be clumsy or deft, crassly brutal or diabolically clever.

Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, slew Sisera, after his defeat by Barak, by driving an iron tent peg through his temple while he was asleep. This Bible story might be taken as one extreme of insensitiveness, not to be suspected or countenanced in a lady, and Lucretia Borgia's poisoned rings and poisoned perfume in gloves might mark the bounds of more delicate and devious instrumentalities of death, as employed by women. But in between they seem to have used anything handy to dispatch the persons for whom they had lost their taste.

Notorious Murderesses

Two of the most notorious large-scale killers of all history were women—Messalina Valeria, wife of the Emperor Claudius I of Rome, and Catherine de Medici, wife of Henry, Duke of Orleans, who later bacame King Henry II of France. Messalina killed thousands, apparently just through wanton enjoyment of this pastime, and was just about to kill her husband when he caught her at it, and ordered her long over-due execution. Catherine was a casual and indiscriminate killer who, incidentally, brought about the St. Bartholomew massacre.

Usually Personalized

A vast amount of masculine killing has had political, social or religious motivation. This is singularly lacking in the record of the daughters of Jael. Their horrors are, almost without exception, highly personalized. There are exceptions, of course. When Charlotte Corday slit Marat's throat, she no doubt thought she was doing it for France, rather than for any purely personal reasons. Mme. Caillaux shot and killed Gaston Calmette, in Paris in 1914, because he had slandered her husband.

Like all newspapermen of long-standing, this writer has been close-in at quite a few feminine forays of this nature. Of course, it's always a bigger and better story if the murder is done by a woman, but I think any reporter, growing old at the Central police headquarters, will agree that there is no sure way of tagging a murder as a distaff enterprise.

Other Killings

The triangle killings make a perfect pattern of Greek tragedy, as did the Ruth Snyder case, and are thereby set apart from commercially motivated, or hate and revenge killings. But there is no uniquely feminine element entering into them. One would look for finesse here, and find it, too, in such virtuosity as that of Catherine de Medici and Lucretia Borgia, but they could be matched by several adroit renaissance male killers such as Lucretia's brother Caesar.

On the whole, the capacity for superlative good or evil seems to be about equally apportioned between the sexes.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Locusts and Berries

From the Parkersburg, W. Va., Sentinel

West Virginia is one of those states whose various sections are visited by the seventeen-year locust at different times but in each respective district the insects appear only at intervals of seventeen years. This is the year for them to appear in the southern section of the state, and they already are there singing their song. Someone has started the story that the locusts poison blackberries by laying their eggs on the berries.

The question was put to State Entomologist Waldo Craig at Charleston who declared that neither wild blackberries nor any other foodstuffs are poisoned by the current scourge of seventeen-year locuts. There isn't a thing about the locusts that is poisonous, Mr. Craig said. It is our opinion that the locust deposits its eggs in a place much more permanent than blackberries or else they would not continue to exist for seventeen years and return to life to plague mankind.

Why Democrats Cannot Stomach the Third Term

DEMOCRATS of the Jeffersonian type feel very strongly in opposition to the third term idea. The reason is that through the years the Democratic party has opposed it, and these citizens consider that in moving away from this sound tradition their party has been bilked and a long-established tenet unwarrantedly repudiated.

The Democratic national platform of 1896, for example, contained the following plank:

"We declare it to be the unwritten law of the republic, established by custom and usage of 100 years, and sanctified by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the presidential office."

February 10, 1928, the United States Senate adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved: That it is the sense of the Senate that the precedent established by Washington and other presidents of the United States in retiring from the presidential office after their second term has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from this time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions."

Among those voting for this resolution were: Senator Alben W. Barkley, permanent chairman of the Democratic convention at Chicago; Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the Platform committee at Chicago; Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee of the Senate; Senator Pat Harrison, chairman of the Finance committee of the Senate; Senator Henry F. Ashurst, chairman of the Judiciary committee of the Senate; Senators Elbridge Gerry, Carter Glass, Hayden, King, McKellar, Neely, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Oklahoma; Tydings and Wheeler, all members of the present United States Senate.

When those in charge of the recent Democratic national convention at Chicago maneuvered the renomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term as president, the engineer for that convention was none other than Senator Barkley. Also, nearly all of the Democrats who voted for the anti-third term resolution in 1928 took part in the ludicrous "drafting" of Roosevelt for a third term.

This record shows that the once proud Democratic party has been dragged into a deplorable stultification. It is no wonder so many real Democrats are now leaving the party, which, of course, is not now the Democratic party but Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal party.

Three Governmental Systems Essentially the Same

DELEGATES to the convention of the American Federation of Teachers are reported to have engaged in considerable argument over a resolution which condemned "all dictatorships, whether of Nazi, Fascist or Communist origin, whether in Germany, Italy or Russia."

Several disputants objected to the inclusion of Communism with Fascism and Naziism, and the inclusion of Russia with Germany and Italy.

It is difficult to understand how any person, and particularly one as well informed as a teacher is supposed to be, can object to linking Russia with Germany and Italy as totalitarian states. If Germany and Italy are totalitarian, Russia certainly is.

Each of the three has shown an utter disregard for the rights of individuals within its borders. In each, the state regards itself as supreme, and the individual has no privileges that the government may not infringe upon as its whim directs. In fact, each of the three has shown a disregard of persons living outside its borders, and each has deliberately attacked small neighboring nations.

Mark Sullivan has repeatedly explained in his dispatches, which have appeared in the News, that all three schemes of government are the same in their fundamental ideologies, the only differences being that in Russia all property theoretically belongs to the state, while in Italy and Germany private ownership is permitted but under control of the state.

The same resolution which precipitated the dispute strangely contained a declaration in favor of democracy. The totalitarianism of Germany, Italy and Russia is the very antithesis of democracy. The two philosophies of government are in direct conflict. One can not be in sympathy with both.

Islands Would Have A Prestige Value

SOME FINANCIAL LEADERS in Wall Street are represented as believing that acquisition by the United States of British territory for naval bases in the Caribbean will be a great stroke for American business.

From the military viewpoint the most likely locations for bases on present British possessions are Bermuda, Antigua, Dominica, Trinidad, British Honduras, British Guiana and Jamaica. The Leeward and the Windward Isles, stretching from Puerto Rico to Venezuela, form a natural barrier to an attack on the Panama canal from the Atlantic side.

The United States now guards the Windward Passage south of Cuba from its base at Guantanamo and the Mona Passage from Puerto Rico. Other passages are unguarded and the leasing by Britain of these bases would give America an impressive military set-up in the Caribbean.

Financial leaders argue that Latin America is averse to hooking up to the United States commercially in any preponderant way. It is felt that if all these islands are fortified they will have an important commercial prestige value, giving the Latin countries greater assurance that the United States can and will offer military protection to its trade and commitments.

Now I know that this is the wish of neither the president, nor Mr. Willkie, nor any member of Congress or politician with influence in this effort. One of the most important things about this legislation is the effort on all sides to take it out of politics. I know that Mr. Roosevelt wants to keep it clean. I know that, apart from the undoubted patriotism of this wish, it could ruin any administration or any politician not to keep it clean. This legislation will, sooner or later, affect directly or indirectly, and, much or little, every home and family in this country in the most sacred of relations. It can's have even the color of unfairness or favor.

This understandable oversight is a simple result of the slap-dash fashion in which this bill was put together. There are other errors clearly revealed by experience. They can be corrected later without great harm. This one can't. This effort must pass into execution with such a display of fairness and efficiency as to capture public confidence from the beginning.

An Essential Matter

I called this fatal oversight to the attention of some senators who seemed to sense its importance without argument. So far as I have been able to learn they have not amended the bill and an amendment reported in the press from the House Committee, at least as reported, does not cure the fault.

If, in the present rush for passage, nobody else gives attention to this grave error, I hope the president himself will do so. I sometimes suspect that he does not altogether enthusiastically approve of some of the issues in this column. On this particular subject, however, I am sure that he concedes its information, experience and his intense common purpose with even. this columnist, no matter how far he speaks, de profundis from the official dog house. It is an essential matter of national defense.—Distributed by United Features Syndicate, Inc.

IN NEW WAR POST

Benedict Crowell

President Roosevelt has named Benedict Crowell, wartime Assistant Secretary of War and director of munitions, as special consultant to the War Department in its rearmament program.

THE TAKEOFF.

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29—Before leaving Washington for a week, President Roosevelt devoted his last press conference to defense of defense. That is, he defended the progress of the armament program, against charges of slowness made by Democratic Senator Byrd, of Virginia, and charges of inefficiency by Republican Presidential Candidate Willkie.

Mark Sullivan

Mr. Roosevelt used many figures—about airplanes made and airplanes ordered; about contracts made, and work began in anticipation of contracts on the basis of what Mr. Roosevelt called "letters of intention"; about orders merely given, and actual work being done on orders; about a thirty-three per cent increase in the number of men working in navy yards, and so on and so on.

To compare Mr. Roosevelt's figures with Senator Byrd's; to distinguish between Senator Byrd's actual figures, which Mr. Roosevelt more or less conceded, and on the other hand what Mr. Roosevelt called the incorrect "implications" from those figures; to arrive at a second conclusion on the merit of the argument— to do that, one would need to be both a judge and an accountant.

Lexicographer Wanted

One would need to be also, as Mr. Roosevelt said, a lexicographer, for the dispute, as Mr. Roosevelt asserted, is in part a matter of terminology. One doubts whether the streams of figures and technical terms which appeared in the following day's papers carried much meaning to the average reader. They did not carry much to the present writer, who listened to the President's statements, and to his answers to questions.

So far as this writer knows, the armament program may be going well enough, or it may be seriously lagging. I got a notion, which Mr. Roosevelt did not say but which seemed to be in the background. It seemed as if some of the confusion may be due to the fact that many manufacturers have two kinds of contracts—contracts to make armament for Britain, and other contracts to make armament for the United States. It is a fair question of policy whether we should ask or require manufacturers to drop contracts for Britain in order to hurry contracts for us.

Congress Blamed

But one aspect of Mr. Roosevelt's self-defense had real importance. He put the blame, so far as he admitted any blame, on Congress. His allusions to Congress were prudently guarded, and some of his remarks he asked the newspaper men not to print, for he seemed to have a real desire to preserve propriety of appearances as between the executive and legislative branches. But he said that a large number of contracts for war supplies had been ready for signature on June 8, where upon Congress made a change in the law, thereby necessitating change in the contracts. He said that the contracts for many of the airplanes are involved in an appropriations bill still pending in Congress, and cannot be made until the bill is passed. He said that many contracts cannot intelligently be entered into by business men until business knows the details of the bill having to do with amortization, excess profits taxes, and profit limitations generally, which bill is only just starting through Congress.

When asked whether the delay in Congress could be charged up against political opposition in that body, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he could not be in the position of criticizing Congress.

Business Defended

Now the point is, not that Mr. Roosevelt blamed Congress—but that he did not blame business. On the contrary, and rather surprisingly, he defended business. When asked the direct question—whether, as has been charged, business is practicing a sit-down strike against limitation of profits—Mr. Roosevelt answered, almost warmly, no. He said that the policy about profits is that this preparedness drive shall not create a new crop of war millionaires. And Mr. Roosevelt added, with emphasis, that every business man he knows holds this conviction as strongly as himself. He defended again warmly, business men who want to know what the profit limitation law will contain, before they go ahead. Business men, Mr. Roosevelt said, are entitled to know where they are going.

This brings us to the heart of this whole situation. Within the New Deal are several varieties of hostility to business. There are critics of the kind America has always had, who work, often usefully, to reform business, but have no thought of destroying private business as an institution. There are others, extreme radicals, who do not believe in the American system of privately owned industry, and would gladly see some form of collectivism or government ownership substituted. There are others, more dilettate, who merely think privately owned business is doomed in America as in other parts of the world.

No Business Regimentation

From the different varieties of these, and with their differing actives, come charges against business in connection with the propaganda program. From sources chargeable to radical New Deal inspiration come assertions that private industry will not or cannot prepare America for war, that industry must be taken over by government. To the more radical, preparation for war brought opportunity. It gave them opportunity to promote their dogma that the conduct of war must be "total"; that all business and industry, every activity, must be regimented. It is not far-fetched to assume that a distant motive was in their minds; that if they would achieve "totality" for war, they would not let it lapse when the emergency ends.

From all such, Mr. Roosevelt separates himself, for the time being at least. In the past he has identified himself with some of them frequently, almost continuously.

Publisher Quits Mr. Roosevelt

South Dakota Editor Refuses To Countenance the Third Term

Robert D. Lusk, publisher of the Evening Huronite, of Huron, S. D., announces in an editorial headed "The New Deal," that he will not support Roosevelt. Mr. Lusk favored Roosevelt's candidacy in 1932 and worked for his re-election in 1936.

"The overwhelming re-election of President Roosevelt," says the editorial, in part, " brought about in him a serious and unexpected change. Me misinterpreted his vast majority as a personal mandate, which, subsequent elections have proved beyond doubt, was never intended, never granted. * * *

And most of it [Roosevelt's failure] stems from the misinterpretation of the 1936 landslide. It was not a blank check; it was not a mandate granting advance approval of anything Mr. Roosevelt might do; it was not a turning over of all power indefinitely; and it did not mean that the people of the United States felt that out of 130 millions Roosevelt was the only one qualified to rule. * * *

To a newspaper which has supported him for the presidency twice, to a newspaper which has been loathe to criticize him, to a newspaper which has freely and frequently praised him and publicly thanked him for what he has done for the people of this State in their adversity, the fact that President Roosevelt is seeking a third term and the manner in which he is seeking it are deep disappointments. But the Evening Huronite feels that it would not be true to the trust imposed in it by the people of this community were it to fail to protest against the breaking of one of the important safeguards of free government, the third term, now or in the future."

Louise Roop, of Carroll county, and Helen Lechliter, of Allegany county, in recognition of outstanding 4-H Club work, have been presented with all-expense scholarships for the 4-H Club Tour of the New York World's Fair August 25 to 28, it is announced by Miss Dorothy Emerson, Girl's Club Leader for Maryland. More than fifty boys and girls from all sections of the state will make the tour.

Farms in Southern Maryland are becoming progressively smaller, according to a recent survey of that section. In 1880, the average farm in Southern Maryland contained 157.2 acres whereas in 1935 the average farm had 99.8 acres.

Records Show Women Killers Reverse Fiction

By EDWIN C. HILL

Recalling the murder mysteries we have read, and talking with friends about them, we can't recall a single one in which the murder was done by a woman. There are such, I know, but in the belles letters of homicide, even the most refined and subtle murders are done by men.

Edwin C. Hill

That probably has colored our thinking about such matters, and we were considerably jolted by this issue of United States Department of Justice statistics showing that women outrank men as killers by the ratio of thirteen to ten. In other crimes men hold the lead, but women turn more frequently to murder. We have heard that a Swiss scientist named Tournon made a comparative study of homicidal tendencies of men and women, but haven't been able to track it down.

Few Distinctions

Deductions are always easy in comparisons of behaviour between the sexes, but to the surface view in this instance, there are few obvious distinctions. Men and women both seem to kill for money, lost power or revenge. And each may be clumsy or deft, crassly brutal or diabolically clever.

Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, slew Sisera, after his defeat by Barak, by driving an iron tent peg through his temple while he was asleep. This Bible story might be taken as one extreme of insensitiveness, not to be suspected or countenanced in a lady, and Lucretia Borgia's poisoned rings and poisoned perfume in gloves might mark the bounds of more delicate and devious instrumentalities of death as employed by women. But in between they seem to have used anything handy to dispatch the person for whom they had lost their taste.

Notorious Murderesses

Two of the most notorious large scale killers of all history were women—Messalina Valeria, wife of the Emperor Claudius I of Rome and Catherine de Medici, wife of Henry, Duke of Orleans, who later became King Henry II of France. Messalina killed thousands, apparently just through wanton enjoyment of this pastime, and was just about to kill her husband when he caught her at it, and ordered him long over-due execution. Catherine was a casual and indiscriminate killer who, incidentally, brought about the St. Bartholomew massacre.

Usually Personalized

A vast amount of masculine killing has had political, social or religious motivation. This is singularly lacking in the record of the daughters of Jael. Their horrors are, almost without exception, highly personalized. There are exceptions, of course. When Charlotte Corday slew Marat's throat, she no doubt thought she was doing it for France rather than for any purely personal reasons. Mme. Caillaux shot and killed Gaston Calmette, in Paris in 1914, because he had slandered her husband.

Like all newspapermen of long-standing, this writer has been close in at quite a few feminine forays of this nature. Of course, it's always a bigger and better story if the murder is done by a woman, but I think any reporter, growing old at the Central police headquarters, will agree that there is no sure way of tagging a murder as a distaff enterprise.

Other Killings

The triangle killings make a perfect pattern of Greek tragedy, as did the Ruth Snyder case, and are thereby set apart from commercially motivated, or hate and revenge killings. But there is no uniquely feminine element entering into them. One would look for finesse here, and find it, too, in such virtuosity as that of Catherine de Medici and Lucretia Borgia, but they could be matched by several adroit renaissance male killers such as Lucretia's brother Caesar.

On the whole, the capacity for superlative good or evil seems to be about equally apportioned between the sexes.—Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Locusts and Berries

From the Parkersburg, W. Va., Sentinel

West Virginia is one of those states whose various sections are visited by the seventeen-year locust at different times but in each respective district the insects appear only at intervals of seventeen years. This is the year for them to appear in the southern section of the state, and they already are there singing their song. Someone has started the story that the locusts poison blackberries by laying their eggs on the berries.

The question was put to State Entomologist Waldo Craig at Charleston who declared that neither wild blackberries nor any other foodstuffs are poisoned by the current scourge of seventeen-year locuts. There isn't a thing about the locusts that is poisonous, Mr. Craig said. It is our opinion that the locust deposits its eggs in a place much more permanent than blackberries or else they would not continue to exist for seventeen years and return to life to plague mankind.

THE DAILY STORY

TRADITION

A Saga of Small-Town Success and Small-Town Failure—and a House That Wouldn't Change Its Color

BY ELEANOR CONNORS

Tradition is a sacred thing in Blackton. Any fete repeated twice becomes a ritual, and every ritual, tradition. And thus it had been for seventy years.

It all goes back to the time of Hank Black, pioneer settler in Blackton, and the man for whom the town was named.

Frank was engaged to Milly Johnson, daughter of one of his closest friends. Milly was only 16. Frank was 48. Everyone admitted that Hank was rather old for a young girl like Milly, but he was a fine catch. And fine catches were not found every day.

Milly had chosen Aug. 8 as her wedding day. She had a "real" wedding. It lasted three days, with dancing and drinking and general merrymaking. Women baked for days before the wedding, and others had sewed fine things for Milly's trousseau. You couldn't find another girl here or anywhere else who set up housekeeping with things nearly so fine as Milly's.

Some of the Older Women Were All For Running Her Out of Town.

Things went well for Milly and Frank for about five years. And then came trouble, and plenty of it.

All of Blackton was surprised to hear that Frank Black's place was up for auction as the mortgage was overdue and he couldn't pay even the interest.

It was a nice little house—Frank had built for Milly just five years before. He painted it himself; that was the only part not good about it. Frank liked bright colors so the house was just as red as his barns. Some folks used to say they guess he'd want his grave lined with red, but of course, they were only jealous of all the fine things enclosed within those red walls. Milly was as dainty a housekeeper as you'd ever want to see.

But getting back to the auction sale. That was a sorry sight. Everything was going like hot cakes, and for practically nothing, too. Frank looked sick when his prize team went on the block. Milly said nothing the whole day; she didn't seem to be taking it overly hard, but then you can't judge women when they face trouble.

Everyone was coming up to console Milly; she must have pitied them, poor fools. They told her not to worry, she'd be taken care of. They sort of hinted, too, that it would be a relief not to have to live in the brightly colored house. To themselves they had hoped fervently that the new inhabitants would repaint the place.

The couple that bought the house did paint it. And this time the painter had an aesthetic eye and used white for the house and green for the shutters.

The Black's moved into Milly's father's place. Old Man Johnston was dead now, and the old dirty gray house was sort of run down. Frank took sick along about July, and just nine days before their wedding anniversary he died.

Again Milly was calm; she was a tiny woman, but she sure was strong in character. She went around as if death in one's family is an everyday affair, and on her anniversary she took off her widow's weeds and put on a bright red dress. It was Frank's favorite color, so why shouldn't she wear it in his memory?

And wear it she did. The whole town knew about it before nightfall. Some of the older women were all for running her out of town, the younger girls sort of admired her, in a fearful way. The men said nothing.

The next day the preacher went to see her. In the course of the conversation he got around to talking about love and respect to one's departed mate, and how one shouldn't do anything that would be a disgrace to one's lost partner. Milly nodded and said nothing. The Reverend went on his way, and later remarked in the village that as far as he knew Milly must have lost her mind because of all the worries that she had had in the past few months. But after all, she was only 21; and kindness and good care might snap her out of it.

The village doctor suggested that anything that might remind her of Frank be taken out of her sight. The first thing they did was to get rid of everything red, except her red dress, and she wouldn't part with that.

Some weeks later Milly summoned the preacher and told him that she wanted advice. It appears that she had been thinking over what he had said about doing things for the memory of one's departed mate. She wondered what she could do for Frank.

The preacher was a little taken back because he didn't quite know what to say. He suggested that she paint up the house. Frank wouldn't like to see the house with the paint peeling off. He also thought that other improvements would help. By "other" he meant the red dress, but he didn't say so.

Milly was seen puttering around the garden the next day, and people began to have hope for her. When the painter's ladders were seen near the house, everyon knew she was saved.

But what happened? Milly had that house painted the brightest red you could imagine. The villagers couldn't get over it. But red it was.

The tradition? Well it seems that the young married ones got together and agreed that Milly was right not to go around all in black and weeping, so they agreed to paint their own houses red whenever one became a widow or a widower, and that's what they've done for 70 years.

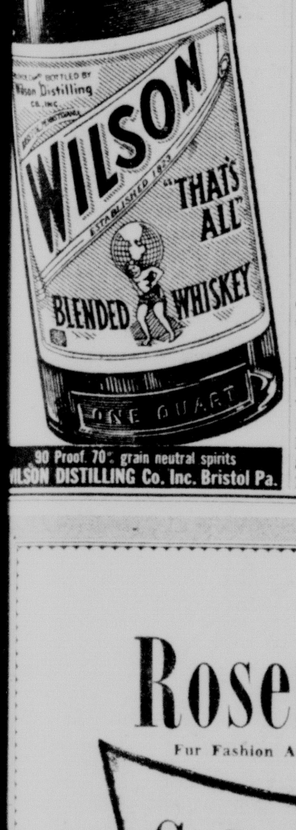

Sometimes two red-house dwellers marry. They always paint one of the houses white and the shutters green. The other they auction off, piece by piece . . . Yes, sir, tradition is a sacred thing in Blackton.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate.

But if you have some side suit honors which may be jeopardized by leading from them, or your partner is likely to have some which your leading might put under the hammer, or if your leading a particular suit will probably save the declarer from making a difficult guess of which way to finesse, a trump lead may be your best resort.

Where South called 2-No Trumps after North showed the diamonds stopped, the contract was carried to 3-No Trumps, an overtrick being made at most tables in the duplicate where this deal arose. That score was beaten, however, by the pairs which got into a heart game because South preferred a rebid of his major suit. All of them made at least 5-Hearts and one made 6-Hearts.

In the heart play, West led his spade J to the K and A. The Q was scored, then the 5 ruffed, for a trick which could not be made in No Trump play. From dummy came the heart 8. East split his honors and South took with the A, repeating the suit with the 4 to the J and K. A bit of thought should have shown East at this juncture that a lead of either diamonds or clubs might cost him or his partner a trick, whereas a trump lead probably couldn't hurt.

The club Q was chosen by East South let it run to the A, as he now had a finesse against the J. After leading to the club 10, he laid down the K, cashed the diamond A and the club 8, discarding the diamond Q, so made six-odd.

Science Has a New Ally in War Against Cancer

Use of Cyclotion Makes Available Another Weapon Against Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I am asked to announce that a prize competition for a poster for the anti-cancer campaign is offered by the National Alliance of Art and Industry, Inc. The prizes range from $1,000.00 to $10.00. Detailed information can be obtained from the Secretary, Poster Competition, National Alliance of Art and Industry, Inc., 119 East Nineteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

In connection with the campaign to treat cancer, I have also an announcement from the University of Pennsylvania regarding the much publicized cyclotion, as a weapon in the treatment of cancer. Te medical department of the University is installing a cyclotion which will be used for cancer research.

Beam of Neutrons

By means of conditioning atoms of heavy hydrogen so that single electrons are torn from the atom and deflected in a steady stream so that they can bombard various chemicals rendering them radioactive, these can be administered to patients.

Besides that the cyclotion can be adapted to another method of treating cancer which is the direct application to the patient of a beam of neutrons, produced by placing in the target chamber at the end of the projector a plate of berylium from which the neutrons are released by the bombardment stream directly into the malignant tissue.

The cyclotion at the University of California is used for treatment purposes only two days a week, owing to the demands of various fields of physical research, and those interested in the possibilities of the cyclotion are very happy that the University of Pennsylvania equipment will be available for more extensive trials.

The University of Pennsylvania equipment will furnish energy equivalent to 200 pounds of radium—which is tremendous considering that the world there are today less than two pounds of purified radium. Radium is worth about $10,000,000.00 a pound.

Whooping cough vaccination would be more worth while trying if there were not so many shots required. So writes a questioning parent. But the strength of the vaccine has been stepped up and fewer injections are now required. Two injections made on each of these treatment days used to be the rule. Now only three, instead of six, injections are required.

Questions and Answers

C. F.—"Is there danger of cancer arising from a mole on the back of the neck. Is it more dangerous to have it removed than to leave it alone? Is the electric needle more advisable than snipping it off? It has been a small one for about 25 years but started growing about six years ago."

Answer—It is possible for cancer to arise from a mole. There is no danger to having it removed if done by a compentent physician. You had better leave the method of removal to him as he would have to use his judgment about the best method after seeing the mole.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Leftover egg whites may be made into macaroons. The whites of two eggs, beaten light with one-half cup sugar and the same quantity of almond paste, will make two dozen macaroons. Or you may use one-fourth teaspoon almond extract.

Predisposition Is Seen As Aiding Future Events

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"The unexpected happens," said Disraeli, but does it? Isn't it the thing we've dwelt upon, decided it's bound to come our way, no matter whether it's for our good or evil, that finally comes to pass?

In the years I've done this column, I've had innumerable letters from people telling me that they've made up their minds to certain happenings, and the thing came about, as irrevocably as death and taxes.

Some of the things this frame of mind has brought about is marriage to a certain individual. A typical letter stands out:

"He didn't seem particularly interested in me when we met, nor did I go after him like a collie rounding up a sheep." (Needless to say this letter came from the great open spaces where they have ranges and sheep.) "But I just decided he was my fate. And he is my fate."

Auto Suggestion

Again I've had letters from people who have dwelt upon misfortunes, hypnotized themselves into thinking they could not be sidestepped, and this attitude brought the dread happenings about.

"I always felt I was going to lose my husband by an accident," one woman wrote. "I worried over this day and night. He was killed by an automobile just outside our gate."

"I always saw myself a dependent in the house of my daughter-in-law, who never liked me," writes another. "And I never liked her, but when I lost the insurance money my husband had left me in the stock market, I was forced to go and live with her."

This sort of thing, in psychology, has the rather unwieldy name "precipitating the image." It's a mighty dangerous pastime, unless you dwell upon the thing that is for your good, your happiness or your peace of mind. Cast out the thoughts of unhappiness, bad luck or death, if you want to live.

Decided On Death

Consider the case of Carson C. Surles, of Dunn, North Carolina, an account of whose death was published in a recent newspaper dispatch. For twenty-five years, Mr. Surles had kept a rendezvous with death. He was only 34 when he began this vigil, but he decided that he was going to die in July, 1940, and die he did.

Throughout the last week of his life, Mr. Surles visited his relatives and friends and bade them goodbye. He invited them to his funeral, which he said would occur on the date he had been keeping with death for the last twenty-five years. He went to the cemetery, scraped the weeds from his grave and put everything in order.

He said goodbye to his employer, resigned his job, said he must go home and get ready. He became ill, apparently without cause, and died at 2:20 in the afternoon he had indicated. The doctor who attended the dying man said he could find no cause for death, and that the thought of suicide was impossible.

Draw your own conclusions, and not only decline to make a rendezvous with death, but with any misfortune.

Jealous of Her Baby

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What can I do with my husband? He is an exceptionally good man in almost all ways, except that he won't let me spend money for clothes which I really need. It isn't as if we haven't the money, because we do, but he wants to have a bank account, and that's in his name too.

We've been married three years and have a daughter of two whom he worships. But in all this time he has said only twice that he loves me. I know he isn't the affectionate kind, but I wonder if he really loves me. I have to stand by and watch him love the baby. I'm bitter with jealousy.

Do other men act like that? I mean, is it natural for him to be so cruel? He hasn't kissed me for a week. Do you think it could be because he is eight years older than I am? Please help me ease my mind.

BUTCH.

I've had letters from women who were jealous of the other woman, jealous of their husband's love of sports, jealous of his love of reading, jealous of his family, particularly his mother, but this is the first time I have ever had a letter from a woman jealous of her own baby. And you will see, my dear girl, that I've left out of your letter some of the dreadful promptings this jealousy has brought about in regard to your own child.

Some men, and I hate to say it, refrain from demonstrations of affections to their wives when they see how it affects them. Try a little simulated indifference to this husband of yours. Make him want to know what has come over you and he will probably be as eager to kiss you as you are to be kissed. Sorry, but human nature is like that.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 23 years old, considered good-looking, and for more than two years I have been deeply interested in a girl of 21. I think I have a fairly good job, and I'm steady although not what you'd call brilliant.

Recently my girl met a young man who has a sport model automobile and a good-sized allowance from well-to-do parents, and has been going out with him quite frequently. I love her very much and don't know what to do in this case. Should I step out of the picture, or try to win her back?

WONDERING

It's pretty hard to stand up against a rival who has a snappy car and a generous allowance from doting parents. But this is a good way to spoil a young man and keep him from real success. You do not say you were positively engaged to this girl, so why this sweeping gesture of renunciation. Be friendly when you meet, and don't censure her for her change of heart.

And, my dear boy, it isn't necessary for me to tell you that young men with snappy cars and plenty of pocket money often change their minds about girls. If such a thing should happen, there you will be, ever faithful.

Uneasy Conscience

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been in love with a certain man for many years. About five years ago we had a quarrel, and I married another man for spite.

Recently, my husband was placed in a hospital for a serious illness, and shortly afterward I started corresponding with my former boy friend. I left my home town and went to live with this man's relatives and now he is willing to pay for my divorce so that we can be married.

I received a letter from my mother, who is near my husband and visits him regularly, saying that he is heartbroken and wants me to visit him, which I've never done as I think it's best to make a clean break. If I write or visit him, I know it will only re-open the old wound, and if I go back to him, my former boy friend said we'd be through for good.

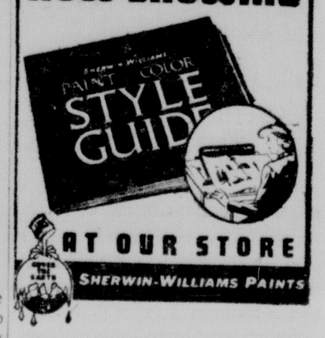

I have a chance of being happy always, but still my conscience is bothering me as to whether I did the right thing by leaving so suddenly without even saying goodbye to my husband.

W. G.

It seems to me your conscience is entitled to a few twinges, not to say a good hard ache, considering what you've done. When you married for spite you took the bit in your teeth and followed your own bent. Now your husband is ill in hospital, wants desperately to see you and you decline to visit him. There is such a thing, my dear, as being a good sport, and as you married this man to spite another, and

Predisposition Is Seen As Aiding Future Events

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"The unexpected happens," said Disraeli, but does it? Isn't it the thing we've dwelt upon, decided it's bound to come our way, no matter whether it's for our good or evil, that finally comes to pass?

In the years I've done this column, I've had innumerable letters from people telling me that they've made up their minds to certain happenings, and the thing came about as irrevocably as death and taxes.

Some of the things this frame of mind has brought about is marriage to a certain individual. A typical letter stands out:

"He didn't seem particularly interested in me when we met, nor did I go after him like a collie rounding up a sheep." (Needless to say this letter came from the great open spaces where they have ranges and sheep.) "But I just decided he was my fate. And he is my fate."

Auto Suggestion

Again I've had letters from people who have dwelt upon misfortunes, hypnotized themselves into thinking they could not be sidestepped, and this attitude brought the dread happenings about.

"I always felt I was going to lose my husband by an accident," one woman wrote. "I worried over this day and night. He was killed by an automobile just outside our gate."

"I always saw myself a dependent in the house of my daughter-in-law, who never liked me," writes another. "And I never liked her, but when I lost the insurance money my husband had left me in the stock market, I was forced to go and live with her."

This sort of thing, in psychology, has the rather unwieldy name "precipitating the image." It's a mighty dangerous pastime, unless you dwell upon the thing that is for your good, your happiness or your peace of mind. Cast out the thoughts of unhappiness, bad luck or death, if you want to live.

Decided On Death

Consider the case of Carson C. Surles, of Dunn, North Carolina, an account of whose death was published in a recent newspaper dispatch. For twenty-five years, Mr. Surles had kept a rendezvous with death. He was only 34 when he began this vigil, but he decided that he was going to die in July, 1940, and die he did.

Throughout the last week of his life, Mr. Surles visited his relatives and friends and bade them good-bye. He invited them to his funeral, which he said would occur on the date he had been keeping with death for the last twenty-five years. He went to the cemetery, scraped the weeds from his grave and put everything in order.

He said goodbye to his employer, resigned his job, said he must go home and get ready. He became ill, apparently without cause, and died at 2:20 in the afternoon he had indicated. The doctor who attended the dying man said he could find no cause for death, and that the thought of suicide was impossible.

Draw your own conclusions, and not only decline to make a rendezvous with death, but with any misfortune.

Jealous of Her Baby

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

What can I do with my husband? He is an exceptionally good man in almost all ways, except that he won't let me spend money for clothes which I really need. It isn't as if we haven't the money, because we do, but he wants to have a bank account, and that's in his name too.

We've been married three years and have a daughter of two whom he worships. But in all this time he has said only twice that he loves me. I know he isn't the affectionate kind, but I wonder if he really loves me. I have to stand by and watch him love the baby. I'm bitter with jealousy.

Do other men act like that? I mean, is it natural for him to be so cruel? He hasn't kissed me for a week. Do you think it could be because he is eight years older than I am? Please help me ease my mind.

BUTCH.

I've had letters from women who were jealous of the other woman, jealous of their husband's love of sports, jealous of his love of reading, jealous of his family, particularly his mother, but this is the first time I have ever had a letter from a woman jealous of her own baby. And you will see, my dear girl, that I've left out of your letter some of the dreadful promptings this jealousy has brought about in regard to your own child.

Some men, and I hate to say it, refrain from demonstrations of affections to their wives when they see how it affects them. Try a little simulated indifference to this husband of yours. Make him want to know what has come over you and he will probably be as eager to kiss you as you are to be kissed. Sorry, but human nature is like that.

Faithfulness Wins Out

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm 23 years old, considered good-looking, and for more than two years I have been deeply interested in a girl of 21. I think I have a fairly good job, and I'm steady although not what you'd call brilliant.

Recently my girl met a young man who has a sport model automobile and a good-sized allowance from well-to-do parents, and has been going out with him quite frequently. I love her very much and don't know what to do in this case. Should I step out of the picture, or try to win her back?

WONDERING

It's pretty hard to stand up against a rival who has a snappy car and a generous allowance from doting parents. But this is a good way to spoil a young man and keep him from real success. You do not say you were positively engaged to this girl, so why this sweeping gesture of renunciation. Be friendly when you meet, and don't censure her for her change of heart.

And, my dear boy, it isn't necessary for me to tell you that young men with snappy cars and plenty of pocket money often change their minds about girls. If such a thing should happen, there you will be, ever faithful.

Uneasy Conscience

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been in love with a certain man for many years. About five years ago we had a quarrel, and I married another man for spite.

Recently, my husband was placed in a hospital for a serious illness, and shortly afterward I started corresponding with my former boy friend. I left my home town and went to live with this man's relatives and now he is willing to pay for my divorce so that we can be married.

I received a letter from my mother, who is near my husband and visits him regularly, saying that he is heartbroken and wants me to visit him, which I've never done as I think it's best to make a clean break. If I write or visit him, I know it will only re-open the old wound, and if I go back to him, my former boy friend said we'd be through for good.

I have a chance of being happy always, but still my conscience is bothering me as to whether I did the right thing by leaving so suddenly without even saying goodbye to my husband.

W. G.

It seems to me your conscience is entitled to a few twinges, not to say a good hard ache, considering what you've done. When you married for spite you took the bit in your teeth and followed your own bent. Now your husband is ill in hospital, wants desperately to see you and you decline to visit him. There is such a thing, my dear, as being a good sport, and as you married this man to spite another, and

Efforts To Extend Upswing Fails in Another Dull Day

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Efforts to extend Wednesday's stock market upswing ran into opposition today and about the best the list could do was to maintain its balance.

The Associated Press averages for industrials, rails and utilities finished where they left off yesterday, and the composite of sixty stocks was unchanged at 42.8. Transfers amounted to 264,760 shares.

Steels, motors, coppers and oils slipped fractionally. Modest improvement was registered for aircrafts and a few rails, utilities, mail orders and specialties.

United Aircraft pushed up 1 1-8 points on announcement the company had received an army-navy order for $160,000,000 worth of plane engines. Boeing, Glenn Martin, and Sperry ended a trifle improved.

Dow Chemical dropped 5. Small declines were suffered by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil of N. J., General Electric, Westinghouse, International Paper Preferred and J. C. Penney.

In a spotty curb Bell Aircraft Brewster Aero, Aviation & Transportation and United Wall Paper were a shade better. A bit lower were Gulf Oil, Lake Shore, Bath Iron Works and Cities Service.

About 47,000 shares were traded here.

Efforts To Extend Upswing Fails in Another Dull Day

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Efforts to extend Wednesday's stock market upswing ran into opposition today and about the best the list could do was to maintain its balance.

The Associated Press averages for industrials, rails and utilities finished where they left off yesterday, and the composite of sixty stocks was unchanged at 42.8. Transfers amounted to 264,760 shares.

Steels, motors, coppers and oils slipped fractionally. Modest improvement was registered for aircrafts and a few rails, utilities, mail orders and specialties.

United Aircraft pushed up 1 1-8 points on announcement the company had received an army-navy order for $160,000,000 worth of plane engines. Boeing, Glenn Martin, and Sperry ended a trifle improved.

Dow Chemical dropped 5. Small declines were suffered by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard Oil of N. J., General Electric, Westinghouse, International Paper Preferred and J. C. Penney.

In a spotty curb Bell Aircraft Brewster Aero, Aviation & Transportation and United Wall Paper were a shade better. A bit lower were Gulf Oil, Lake Shore, Bath Iron Works and Cities Service.

About 47,000 shares were traded here.

Mother Pays Tribute to Children; Reserves a Share for Herself

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

From British Columbia, Canada, came this:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have been going to write you again for over two years. . . . I wrote you regarding my youngest daughter, then 22 years old, who, after an illness, had to be sent to a mental home. Your letter to me and later an article helped me 'carry on' in very trying circumstances. . . . I blamed myself as one is bound to do but perhaps as you say, 'We parents are often too hard on ourselves.' Now that my daughter seems wholly recovered and leading a healthy normal life, I feel that I may have done a few things well and that her background and our influence for her good and happiness has helped to bring this about. . . .

A Thankful Heart

"As I look back over the New Year's holiday I do so with a thankful heart and proud of my children and wonder what I have done to deserve them. . . . We sometimes clash, as all mothers and children do, but at least they see reasons. They have decided views on many things, but as far as possible I try to respect them. . . .

"Their religion for the first part was taught by me reading Bible Stories (Hulbert's Story of the Bible, by Jesse Lyman Hulbert). I agree with you reading good books to children has a great educational value. Later education, although very good, may go to their heads instead of their hearts and induce personal selfishness.

Religion—being English Church, Episcopal, as we are called in the United States, I saw that all four were brought up in this faith. After confirmation I let them go their way, never making them go to church for 'my sake' or saying they 'must.' . . . My boy in the 'flower of manhood' answered his country's call and is now in training. Before leaving he said, 'Mum, I have a date with you tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock, Holy Communion.' Could a leave-taking be finer? The memory of that morning in church beside my boy will remain with me always"

This mother, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, closes her letter with one of her poems she permits me to print:

"The Designer"

Days go by when we never
Question why,
Then events begin to move more swiftly!
The design of life is changed
From rosy red, to black despair.
The Designer works out a plan
Piece by piece.
If we leave life in his hands!
The Black, the grey, the mauve,
Then gold, back to rosy red.
Then we know the answer
To life's story
Our minds made up to do our share!
The design is there
If we place the pieces carefully.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My daughter, four years old, sleeps till 7:30 every morning, and we get up at about 7. But on Sundays and holidays we like to sleep longer, though she insists on rising at 7:30 as usual.

A. Don't expect a young child to sleep any longer on Sunday morning or a holiday than on any other day. She is a creature of habit. Provide this child with toys then and show her how she can, on waking, amuse herself without annoying other members of the family.

Contract for Addition To Sanitarium Let

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—J. O. Freeman, Beckley contractor, submitted a low bid of $66,104.79 for construction of an addition to Pinecrest sanitarium near Beckley, and President Walter R. Thurmond of the Board of Control said the contract would be let to him.

The board announced at the same time that bids on the proposed $750,000 Mineral Industries building at West Virginia university will be opened September 20 at 1:30 p. m.

Turning the Tables

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—Rep. A. C. Schiffler, Republican candidate for re-election in the First district, was challenged today by his Democratic opponent, former Rep. Robert L. Ramsey, to a series of debates on national issues. Schiffler did not reply immediately.

The hippopotamus has a life span of about twenty years.

J. D. Price Dies

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—John D. Price, 69-year-old merchant, a native of Pomeroy, O., and city treasurer under two mayors, died today. He was the father of Dr. Robert B. Price, Charleston physician.

Cummings of the Stars of Brooklyn was the first baseball pitcher to pitch a curved ball.

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

From British Columbia, Canada, came this:

"Dear Dr. Myers: I have been going to write you again for over two years. . . . I wrote you regarding my youngest daughter, then 22 years old, who, after an illness, had to be sent to a mental home. Your letter to me and later an article helped me 'carry on' in very trying circumstances. . . . I blamed myself as one is bound to do but perhaps as you say, 'We parents are often too hard on ourselves.' Now that my daughter seems wholly recovered and leading a healthy normal life, I feel that I may have done a few things well and that her background and our influence for her good and happiness has helped to bring this about. . . .

A Thankful Heart

"As I look back over the New Year's holiday I do so with a thankful heart and proud of my children and wonder what I have done to deserve them. . . . We sometimes clash, as all mothers and children do, but at least they see reasons. They have decided views on many things, but as far as possible I try to respect them. . . .

"Their religion for the first part was taught by me reading Bible Stories (Hulbert's Story of the Bible, by Jesse Lyman Hulbert). I agree with you reading good books to children has a great educational value. Later education, although very good, may go to their heads instead of their hearts and induce personal selfishness.

Religion—being English Church, Episcopal, as we are called in the United States, I saw that all four were brought up in this faith. After confirmation I let them go their way, never making them go to church for 'my sake' or saying they 'must.' . . . My boy in the 'flower of manhood' answered his country's call and is now in training. Before leaving he said, 'Mum, I have a date with you tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock, Holy Communion.' Could a leave-taking be finer? The memory of that morning in church beside my boy will remain with me always"

This mother, Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, closes her letter with one of her poems she permits me to print:

"The Designer"

Days go by when we never
Question why,
Then events begin to move more swiftly!
The design of life is changed
From rosy red, to black despair.
The Designer works out a plan
Piece by piece.
If we leave life in his hands!
The Black, the grey, the mauve,
Then gold, back to rosy red.
Then we know the answer
To life's story
Our minds made up to do our share!
The design is there
If we place the pieces carefully.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My daughter, four years old, sleeps till 7:30 every morning, and we get up at about 7. But on Sundays and holidays we like to sleep longer, though she insists on rising at 7:30 as usual.

A. Don't expect a young child to sleep any longer on Sunday morning or a holiday than on any other day. She is a creature of habit. Provide this child with toys then and show her how she can, on waking, amuse herself without annoying other members of the family.

Contract for Addition To Sanitarium Let

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—J. O. Freeman, Beckley contractor, submitted a low bid of $66,104.79 for construction of an addition to Pinecrest sanitarium near Beckley, and President Walter R. Thurmond of the Board of Control said the contract would be let to him.

The board announced at the same time that bids on the proposed $750,000 Mineral Industries building at West Virginia university will be opened September 20 at 1:30 p. m.

Turning the Tables

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—Rep. A. C. Schiffler, Republican candidate for re-election in the First district, was challenged today by his Democratic opponent, former Rep. Robert L. Ramsey, to a series of debates on national issues. Schiffler did not reply immediately.

The hippopotamus has a life span of about twenty years.

J. D. Price Dies

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—John D. Price, 69-year-old merchant, a native of Pomeroy, O., and city treasurer under two mayors, died today. He was the father of Dr. Robert B. Price, Charleston physician.

Byrd Expedition Will Get Sunrise Radio Program

Tabloid Tour of World's Fair Will Be Presented

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The sun rises at the South Pole Friday—first day of light after the long Antarctic winter.

To help Admiral Byrd and his expedition ring in the day, the New York Sun is sponsoring a "tabloid tour" of the World's fair. The broadcast, to be heard in the United States on WEAF-NBC at 10:30 p. m., will be shortwaved to the South Pole.

Music and Talks

The program will include music, talks and a message from Mrs. John L. Douglass of East Orange, N. J., to her son, Malcolm, who is with the expedition.

Comedian Joe E. Brown will star in "Lady in the Moon," a play by Basil Heatter, son of Gabriel Heatter, on MBS' Command Performance at 8:30 p. m. Grace MacDonald, young Broadway star, will play opposite him.

Arthur Schwartz, American composer of "I Love Louisa," "Dancing in the Dark" and other hits, appears with Lanny Ross at 6:15 p. m. He'll be back on the air Saturday with Ilka Chase on WJZ-NBC at 12:30 p. m.

Counterfeiter Feature

Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes co-star in a spy and counterfeit ring thriller on Wings for America at 7 p. m. on MBS.

The life of rough-and-ready William Stewart, first senator from Nevada, will be told on Death Valley Days (WJZ-NBC 7:30 p. m.)

Lucille Manners sings the "Habanera" from "Carmen" on Frank Black's concert on WEAF-NBC at 7.

John Barnett, 22-year-old conductor, will lead the Alfred Wallenstein Sinfonietta on MBS at 7:30 in Wallenstein's vacation period.

Al Pearce's Gang (CBS 6:30) turns its attention to county fairs this week.

Strictly Business, WEAF-NBC's comedy at 7 p. m. Fridays, winds up this week to give place to a mystery series, The Bishop and the Gargoyle.

It is said that all the blood in the body goes in and out of the heart every minute.

PATTERN 9511

Good news for youthful homemakers, in a beguiling new cotton frock! Pattern 9511 is a Marian Martin design that you'll find marvelously quick to stitch up with the Sewing Instructor. The center panels, front and back, take just a jiffy to cut and sew. Smooth fit through the waist is given by the high-placed side seams that allow for nice skirt flare, too. Let starchy ruffles spring out from the bodice seams, pinafore style. Or omit them, and use colorful ric-rac instead. The ruffles and sleeve-bands would be gay in contrast—or try contrast for the entire sleeves and bodice sides, giving a jumper and blouse effect!

Pattern 9511 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Your Fashion Future is in the new Marian Martin pattern book. . . . just off the press. A brilliant forecast of Fall and Winter, with stunning costumes for every age and type. There are pages of "good black dresses" . . . gay "party lines" for evening . . . a college wardrobe line-up . . . youngster school and dress-up modes. You'll see slimming forty-plus frocks, North and South sports clothes and many tailored suits and dresses. Order your copy now. Book fifteen cents Pattern fifteen cents. Eastern Shore Counties Argue over Who's Champ Tomato Peeler

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Aug. 29 (AP)—They may be forced to stage a tomato peeling tournament in these parts to settle the latest dispute—who's the champion tomato peeler in the lower Eastern Shore.

Somerset county tomato experts, who claim the tomatoes grown in this section are so supreme they should be referred to as "fruit" rather than a vegetable, said after a local survey that the fastest peeler in Princess Anne once skinned 73 buckets per day.

Imagine the shock, therefore, when up Salisbury way came a claim that a negro woman there chalked up 90 buckets, all in one day's work.

"Positive confirmation is being sought here" was the only reply when the Princess Anne contingent was asked for a statement.

Maybe it's the size of the buckets, one observer suggested.

But, even though the question probably must be held over until next season for a definite showdown, Somerset countains point with pride at this year's crop.

It was one of the largest packs in recent years, canneries, say, and farmers report "exceptional yields per acre," with 1,000 baskets and more per acre not unusual.

No part of the United States, except certain of the Florida Keys, is free from frost.

Byrd Expedition Will Get Sunrise Radio Program

Tabloid Tour of World's Fair Will Be Presented

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
Associated Press Radio Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The sun rises at the South Pole Friday—first ray of light after the long Antarctic winter.

To help Admiral Byrd and his expedition ring in the day, the New York Sun is sponsoring a "tabloid tour" of the World's fair. The broadcast, to be heard in the United States on WEAF-NBC at 10:30 p. m., will be shortwaved to the South Pole.

Music and Talks

The program will include music, talks and a message from Mrs. John L. Douglass of East Orange, N. J., to her son, Malcolm, who is with the expedition.

Comedian Joe E. Brown will star in "Lady in the Moon," a play by Basil Heatter, son of Gabriel Heatter, on MBS' Command Performance at 8:30 p. m. Grace MacDonald, young Broadway star, will play opposite him.

Arthur Schwartz, American composer of "I Love Louisa," "Dancing in the Dark" and other hits, appears with Lanny Ross at 6:15 p. m. He'll be back on the air Saturday with Ilka Chase on WJZ-NBC at 12:30 p. m.

Counterfeiter Feature

Elissa Landi and Phillips Holmes co-star in a spy and counterfeit ring thriller on Wings for America at 7 p. m. on MBS.

The life of rough-and-ready William Stewart, first senator from Nevada, will be told on Death Valley Days (WJZ-NBC 7:30 p. m.)

Lucille Manners sings the "Habanera" from "Carmen" on Frank Black's concert on WEAF-NBC at 7.

John Barnett, 22-year-old conductor, will lead the Alfred Wallenstein Sinfonietta on MBS at 7:30 in Wallenstein's vacation period.

Al Pearce's Gang (CBS 6:30) turns its attention to county fairs this week.

Strictly Business, WEAF-NBC's comedy at 7 p. m. Fridays, winds up this week to give place to a mystery series, The Bishop and the Gargoyle.

It is said that all the blood in the body goes in and out of the heart every minute.

OAKLAND, Aug. 29 — At least thirty-five cases, including one murder charge, will be brought before the grand jury during the September term of Circuit court, according to State's Attorney, Neil C. Fraley.

The murder charge is against William Durst, 67, of the Dry Run community, accused of the shotgun slaying of his step-son, Paul Filsinger, 33, of Hutton.

Wedding Trade Booms

Marriage license business here has greatly increased within the past few weeks, with the result that licenses being granted here are reaching the average of two or three years ago, prior to the forty-eight hour waiting period.

Auto Demolished, Driver Uninjured

Former Hyndman Resident Escapes Injury in Freak Accident

HYNDMAN, Pa., Aug. 29—Charles Mason, of Pittsburgh, formerly of Hyndman, is sorry to be without an automobile, but glad to be alive.

Mason, who has been vacationing here, escaped unhurt Tuesday when the new 1940 Oldsmobile he was driving skidded on the wet pavement of Route 28 near Green Spring, W. Va., and turned a couple of somersaults.

The car was demolished, but Mason climbed out unhurt.

Car Theft Probed

State Motor police were still probing today the mystery of a stolen car found parked on Route 96 in the hamlet of Will's Creek, a mile north of here.

Ordinarily, stolen cars are driven until they are out of gas and then abandoned. But this one, owned by a Saxon, Pa., youth and stolen from the fairgrounds at Meyersdale last Thursday, still had eight gallons of gas in the tank and plenty of oil, and was in good running condition.

Police theorize it might have been "borrowed" by some resident of the Hyndman area to avoid the need of hitch-hiking back here from the fair. But the hitch-hiker has not yet been "picked up" by the officers.

Hyndman public school will reopen for the fall term at 9 a. m. Tuesday, according to Supervising Principal Lloyd G. Keller.

Highest W. Va. Coal Production In 11 Years Predicted for 1940

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP) — The highest West Virginia coal production in eleven years was forecast today by the State Chamber of Commerce, which said other major indications of business and industry were about on par with 1937, "boom" year of a decade.

Only crude petroleum output, lagging behind the seven-month 1939 volume by 5.8 per cent, and construction, trailing by 24.5 per cent, are going counter to the trend, the August, natives said.

The chamber estimated the state will increase from about twenty-five to thirty percent its share in the nation's coal production and that the output will amount to as much as 130,000,000 tons.

In 1937, tonnage amounted to 119,000,000. Only during the four years 1926-1929 was there a greater tonnage than that expected for 1940.

"Coal production to date," the chamber said, "is about fifty per cent ahead of the same relative date in both 1938 and 1939, and stands 5.7 per cent ahead of 1937.

"Anticipation of growing needs in connection with the national defense program, as well as the customary impetus that marks Great Lakes shipments in the fall months, provides further grounds for optimism."

The report added that "gradually every one of the major indices of trade and industry equals or approaches equality with levels reached in 1937, the best previous year in the past ten."

Bank debits, a "most delicate and responsive barometer," were reported twenty-one per cent greater than 1939. Retail sales in 739 of the largest department, grocery, clothing, furniture and hardware outlets were up 9.3 per cent.

A 2.9 per cent gain was reported for cash farm income, 12.6 per cent for natural gas, 0.5 per cent for electric power production and 23.3 per cent for "available figures on the wages of workers."

Manhunt Pushed for W. Va. Fugitive As Second Shooting Victim Dies

RICHWOOD, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP) —Wounds suffered by seventeen-year-old Charles Wood in gunfire which killed his twenty-three-year-old aunt resulted in his death in a hospital here today and the filing of a second charge of murder against the girl's former employer.

Wayne Power, Webster county deputy sheriff, said officers holding the warrants extended their search for John Fitzgerald, beer parlor operator of Calvin, Nicholas county, beyond the Webster and Nicholas county borders.

Mrs. Jessie Wood, a divorcee and Charles' aunt, was shot to death in a car about a mile and a half from Camden-on-Gauley where both lived.

Power quoted Harold Hyatt, 22, a lumber company worker, as saying he had taken Mrs. Wood to a theater in Richwood and had picked up young Wood in Camden-on-Gauley to take him to his home nearby.

Fitzwater began a quarrel in the theater with Mrs. Wood. Power said he was told, and followed the car in which the aunt, nephew and Hyatt were riding.

Hyatt said he escaped injury in the gunfire by running into a thicket.

Mrs. Wood, shot five times, died in the car. Young Wood was wounded in the abromen.

Highest W. Va. Coal Production In 11 Years Predicted for 1940

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP) — The highest West Virginia coal production in eleven years was forecast today by the State Chamber of Commerce, which said other major indications of business and industry were about on par with 1937, "boom" year of a decade.

Only crude petroleum output, lagging behind the seven-month 1939 volume by 5.8 per cent, and construction, trailing by 24.5 per cent, are going counter to the trend, the August, natives said.

The chamber estimated the state will increase from about twenty-five to thirty percent its share in the nation's coal production and that the output will amount to as much as 130,000,000 tons.

In 1937, tonnage amounted to 119,000,000. Only during the four years 1926-1929 was there a greater tonnage than that expected for 1940.

"Coal production to date," the chamber said, "is about fifty per cent ahead of the same relative date in both 1938 and 1939, and stands 5.7 per cent ahead of 1937.

"Anticipation of growing needs in connection with the national defense program, as well as the customary impetus that marks Great Lakes shipments in the fall months, provides further grounds for optimism."

The report added that "gradually every one of the major indices of trade and industry equals or approaches equality with levels reached in 1937, the best previous year in the past ten."

Bank debits, a "most delicate and responsive barometer," were reported twenty-one per cent greater than 1939. Retail sales in 739 of the largest department, grocery, clothing, furniture and hardware outlets were up 9.3 per cent.

A 2.9 per cent gain was reported for cash farm income, 12.6 per cent for natural gas, 0.5 per cent for electric power production and 23.3 per cent for "available figures on the wages of workers."

Nine Aliens Register In Garrett County

OAKLAND, Aug. 29—Only nine aliens of Garrett county were registered the first three days since the new law went into effect at the Oakland postoffice, according to Postmaster I. R. Rudy.

There is no way of learning how many aliens there are in this county who are expected to register, but it is presumed that the largest group will be in the mining sections along the Western Maryland railway.

Aliens have until December 26 to comply with the law. The Oakland postoffice is the only one in the county where they may register.

The mouse lost.

Spider vs. Mouse

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—A black widow spider caught a mouse in her web, administered a lethal bite and had her victim almost completely suspended in the air when man intervened.

Virgil F. Fulton, who witnessed the unusual encounter, photographed it for proof. Fulton discovered the mouse when he heard a rustling beneath a work bench at his home.

As he watched, the spider raced down her web and shot poison into the mouse's back. Then the spider crawled across the floor to a strip of paper toughened with shellac, dragged it to the web, secured it to the strands, and fastened one end to the mouse's tail.

Moving swiftly from one anchorage to another, the black widow drew the web taut until within a few minutes the mouse was suspended with its forefeet barely touching the floor. The mouse, consciousness regained, was struggling hopelessly when Fulton mercifully put an end to the contest.

Armadillo vs. Fawn

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Huntsmen hereabouts say they never heard of an incident like the one Joe Singletary and Grady Martin reported on White Oak creek.

Hunting squirrels, they came upon a large armadillo attacking a newly born fawn. The armadillo is considered a non-predatory animal.

Dog vs. Snake

Hog vs. Fox

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. Robert Gano, feeding her chickens, noticed a large red fox near the pen. She set out after the fox with a broom and chased it into the hog pen.

The startled hog gave one look and then seized the fox in its jaws. The chase ended right there.

Unwelcome Attention

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

He works in the same office building with me. He's ill-groomed, messy - looking and needs to be made acquainted with a barber, the clothes presser, etc. I didn't know the man was alive but it seems he fell for me in the elevator and he sent me a pound box of cheap candy, declaring his love, asked for a date. Naturally I ignored it.

Now he is writing to me that I am his dream of a wife but, believe me, he's my nightmare of a husband. Going down in the elevator the other evening he jogged my arm and said: "I'm the guy that sent you that box of candy." I answered: "I haven't touched it, would you like to have it back?" He said, "Please keep it." I'm now being spyed by the entire force of the business organization which employs me. I find it pretty difficult not to show my indignation.

TORMENTED.

Please don't show the office force that these unwelcome attentions irritate you or they're likely to continue in even a more aggravated form. We human creatures are like that. And when it comes to teasing, even a person with whom we have friendly relations, we're apt to lose our tempers. Just pretend these unwelcome attentions amuse you as much as they do your fellow employees.

Find a Steady Job, Then Marry

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Did you ever hear of a man falling in love with the first girl he ever met? Well I did. I've written her many letters and now that she is visiting here, I'm sorry I ever wrote those letters. How would I go about asking her forgiveness?

I want to marry this girl, but don't know how to go about it. I have nothing to offer her, but I am very talented. If she'd say "yes" to my proposal, I'd have something to look forward to. I can paint, draw sketches, design, do intricate block print work, sculpture, and many other phases of work, which, as you know, would give me above average wages.

I don't mean to ask her to marry me right away, but I would expect to save up five hundred dollars. I couldn't ever bear the thought of marrying anyone else, and the thought of her going home worries me sick. Please give me an idea how to approach her on the marriage question.

PROBLEM CHILD

What could you have put in those letters that makes you regret having written them? I wish you had been a little clearer on this point. And don't you think it would be more prudent to wait until these various arts and crafts, in which you tell me you are so proficient, land you in a steady job before making an offer of marriage to the one and only girl?

Sad as it is, the world has its full quota of gifted people who find it hard to turn a penny. But as all girls are flattered by a proposal of marriage, you might tell her of your artistic prospects and sound her out as to how she feels about them.

LEE WINTER DANCE STUDIO

Cor. Baltimore and Centre St. Cumberland, Md.

Dear Ruth;

Scuse the scribble, but I'm waiting for Shirley to meet me here at the Studio for a little dancing practise so I won't have forgotten everything when we start classes Sept. 7th.. Gosh, you should see the Studio — is it ever smooth! All redecorated in new lovely colors and of course you know we have all kinds of equipment like mirrors, practise bars, acrobatic mats etc. that so few dancing schools ever have. It's heaps nicer than lots of the big dancing schools we visit in New York. I often think how lucky I am to live in a town that has such a big, modern dancing school.

Mr. Winter says our Winterette Club will be going full force again in a few weeks. I guess I have told you all about that! Goodness knows I'm crazy enough about it. The studio is divided into clubs. Those who are old enough belong to the Winterettes, the professional club. Then there are the Junior Winterettes (who are giving us plenty of competition), and this year there will be a Beginners Club for those just starting. We have marvelous times we go every place, and have supper parties. I'll tell you in detail later. Speaking of beginners, a darling kiddie just came in to enroll with her mother. She wants to dance like Shirley Temple, she says, and I think every girl in town has the same idea because simply everyone I know will be dancing at the Lee Winter Studios this Fall. How about it, Ruthie, are you coming too?

LAST DAY—BOB BURNS, MISCHA AUER in "ALIAS THE DEACON"

Late News Events as Pictured by the Cameramen

ASSOCIATED PRESS PICTURE NEWS

OVER THE HARD WAY—Just to dispel any doubts about her riding ability, Evelyn Mellergaard, 19, of the Ellensburg, Wash., rodeo took her favorite mount over this fence. She's to be queen of the Ellensburg rodeo and roundup.

TROLLEY WINS OVER POLICE VAN—Ripped apart in a collision with a trolley car in Philadelphia, this police patrol wagon stands, in pieces, on pavement. Note how impact tore body. Three patrolmen were hurt and passengers in derailed trolley were shaken.

FORECAST—Old Glory waves, too, over as neat a morsel as Marcy Morgan of Washington, D. C., who'll be queen of the September president's cup regatta in capital.

IT'S HIS SECRET—How foxy C. S. Ault of San Francisco, a glass blower by profession, managed to get Hazel, a show girl, into that glass he's blowing might seem like magic—save for the presence of the photographer, who stood at an angle to catch the glass and the girl seated on pier beyond. Ault, who's been blowing glass 30 years, is at Golden Gate Exposition.

FANCY THIS—Yep, those are fringed pants worn by dashing Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, N. Y. socialite, seen in a definitely Peter Pan-ish outfit at swanky Newport, R. I.

ONE SCOUT TO ANOTHER—That one-time Eagle Badge Boy Scout who is now a conductor of Wagner, Edwin McArthur (right), received a special medal from Vernon Washburn during the former's concert series in Chicago. The medal was in appreciation of McArthur's efforts to "aid and encourage young musicians." McArthur was a scout in his native Denver.

SEASONED WITH PEPPER—Through Washington streets this effigy of Sen. Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat supporting compulsory military training, was dragged by women who said they represented the Congress of Mothers of U. S. A., opposing a draft. They managed to hang the effigy briefly from a capitol tree. Dummy was marked "Claude Benedict Arnold Pepper."

BIG JOB—What a task lies ahead of Earl G. Harrison, U. S. director of alien registration. Between mid August and late December 3,500,000 aliens in U. S. are to be listed.

TWO CROWNED HEADS—So vast is their kingdom that the leaves almost cover them—little Adeline Blount and Miller Thomas, who were co-rulers of the tobacco festival at Wilson, N. C. Youngsters are in a tobacco field. Theirs was a two-day reign as this [illegible] farmers in the southland, paid tribute to [illegible] in a livelihood.

'CHOCOLATE, SOLDIER?'—There's nothing like war maneuvers to whet a man's appetite for a soda. This is Pvt. Steve Zinchiak at Madrid, N. Y., reviving self thanks to Leo Condhin (right). He's an infantryman from Meadville, Pa.

FARM MAN—Successor to Henry A. Wallace in the cabinet, as secretary of agriculture, is Claude R. Wickard (above), 47, Indiana-born farm leader. He has been active in the affairs of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

HEADWORK—Jackie Hayes, Chicago White Sox second baseman, takes no chances of being "beaned." He wears a helmet. He'll undergo cataract operation at end of season.

GOLD STAR FROM CONNIE—"How to Catch in the Big League" might be the title of this action shot of Frank Hayes, catcher with the Philadelphia Athletics. He's regarded by Connie Mack and other baseball experts as almost the best catcher in either major league, and was busy in a White Sox-A's game at the time. His home is in Freehold, N. J.

RATIO OF SEVEN TO ONE—To keep one plane aloft at Randolph Field, Texas, seven highly trained mechanics work on ground jobs—as these fellows are. They're running ignition wiring through metal housings, for otherwise interference would render useless the sensitive radio receiver. More than 300 planes are in daily use at this U. S. army air base.

eturning from a nerve-wracking as-gnment, Gun Cotton, famous Scotland d agent, goes to Sleichtner's Egyp-n Ray-Baths, where he becomes in-ested in a mysterious stranger med Pullinger, who is wearing a ood Egyptian symbol. Pullinger is by a beautiful flame-haired girl at swimming pool in the baths.

CHAPTER SEVEN

GUN WATCHED Pullinger and e red-head. They strolled around an even pace, and absorbed in nversation. Apparently they had ite a lot to say to each other.

Gun rested his elbows on the nd and supported his head on his nds—which concealed his face ite well.

As the pair drew nearer he rained his ears to catch a word two of what they were saying. t they spoke in low tones, and Gun could hear was that the girl d a very soft and tuneful voice—asset in any woman! But not an set to Gun at that moment!

Then, just as he was despairing, e raised her voice, very slightly, t enough for Gun to clearly catch o or three words. She said:

"Oh, I guess Emil will deal with yone like that."

Emil! That was the hawk-nosed ssistant manager, presumably—d she might well have been re-rring to undesirables who got to the baths. Or she might not.

Just as Gun was changing his sition once more, Daphne reap-ared. She had re-made her face, d was smiling once more. She me straight across to Gun.

"I had to come out here to dry ," she announced. "Besides, I n't see why I should let you spoil erything."

She sat down beside him, and n gave the real reason for her ppearance.

"I say, what did you mean by all t rot about you not being late?"

"The truth of the matter is that was stung by you calling me Me-elah," said Gun. "Every man nts to seem young to a beautiful you know."

Daphne smiled. This was the sort thing she understood, and liked.

"Sorry I got cross," she apolo-ed. "There's something terribly about you."

Pullinger and the red-headed girl parted, and each were disap-aring through their separate rways.

"Well, that's fine," said Gun. He e hastily. "I must go and do mething about it. Cheerio!"

And he left her sitting there, still ildered.

In the coffee room Gun saw Pul-ger again. He was standing in a corner, in close converse with the Egyptian.

As Gun came into the room they h looked around at him, and n could read suspicion on the k face, and a sort of amused tempt on the fairer one. For e reason that annoyed him. He not mind the Egyptian's sus-on, but he did not at all like look of Pullinger, and he re-ted the suggested contempt.

He had entered the room hur-ly, and he hurried across it, nd his way to his cubicle, and templated the telephone. The a in his mind was that he would someone to shadow Pullinger, le he went and had a word with about it. He had a feeling X ld be interested.

Gun decided that he couldn't be wo places at once. A confound-nuisance that Charles Cazelton s away—who the devil could be hold of?

He ran over some names in his d, and came to Prescott's. Pres-t would be the man—if he was town. Gun knew his club, where was usually to be found at this r.

As the waiter brought the coffee, the door opened and Prescott entered.

Gun picked up the telephone re-ceiver and asked for the number in a low voice.

"Hullo! Is Mr. Prescott in the club?"

"I think so, sir. He came in a few minufes ago. But I'll make certain if you'll hold on a moment. What name shall I say, please?"

"Mr. Cotton."

"Er—yes, sir. Mr. Cotton! Hold on, please."

A delay. Faint noises came to him over the phone. Two men talk-ing indistinguishably. A page call-ing, monotonously: "Mr. Digby-Jones, please. Mr. Digby-Jones, please" . . . until his voice died into the distance. The muffled rat-tling of a typewriter.

Gun fidgeted, and wondered who he could get if Prescott wasn't there. Minutes were precious, too.

A voice in his ear, loud and sud-den.

"Im sorry, but your time is up. Do you want another call?"

"Yes! Don't cut me off!"

"Please put another twopence in the box!"

"Very well—just a moment. . . . Ah, here we are. . . . One—two . . .!"

Pause again—and then the voice of Prescott:

"Hull-LO . . .! Who's that?"

"Cotton speaking. That Pres-cott?"

"Yes, Mr. Cotton"

"Are you doing anything special at the moment?"

"Only having a drink!"

"I could do with one myself, and I'm sorry to disturb you, but the fact is I've got a man here I want trailed, and I don't want to do it myself at the moment. You're about the best man for that game. Can you come around here at once?"

"Surely. Where are you, Mr. Cotton?"

Gun explained.

"There's a very convenient res-taurant opposite, with a view from the window. Can you meet me there right away?"

"I'll be there in five minutes, Mr. Cotton!"

Gun rang off and heaved a sigh of relief. "Coffin" Prescott was an able man at his particular work. He'd stick to the tail of Mr. Pull-inger all right!

In the restaurant opposite the baths, Gun ordered two black cof-fees.

"My friend will join me in a mo-ment . . .!" noting the waiter's puzzled glance.

He took a seat in the window, screened from the gaze of anyone outside by the wire-blind, but quite able to see anyone who came out of the baths.

He hoped Prescott wouldn't de-lay—the man Pullinger might emerge at any moment.

As the waiter brought the two small cups of dark, steaming li-quid, the door opened, and Pres-cott entered. He was a man of me-dium height, but looked, for some reason, smaller and slighter than he really was. He had pale blue eyes set in an almost dead white face, and invariably wore sober and respectable black, with a well-brushed bowler hat. There was a suggestion of the undertaker about him, which possibly account-ed for his nickname.

"Sit down, Coffin," said Gun, quickly. "We won't have much time. The fellow I want you to trail is suspect—no more than that—and I don't even know ex-actly what I suspect him of. But I want you to stick to him like a limpet, see where he goes and what he does and, if possible, what he says. In fact, I want you to find out all you can about him."

"Very well, Mr. Cotton!"

"If and when you've anything to report, telephone X. I may be there myself—if not, see if X is inter-ested. Understand?"

"Yes, Mr. Cotton. Do I . . . I"

"Here he comes!" Gun interrupt-ed quickly. "The tall fellow in the tweed suit. Standing by the curb now!"

Coffin Prescott leaned forward to get a better view, and Gun noticed with amusement that the nostrils of his thin, sharp nose were dilating, like those of a hound sniffing the first faint scent.

Pullinger, on the other side of the road, turned and commenced to walk away, without hurry.

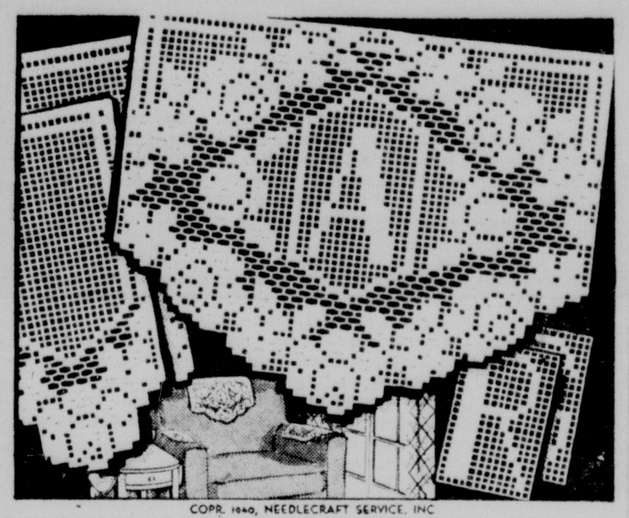

"Off you go!" said Gun to Pres-cott.

"Right you are. See you later, Mr. Cotton."

Prescott rose, walked briskly to the door, and then, as he made his exit, dropped his pace to an appar-ently careless saunter.

AN EXPLANATION

It is not with any pleasure on my part that I must advertise your property for sale for non-payment of taxes. On the other hand, as I have tried to explain to you before, I owe a duty to my friends who have risked their property to go security on my bond, to the bonding company furnishing my bond, and to myself, for everything I have, or ever expect to have is staked on my bond.

You must understand that my bond is a duty performance bond, and if I fail to collect the taxes, my bond, secured by my friends, is responsible for the collection of same. The oath of my office, and the promise it was necessary for me to make to the bonding company furnishing my bond was that I would enforce the laws governing the collection of taxes. This I intend to do.

I know your property is worth the taxes, but if everyone waited until they owed several years taxes, you would not have any City, County or State Government. They would all be insolvent. This you would not want.

If you have a mortgage on your property it is up to you to arrange with your mortgager as to the payment of your taxes, as my bonding company, my friends, who have gone my security, and myself are not in the banking business. The six percent you pay on your delinquent taxes is paid to the State and County and does not go to the Tax Collector.

I hereby serve warning to every person, corporation and company, owing 1939 taxes, that they must be paid at once or I intend to advertise, according to law, all tax delinquent property. This means everyone. There will not be any exceptions and I do not intend to write any letters of warning before I advertise.

I am sorry to have to take this stand but under the circumstances I am unable to do otherwise.

ALBAN C. THOMPSON, Tax Collector.

Also, all persons, corporation or company owing any taxes to George G. Young, Tax Collector will be advertised on or before September 1, 1940.

AN EXPLANATION

It is not with any pleasure on my part that I must advertise your property for sale for non-payment of taxes. On the other hand, as I have tried to explain to you before, I owe a duty to my friends who have risked their property to go security on my bond, to the bonding company furnishing my bond, and to myself, for everything I have, or ever expect to have is staked on my bond.

You must understand that my bond is a duty performance bond, and if I fail to collect the taxes, my bond, secured by my friends, is responsible for the collection of same. The oath of my office, and the promise it was necessary for me to make to the bonding company furnishing my bond was that I would enforce the laws governing the collection of taxes. This I intend to do.

I know your property is worth the taxes, but if everyone waited until they owed several years taxes, you would not have any City, County or State Government. They would all be insolvent. This you would not want.

If you have a mortgage on your property it is up to you to arrange with your mortgager as to the payment of your taxes, as my bonding company, my friends, who have gone my security, and myself are not in the banking business. The six percent you pay on your delinquent taxes is paid to the State and County and does not go to the Tax Collector.

I hereby serve warning to every person, corporation and company, owing 1939 taxes, that they must be paid at once or I intend to advertise, according to law, all tax delinquent property. This means everyone. There will not be any exceptions and I do not intend to write any letters of warning before I advertise.

I am sorry to have to take this stand but under the circumstances I am unable to do otherwise.

ALBAN C. THOMPSON, Tax Collector.

Also, all persons, corporation or company owing any taxes to George G. Young, Tax Collector will be advertised on or before September 1, 1940.

Green Bay Packers Beat All-Stars 45-28

84,567 Fans See Wildest Scoring Game of Series

Professional Champions Prove Too Tough for College Boys

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP) — In the wildest scoring battle in the history of the series, the Green Bay Packers, Champions of the National Professional Football League, defeating the College All-Stars 45 to 28, before a record-breaking crowd of 84,567 spectators in flood-lighted Soldier Field tonight.

The game, ushering in the 1940 football season, gave the Packers an opportunity to make amends for their failure of three years ago and also gave the Professionals an edge in the series, which had been deadlocked with two victories apiece and two ties.

The thrilling contest produced the highest scoring since the series was inaugurated seven years ago, eclipsing the game of 1938 when the All-Stars conquered the Washington Red Skins, 28 to 16. It also drew the greatest crowd, exceeding the previous record in 1937 of 84,560.

The Packers, with a super aerial attack, packed too much punch in the air for the Collegians.

Paced by Cecil Isbell, famed Purdue athlete, who is 1938 led the All-Stars to triumph, the Packers scored six touchdowns with Isbell throwing three long, scoring passes and running for the final touchdown himself.

The Packers scored twice in each of the first two quarters, with the Collegians getting one touchdown in the first period and two in the second. Amby Schindler ran for an All-Star touchdown in the first three and a half minutes of the game, but Green Bay came back to score twice on passes by Cecil Isbell, with Don Hutson and Carl Mulleneaux making the catches.

The All-Stars counted within the first two minutes of the second quarter to tie the score, Ken Washington making the touchdown, but Andy Uram then scored on a pass from Arnie Herber and Don Hutson took another touchdown pass to make the Packers lead 28-14.

Shortly before the half time intermission, Nile Kinnick shot a long pass to Banks McFadden for a third All-Star score.

Packers Run Wild

In the third quarter Green Bay put its rushing attack into high gear for the first time late in the period. Herber passed 18 yards to Hutson, who raced for a touchdown unmolested. Smith's placement was good, giving Green Bay a lead of 35 to 21.

Soon after the final period opened, Washington and Schindler sparked the All-Stars to another touchdown. Starting on the Green Bay 46 Washington shot passes to Dick Evans of Iowa and Kavanaugh which carried the Collegians to the packer 28. Another pass by Washington to Schindler gained 16 yards, with Schindler then smashing to the three-yard line on two tries. On the third play Schindler cracked left guard for a touchdown, Kinnick drop-kicking for the extra point.

Starting on their own 20, the Packers combined passes by Isbell to Hutson and Gantenbein with a running game to drive to the All-Star 29. A fumble put the Packers back to the All-Star 34 but on the first play Paul Engebretsen booted a perfect field goal.

With less than two minutes to play, Charley Brock intercepted Washington's pass. Isbell's pass to Mulleneaux put the Packers on the All-Star four and Isbell then rounded right end for a touchdown. Hutson's placement for the point was good. The game ended after a desperate but futile All-Star aerial bid.

Tigers Win Two From Senators 3 to 2 and 6-0

Move to within Two Games of League Leading Indians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The second place Detroit Tigers today moved up to within two games of the league leading Cleveland Indians by virtue of a double victory over the Washington Senators.

Detroit won the first game 3-2; then took the second, a 6-inning affair, 6-0.

Cleveland was rained out in Philadelphia.

Big Buck Newsom won his 17th victory of the campaign in the nightcap, limiting the Senators to 4 hits, while it was Schoolboy Rowe's hitting as well as pitching which took the first game.

Hank Greenberg, the Detroit left-hander, was no drawback in either contest. In the first game Hank hit his 25th homer of the year. He also got a double and two singles. In the nightcap he blasted his 26th round tripper.

Rowe's hit, however, was the one that spelled victory.

With Dick Bartell on second base in the eighth inning and one out, the Schoolboy hit Ken Chase's first pitch against the right field fence for a run-scoring double.

The second game was a breeze for Newsom, after Detroit scored three times in the first inning on an error, Charley Gehringer's single and Greenberg's round-tripper.

The game was called at the end of the sixth because of darkness, and from the way Newsom was going, the night saved the Senators considerable embarrassment.

Cardinals Trim Giants as McGee Hurls Fine Game

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29 (AP) — The fast-charging St. Louis Cardinals piled up five runs in the first inning today and shut out the New York Giants 5 to 0 on the magnificent two-hit hurling of fiddler Bill McGee.

The victory gave the Redbirds undisputed possession of third place in the National League and dropped the Giants back to within half a game of the fifth place Pittsburgh Pirates.

The only blows given up by McGee in nailing his thirteenth win were singles, one in the first by Johnny Rucker and the other in the eighth by Tony Cuccinello.

Derringer Wins Over Brooklyn For Cincinnati

Scatters Seven Hits, One a Homer by Medwick, for Victory

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP) — Neither rain nor the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers could stop the Cincinnati Reds today as they hammered out a 9 to 3 triumph that gave them an apparent unshakable 8½ games grip on the National League lead.

Already behind their schedule and forced to play a game tomorrow on what was to have been an open date, the two teams waited an hour beyond starting time today for a break in a downpour in order to get their game going. Rain fell persistently through the last 4½ innings.

Paul Derringer, in acquiring his 17th victory, kept seven hits scattered, although one of them was a home run by Ducky Medwick in the first inning.

On the other hand the Reds battered five Brooklyn pitchers for a dozen hits, including two home runs.

They went to work on Whitlow Wyatt with two runs in the first inning and scored again in the second, causing Wyatt to be replaced the following frame by Lefty Lee Grissom, a former Red.

He gave up a walk and a single that resulted in a run on a force-out and was removed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth. Tex Carleton passed out three runs immediately on two singles, a fly, and Ernie Lombardi's 14th home run. Hugh Casey did little better, giving a single ahead of a home run to Billy Myers in the sixth.

The Dodgers had rookie Pete Reiser at third base in place of Harry Lavagetto who was operated on today for appendicitis.

Rains Cause Delay In Tennis Tourney

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) — Start of the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills, scheduled for tomorrow, was deferred today because heavy rains this week left the courts in no condition for play. Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association said they hoped play could be started Saturday.

Rampaging Yanks Blast St. Louis In Doubleheader

Score All First Game Runs in One Inning; Second Goes 13 Frames

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The courageous New York Yankees battled like champions today to sweep a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns 10 to 3 and 6 to 3 and narrow the gap separating them from first place to 4 1-2 games, 2 1-2 out of second.

The first game was a contest only until the fifth inning, when the Yankees scored all their ten runs in a startling uprising that saw the bases filled nine times as 16 men went to bat. Lefty Marius Russo coasted to his eleventh victory by scattering 11 hits.

The nightcap went 13 innings before a perfect squeeze bunt by Frank Crosetti with the bases loaded and two out brought home the winning run.

Elder Auker went all the way for St. Louis and was winning 4 to 1 with two out in the ninth. Then Joe DiMaggio, riding the bench because of a charley horse, delivered a pinch homer with two on to tie the score.

George McQuinn opened the eleventh with a home run, but the Yanks again knotted the count on Charley Keller's double and Buddy Rosar's single.

Pittsburgh Whips Philadelphia 4-0

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29 (AP) — Hitting timely and turning in three double plays, the Pittsburgh Pirates whitewashed Philadelphia today 4 to 0 for their eighth straight triumph over the Quakers.

Mace Brown, who has shown a tendency to weaken in the late innings, was summarily yanked by Manager Frankie Frisch in the eighth after rookie Dan Litwhiler singled and Johnny Rizzo bounced a double off the left field fence. Danny MacFayden halted the potential rally.

The Dream Swing

HERSHEY, Pa.—"How do they do it?" "What do they do that I don't or can't do in tearing par apart?" "How do they make it look so easy?" "How can little Hogan hit one that far?"

Hershey's is the place this week where good golf lessons bloom like roses in June. It is the place to see the dream swing put together in one piece. For those who have the imitative instinct or the instinct for analysis, for those with picture minds, one could pick up enough golf tips here to last two lifetimes.

"But it's a long, long trip," Leo Diegel tells you, "from the practice tee to the playing tee. They may be only forty yards apart. But they may call for a ten or twenty-year journey."

A Few Pictures

When you watch such golfers as Picard, Snead, Nelson, Hogan, Metz, Wood and others in action you get certain mental impressions that can be used later on. For example—

1. The first impression is that a big part of the swing belongs to the hands and wrists. This is because foot action and body action are so well blended that hands and wrists have their freedom for swinging the clubhead. Live hands and wrists must be a vital part of any good swing.

2. In the backswing the slight sway to the right comes from the hips, not the upper part of the body where so many duffers go wrong. The hips sway and the body turn keep the head where it was at the start of the swing. You never see the stars here sway the upper part of the body, including the shoulders. These merely turn.

3. With the chin turned slightly back, you get the picture of a head fixed in place—"the anchor for the swing," as Jim Barnes calls it. "The swing past the chin, as Alex Morrison advocates.

"Let that head or chin move even slightly forward," Henry Picard tells you, "and you are a dead duck."

"Just even a fraction of an inch is enough to wreck a swing," Alex Morrison contends, "when it comes to the chin of the head. They must be kept in place through the swing. Just watch the best in this field."

4. One of Henry Picard's main angles concerns correct foot work. "Here is where many good pros fall down," he says, "many star pros and practically every handicap player. There must be the right shift in weight from left to right and back again or there can be no balance. And balance is one of the most important factors in any game you play. I don't care what game you name.

"Balance comes from good foot action, for it is good foot action that gives the hands and wrists their chance to work with the body. No chance for balance can ever start from two feet planted on top of the ground, with legs and body rigid or stiffened up."

Moving Along

This is an important thing to remember—and work at. Most golfers keep their feet too far apart in the shorter game.

6. When it comes to putting you should get a mental picture of Horton Smith—and keep it.

You can see Horton, as he studies his putt, practically move into three phases—the speed of the green—the correct line to the cup—and then the putting stroke. Horton Smith never tangles them up into one blurred mass, as most of us do. After he has lined up the putt he concentrates entirely on a smooth, unhurried stroke—not a hit or a stab or a jab.

"Each factor must be taken in turn," he says, "but never keep guessing as you start stroking the ball. Whether you are right or wrong, stick to your final decision, so you can think of nothing after that but smooth stroking."

The Difference

These stars at Hershey have to play every shot under high pressure and they can afford few physical faults in swinging.

"We can't afford to use all the concentration the average golfer tries to use," one said. "Most of us know the right way to swing a club. But the mental side is still the toughest thing in sport. It isn't all physical—not by 70 per cent. If it were, Sammy Snead would be almost unbeatable. Sammy still lacks the confidence he had up to his Philadelphia finish. If he could only just play his shots—one at a time and forget everything else—he would be a tough party to take.

"The idea is to keep playing one shot after another the best you can, regardless of what has happened before or what may happen later on. Only try to think of the right thing at the right times, as Jim Barnes once put it. Don't try to think of too many things.

"We can't do this with good swings. So what chance has the average golfer with all his physical faults? Just take it as easy as you can. Try to think in terms of smoothness, of being a little late when the swing starts. Don't hurry any part of the swing—back or down. The ball isn't going to move, and it has to stop somewhere. The swing is the thing that counts."

These are a few mental pictures Hershey can show you, if you can only retain just a few of the fundamentals mentioned.—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Red Sox Defeat Chicago 4 to

BOSTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Red Sox escaped a tumble into second division today by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, in series' finale. Relief pitcher Johnny Rigney gave the Red Sox the game by forcing in the winning run with two out in the ninth.

After uncorking a three-run rally in the sixth, the Red Sox found themselves in a deadlock when they went to bat in the ninth. They loaded the bases with two singles and a pass before Rigney forced Dom DiMaggio by giving Manager Joe Cronin a base on balls.

Green Bay Packers Beat All-Stars 45-28

Professional Champions Prove Too Tough for College Boys

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP) — In the wildest scoring battle in the history of the series, the Green Bay Packers, Champions of the National Professional Football League, defeating the College All-Stars 45 to 28, before a record-breaking crowd of 84,567 spectators in flood-lighted Soldier Field tonight.

The game, ushering in the 1940 football season, gave the Packers an opportunity to make amends for their failure of three years ago and also gave the Professionals an edge in the series, which had been deadlocked with two victories apiece and two ties.

The thrilling contest produced the highest scoring since the series was inaugurated seven years ago, eclipsing the game of 1938 when the All-Stars conquered the Washington Red Skins, 28 to 16. It also drew the greatest crowd, exceeding the previous record in 1937 of 84,560.

The Packers, with a super aerial attack, packed too much punch in the air for the Collegians.

Paced by Cecil Isbell, famed Purdue athlete, who is 1938 led the All-Stars to triumph, the Packers scored six touchdowns with Isbell throwing three long, scoring passes and running for the final touchdown himself.

The Packers scored twice in each of the first two quarters, with the Collegians getting one touchdown in the first period and two in the second. Amby Schindler ran for an All-Star touchdown in the first three and a half minutes of the game, but Green Bay came back to score twice on passes by Cecil Isbell, with Don Hutson and Carl Mulleneaux making the catches.

The All-Stars counted within the first two minutes of the second quarter to tie the score, Ken Washington making the touchdown, but Andy Uram then scored on a pass from Arnie Herber and Don Hutson took another touchdown pass to make the Packers lead 28-14.

Shortly before the half time intermission, Nile Kinnick shot a long pass to Banks McFadden for a third All-Star score.

Packers Run Wild

In the third quarter Green Bay put its rushing attack into high gear for the first time late in the period. Herber passed 18 yards to Hutson, who raced for a touchdown unmolested. Smith's placement was good, giving Green Bay a lead of 35 to 21.

Soon after the final period opened, Washington and Schindler sparked the All-Stars to another touchdown. Starting on the Green Bay 46 Washington shot passes to Dick Evans of Iowa and Kavanaugh which carried the Collegians to the packer 28. Another pass by Washington to Schindler gained 16 yards, with Schindler then smashing to the three-yard line on two tries. On the third play Schindler cracked left guard for a touchdown, Kinnick drop-kicking for the extra point.

Starting on their own 20, the Packers combined passes by Isbell to Hutson and Gantenbein with a running game to drive to the All-Star 29. A fumble put the Packers back to the All-Star 34 but on the first play Paul Engebretsen booted a perfect field goal.

With less than two minutes to play, Charley Brock intercepted Washington's pass. Isbell's pass to Mulleneaux put the Packers on the All-Star four and Isbell then rounded right end for a touchdown. Hutson's placement for the point was good. The game ended after a desperate but futile All-Star aerial bid.

Tigers Win Two From Senators 3 to 2 and 6-0

Move to within Two Games of League Leading Indians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The second place Detroit Tigers today moved up to within two games of the league leading Cleveland Indians by virtue of a double victory over the Washington Senators.

Detroit won the first game 3-2; then took the second, a 6-inning affair, 6-0.

Cleveland was rained out in Philadelphia.

Big Buck Newsom won his 17th victory of the campaign in the nightcap, limiting the Senators to 4 hits, while it was Schoolboy Rowe's hitting as well as pitching which took the first game.

Hank Greenberg, the Detroit left-hander, was no drawback in either contest. In the first game Hank hit his 25th homer of the year. He also got a double and two singles. In the nightcap he blasted his 26th round tripper.

Rowe's hit, however, was the one that spelled victory.

With Dick Bartell on second base in the eighth inning and one out, the Schoolboy hit Ken Chase's first pitch against the right field fence for a run-scoring double.

The second game was a breeze for Newsom, after Detroit scored three times in the first inning on an error. Charley Gehringer's single and Greenberg's round-tripper.

The game was called at the end of the sixth because of darkness, and from the way Newsom was going, the night saved the Senators considerable embarrassment.

Cardinals Trim Giants as McGee Hurls Fine Game

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 29 (AP) — The fast-charging St. Louis Cardinals piled up five runs in the first inning today and shut out the New York Giants 5 to 0 on the magnificent two-hit hurling of fiddler Bill McGee.

The victory gave the Redbirds undisputed possession of third place in the National League and dropped the Giants back to within half a game of the fifth place Pittsburgh Pirates.

The only blows given up by McGee in nailing his thirteenth win were singles, one in the first by Johnny Rucker and the other in the eighth by Tony Cuccinello.

Derringer Wins Over Brooklyn For Cincinnati

Scatters Seven Hits, One a Homer by Medwick, for Victory

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP) — Neither rain nor the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers could stop the Cincinnati Reds today as they hammered out a 9 to 3 triumph that gave them an apparent unshakable 8½ games grip on the National League lead.

Already behind their schedule and forced to play a game tomorrow on what was to have been an open date, the two teams waited an hour beyond starting time today for a break in a downpour in order to get their game going. Rain fell persistently through the last 4½ innings.

Paul Derringer, in acquiring his 17th victory, kept seven hits scattered, although one of them was a home run by Ducky Medwick in the first inning.

On the other hand the Reds battered five Brooklyn pitchers for a dozen hits, including two home runs.

They went to work on Whitlow Wyatt with two runs in the first inning and scored again in the second, causing Wyatt to be replaced the following frame by Lefty Lee Grissom, a former Red.

He gave up a walk and a single that resulted in a run on a force-out and was removed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth. Tex Carleton passed out three runs immediately on two singles, a fly, and Ernie Lombardi's 14th home run. Hugh Casey did little better, giving a single ahead of a home run to Billy Myers in the sixth.

The Dodgers had rookie Pete Reiser at third base in place of Harry Lavagetto who was operated on today for appendicitis.

Rains Cause Delay In Tennis Tourney

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) — Start of the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills, scheduled for tomorrow, was deferred today because heavy rains this week left the courts in no condition for play. Officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association said they hoped play could be started Saturday.

Rampaging Yanks Blast St. Louis In Doubleheader

Score All First Game Runs in One Inning; Second Goes 13 Frames

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—The courageous New York Yankees battled like champions today to sweep a doubleheader from the St. Louis Browns 10 to 3 and 6 to 3 and narrow the gap separating them from first place to 4 1-2 games, 2 1-2 out of second.

The first game was a contest only until the fifth inning, when the Yankees scored all their ten runs in a startling uprising that saw the bases filled nine times as 16 men went to bat. Lefty Marius Russo coasted to his eleventh victory by scattering 11 hits.

The nightcap went 13 innings before a perfect squeeze bunt by Frank Crosetti with the bases loaded and two out brought home the winning run.

Elder Auker went all the way for St. Louis and was winning 4 to 1 with two out in the ninth. Then Joe DiMaggio, riding the bench because of a charley horse, delivered a pinch homer with two on to tie the score.

Pittsburgh Whips Philadelphia 4-0

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 29 (AP) — Hitting timely and turning in three double plays, the Pittsburgh Pirates whitewashed Philadelphia today 4 to 0 for their eighth straight triumph over the Quakers.

Mace Brown, who has shown a tendency to weaken in the late innings, was summarily yanked by Manager Frankie Frisch in the eighth after rookie Dan Litwhiler singled and Johnny Rizzo bounced a double off the left field fence. Danny MacFayden halted the potential rally.

The Dream Swing

HERSHEY, Pa.—"How do they do it?" "What do they do that I don't or can't do in tearing par apart?" "How do they make it look so easy?" "How can little Hogan hit one that far?"

Hershey's is the place this week where good golf lessons bloom like roses in June. It is the place to see the dream swing put together in one piece. For those who have the imitative instinct or the instinct for analysis, for those with picture minds, one could pick up enough golf tips here to last two lifetimes.

"But it's a long, long trip," Leo Diegel tells you, "from the practice tee to the playing tee. They may be only forty yards apart. But they may call for a ten or twenty-year journey."

A Few Pictures

When you watch such golfers as Picard, Snead, Nelson, Hogan, Metz, Wood and others in action you get certain mental impressions that can be used later on. For example—

1. The first impression is that a big part of the swing belongs to the hands and wrists. This is because foot action and body action are so well blended that hands and wrists have their freedom for swinging the clubhead. Live hands and wrists must be a vital part of any good swing.

2. In the backswing the slight sway to the right comes from the hips, not the upper part of the body where so many duffers go wrong. The hips sway and the body turn keep the head where it was at the start of the swing. You never see the stars here sway the upper part of the body, including the shoulders. These merely turn.

3. With the chin turned slightly back, you get the picture of a head fixed in place—"the anchor for the swing," as Jim Barnes calls it. "The swing past the chin, as Alex Morrison advocates.

"Let that head or chin move even slightly forward," Henry Picard tells you, "and you are a dead duck."

"Just even a fraction of an inch is enough to wreck a swing," Alex Morrison contends, "when it comes to the chin of the head. They must be kept in place through the swing. Just watch the best in this field."

4. One of Henry Picard's main angles concerns correct foot work. "Here is where many good pros fall down," he says, "many star pros and practically every handicap player. There must be the right shift in weight from left to right and back again or there can be no balance. And balance is one of the most important factors in any game you play. I don't care what game you name.

"Balance comes from good foot action, for it is good foot action that gives the hands and wrists their chance to work with the body. No chance for balance can ever start from two feet planted on top of the ground, with legs and body rigid or stiffened up."

Moving Along

5. Here is another picture you get on the shorter shots. Watch Gene Sarazen. On the shorter pitches his two feet are fairly close together. He has little body movement. On his chip shots Gene keeps both feet together, almost touching, and he plays the ball off the right foot—not the left—as so many average golfers do.

This is an important thing to remember—and work at. Most golfers keep their feet too far apart in the shorter game.

6. When it comes to putting you should get a mental picture of Horton Smith—and keep it.

You can see Horton, as he studies his putt, practically move into three phases—the speed of the green—the correct line to the cup—and then the putting stroke. Horton Smith never tangles them up into one blurred mass, as most of us do. After he has lined up the putt he concentrates entirely on a smooth, unhurried stroke—not a hit or a stab or a jab.

"Each factor must be taken in turn," he says, "but never keep guessing as you start stroking the ball. Whether you are right or wrong, stick to your final decision, so you can think of nothing after that but smooth stroking."

The Difference

These stars at Hershey have to play every shot under high pressure and they can afford few physical faults in swinging.

"We can't afford to use all the concentration the average golfer tries to use," one said. "Most of us know the right way to swing a club. But the mental side is still the toughest thing in sport. It isn't all physical—not by 70 per cent. If it were, Sammy Snead would be almost unbeatable. Sammy still lacks the confidence he had up to his Philadelphia finish. If he could only just play his shots—one at a time and forget everything else—he would be a tough party to take.

"The idea is to keep playing one shot after another the best you can, regardless of what has happened before or what may happen later on. Only try to think of the right thing at the right times, as Jim Barnes once put it. Don't try to think of too many things.

"We can't do this with good swings. So what chance has the average golfer with all his physical faults? Just take it as easy as you can. Try to think in terms of smoothness, of being a little less when the swing starts. Don't hurry any part of the swing—back or down. The ball isn't going to move, and it has to stop somewhere. The swing is the thing that counts."

These are a few mental pictures Hershey can show you. If you can only retain just a few of the fundamentals mentioned.—North American Newspaper Alliance.

Red Sox Defeat Chicago 4 to 3

BOSTON, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Red Sox escaped a tumble into the second division today by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 4-3, in the series' finale. Relief pitcher Johnny Rigney gave the Red Sockers the game by forcing in the winning run with two out in the ninth.

After uncorking a three-run rally in the sixth, the Red Sox found themselves in a deadlock when they went to bat in the ninth. They loaded the bases with two singles and a pass before Rigney forced in Dom DiMaggio by giving Manager Joe Cronin a base on balls.

Sarazen Trims Picard in P. G. A. Tourney

Beats Defending Champion in 36 Hole Struggle

Hagen Is Eliminated and Nelson Upsets Dick Metz

By GAYLE TALBOT

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 29 (AP)—That old gaffer Gene Sarazen, who is enjoying an astonishing season of success in what should, by rights, be the twilight of his career, fought his way to the quarter finals of the Professional Golfers' Association championship today with a victory over Henry Picard, the defending champion, on the thirty-sixth green.

And that other stripling Walter Hagen (47), was out of it only because he got to day dreaming late in the afternoon and accidentally touched the ball of his opponent, Harold (Jug) McSpaden and automatically lost a crucial hole. The five-time former champion lost out, finally, on the thirty-sixth hole, where he stroked a putt with all his unbounded confidence and watched it lick the cup—and stay out.

The other six survivors of the two rounds of medal play and three match conflicts were Sam Snead, who clashes with Sarazen tomorrow; Paul Runyan, twice former PGA winner, who engages McSpaden; Byron Nelson, former Open champion and PGA finalist last year, who meets Eddie Kirk, an unknown from Farmington, Mich., and Ben Hogan and Ralph Guldahl, a pair of top notchers from Texas who need no introduction.

Nelson Upsets Metz

Nelson pulled the day's second best upset when he knocked the props from under Dick Metz of Chicago. Metz had won the two medal rounds and was a dozen strokes under par for the week when he encountered the 1939 Open champion. Nelson, after being one down at the end of the morning round, clung to Metz until Dick finally cracked in the cold, drizzly afternoon, and lost 2 and 1.

Sarazen, the little guy who captured his first of three PGA crowns eighteen years ago this summer, shot a par seventy-three in the morning to take a one up lead over Picard, and then fairly blazed around in sixty-eight strokes in the afternoon to make the victory stick.

Picard, the home pro who knows every patch of clover on his own water-logged course, shot a sixty-eight in the afternoon too, but it couldn't save him.

On the final green Picard wound up and placed his shot less than two feet from the hole. It was a sure birdie and it appeared certain he would carry his third antagonist an extra hole. But Sarazen knocked his about six feet beyond the pin, gave it a quick once over and banged it squarely into the hole.

It was nice drama. The only improvement would have been another win for The Haig, who, by all the law of averages, shouldn't have survived the qualifying round. But he scored an under-par seventy-two to lead McSpaden two up at the end of their morning round, and except for a spell of absent mindedness would have held him all square at thirty-six. He simply didn't see McSpaden's ball when he dragged his club across it on the thirty-first hole.

Snead Slaughters Hines

Snead shot five under par golf to slaughter Jimmy Hines, seven and six. Runyan, the little beezer who can't drive within forty yards of any opponent, knocked out Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, four and three.

Kirk, the boy from Michigan, was the only real outsider among the surviving eight. But he waded through some nice opposition the last two days. He was the guy who trimmed Jimmy Demaret yesterday, two and one, and he was only two above par for thirty-two holes when he closed out Art Clark of Uniontown, Pa., five and four today.

Hogan, the year's biggest money winner, shot a seventy-one in the morning and was four under par when he finally bashed Al Brisch of Farmingdale, N. Y., five and four. He wound it up typically with four pars in the last five holes.

Guldahl, whom the boys still say isn't a match player, was four shots under par when he wrapped up Jim Foulis of Hinsdale, Ill., five and three. If he loses to Hogan tomorroy, then, all right, he isn't a match player.

Cincinnati Recalls Johnny Vander Meer

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds recalled Johnny VanderMeer, their double-no-hit king of two years ago, from the Indianapolis Club of the American Association tonight.

Johnny, plagued by wildness all last year, was sent to Indianapolis early this season in hopes of improving his control. He has won six and lost three for the Indians, a Red farm club, and came within shouting distance of another no-hit game.

Jewel Ens, Indianapolis manager, told Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds that Vandy was ready to come back to the Majors and McKechnie ordered him to report Saturday.

Second-Class Tournament For a First-Class Price

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The National tennis singles tournament is about to get under way. Nope, no professionals. Just professional amateurs. In other words, the United States Lawn Tennis Association will give the public a pretty good second-class tournament for the price of a good first-class one.

You can't blame the U. S. L. T. A. They have to get permission from the International Federation before they can stage open tennis over here. And where is the International Federation? It left no forwarding address. Last seen headed for Indo-China.

Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini are now in charge of tennis in Europe, and until they give the word that this country may go ahead with an open tournament, what can we do? It's a tough situation, but you wouldn't want the U. S. L. T. A. to violate section XIV, rule B2, would you, just for the public's sake? Nossir.

While waiting for Hitler's O. K., therefore, we must make the best of what we have. It's not a bad tournament. No Budges, Perrys or Vinesses, but it seems close enough to be interesting to the several thousand bugs who must have their tennis at Forrest Hills, and are willing to pay a few bucks daily for the privilege of watching Frank Kovacs intimidate the ball-boys.

Galli-Curci Mannerisms

They'll see plenty of Kovacs, for in spite of Galli-Curci mannerisms this tall sprout from California is a good tennis player and one of the three who figure to go a distance and make it interesting.

The other two are Robert L. Riggs, the defending champion, and Don McNeill, the slugger. Frank Parker, still steady with the pat-ball, and Gilbert Hunt, the young mathematical wizard, are capable of springing upsets. Welby Van Horn might suddenly recover the touch that took him to the finals last year. But the form says it is Riggs, McNeill, and Kovacs who will play the best tennis, and the form is probably right.

Riggs is small; Kovacs is tall; McNeill is middle-sized. Kavocs has the best stroke equipment. Riggs has the best temperament and tennis brain. McNeill has the speed. It may be that Riggs and Kovacs were designed by nature to be better players than McNeill, but you must remember that pure slugging power, when under control, is a weapon that can offset all the balance and precision and strategy and skillful stroking in the game. Maurice McLoughlin proved that once, and Ellsworth Vines proved it again.

Vines in his heyday was by no means the athlete that Pred Perry was, or the tactician that Tilden was, nor could he match the balance and varsity of Budge. But when he had control of his brutal-speed—when he had the ball skimming the net and clipping the lines—he could beat the best of them at their best. They were fast, too, especially Tilden and Budge, but not fast enough.

McNeill Needs Control

Naturally, control desserts the slugger more often than it does the balanced player. Vines was never as consistent as Budge or Tilden, and his span of domination was shorter. Tilden ruled for a long time, Budge will probably do the same.

McNeill, like Vines, needs control to win, though his game is somewhat sounder and he leaves himself a wider margin of error. If he keeps the touch throughout the next ten days, he may beat Kovacs or Riggs and win the National (Amateur) championship.

He doesn't have to beat them both, for Riggs and Kovacs, as the first and third seeded players, respectively, are in the same half of the draw. If form holds, they will meet in one semi-final while McNeill is taking on Frank Parker, or whomsovere, in the other.

The heat will be on on the chips will be down, for nine or ten full days. That is what makes this tournament dangerous to players of erratic temperament, like Kovacs. Of all the leading candidates, Kovacs is the one most likely to be upset early. A player like Parker can always be upset, but not through want of steadiness—only because there are several lower-ranking men who can play better tennis than he can on their good days.

Gil Hunt, Joe Hunt, Van Horn, even Frank Shields might sneak into the semi-final round. Riggs and McNeill are the players most likely to reach that round. Riggs is the safest bet to win. And my hunch is McNeill.

As for the women, there is a nice blonde named Alice Marble in there who can win looking over her shoulder. But she ought to be ashamed to take the money.

Kern Will Take 39 Players to Camp Sunday

Mountaineer Football Candidates Will Train near Kingwood

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 29—West Virginia's Bill Kern tonight disclosed he would take a squad of thirty-nine players to Camp Dawson, near Kingwood, W. Va., for two weeks of preliminary training camp workouts. The players, along with coaches and other team attaches, will assemble at Mountaineer Stadium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and then will be taken to camp by bus, arriving there in time for the evening meal.

Kern, switching to the Mountaineers after three seasons at the helm of Carnegie Tech's football forces, has selected Labor Day for the start of actual practice. He aims to get the Mountaineers down to heavy drill as soon as possible, declaring "we've got a lot of work ahead of us, and very little time in which to do it." Candidates for the team received new shoes nearly two weeks ago, thus giving them time to break them in properly.

The squad Kern is taking to camp falls into these categories: Ends (6), tackles (6), guards (9), centers (3), quarterbacks (3), halfbacks (9), and fullbacks (3). Thirteen of this number were lettermen last year, six of them regulars. Here is the camp squad:

ENDS—Charley Harris, Hinton; Howard Lewellen, Warwood; Bob Mellace, Parkersburg; Steve Narick, Benwood; John Shonk, Charleston, and Joe Siko, Carmichaels, Pa.

TACKLES—Henry Goodman, Bradford, Pa.; Frank Kimble, Williamson; Norm Laughlin, Fairmont; John Morris, Fairmont; Walt Pike, Northfork, and George Sharp, Marlinton.

CENTERS—Vic A'Hern, Midland, Pa.; Tom Gillooly, Clarksburg, and Sam Mandich, Weirton.

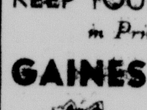

QUARTERBACKS—Charley Seabright, Benwood; Quentin Barnette, Charleston, and Charley Stansbury, Beckley.

FULLBACKS—John Carliss, Windber, Pa.; Bob White, New Martinsville, and Kenny Fryer, Wellsburg.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—News item: Phil Wrigley announces Gabby Hartnett will manage the Chicago Cubs again next year; says he is not making any money out of the club and does not pay too much attention to it.

In view of the circumstances, the conversation might be expected to run something like this:

Wrigley—Come in, come in, Mr—er—Hartnett. Sit down. You've been with us quite a while now, haven't you?

Hartnett — Yes sir. Going on twenty years.

Wrigley—Started from the bottom, didn't you, apprentice boy in the receiving department. Worked your way up to manager of the production end.

Hartnett—Yes sir.

Wrigley—Well, Hartnett, I have a surprise for you. In view of your long service and loyalty I'm going to retain you as manager next year. Now, now, wait a minute. Understand, I'm not any too well satisfied with the way things have been going this year. Of course, I don't blame you, but, well, we shall expect better results in 1941.

Hartnett—Yes, sir.

Wrigley—You should understand that we have been operating without profit. That must stop. Yes—yes, I know the purchasing department has been at fault. That was a mistake in paying $185,000 for that what's his name, Dean. But I feel that if we retrench all along the line, we can show a profit. Your job is to produce victories. When that is done, our income will increase automatically. Just one more thing. I'd start by recalling that—er—what's his name—Dean—immediately. That will be all. Good day.

. Hartnett—Good day sir, and thank you.

Wrigley's early statement concerning Hartnett's status is refreshing in comparison with the tight-rope act staged by the Cub boss last winter, when over a considerable period he kept the loyal Gabby in embarassed bewilderment by periodic pronouncements which reflected a mental game of leap frog as to whether he should keep Hartnett or fire him.

With Hartnett's status cleared up, the major question with reference to Major League managers involves Oscar Vitt. The idea seems to be that no matter where the Indians finish, it will be the end of Uncle Os, and also that he would want no part of the 1941 tribe except a few scalps for his own personal collection.

Otherwise, at this early date, the pilots seems pretty well fixed.

If they wanted to start riding a manager whose team hasn't done as well as expected, they might start on Joe McCarthy, but it would be necessary to toss a blanket over the past and those four straight pennants to do it with a clear conscience.

Sarazen Trims Picard in P. G. A. Tourney

Beats Defending Champion in 36 Hole Struggle

By GAYLE TALBOT

HERSHEY, Pa., Aug. 29 (AP)—That old gaffer Gene Sarazen, who is enjoying an astonishing season of success in what should, by rights, be the twilight of his career, fought his way to the quarter finals of the Professional Golfers' Association championship today with a victory over Henry Picard, the defending champion, on the thirty-sixth green.

And that other stripling Walter Hagen (47), was out of it only because he got to day dreaming late in the afternoon and accidentally touched the ball of his opponent, Harold (Jug) McSpaden and automatically lost a crucial hole. The five-time former champion lost out, finally, on the thirty-sixth hole, where he stroked a putt with all his unbounded confidence and watched it lick the cup—and stay out.

The other six survivors of the two rounds of medal play and three match conflicts were Sam Snead, who clashes with Sarazen tomorrow; Paul Runyan, twice former PGA winner, who engages McSpaden; Byron Nelson, former Open champion and PGA finalist last year, who meets Eddie Kirk, an unknown from Farmington, Mich., and Ben Hogan and Ralph Guldahl, a pair of top notchers from Texas who need no introduction.

Nelson Upsets Metz

Nelson pulled the day's second best upset when he knocked the props from under Dick Metz of Chicago. Metz had won the two medal rounds and was a dozen strokes under par for the week when he encountered the 1939 Open champion. Nelson, after being one down at the end of the morning round, clung to Metz until Dick finally cracked in the cold, drizzly afternoon, and lost 2 and 1.

Sarazen, the little guy who captured his first of three PGA crowns eighteen years ago this summer, shot a par seventy-three in the morning to take a one up lead over Picard, and then fairly blazed around in sixty-eight strokes in the afternoon to make the victory stick.

Picard, the home pro who knows every patch of clover on his own water-logged course, shot a sixty-eight in the afternoon too, but it couldn't save him.

On the final green Picard wound up and placed his shot less than two feet from the hole. It was a sure birdie and it appeared certain he would carry his third antagonist an extra hole. But Sarazen knocked his about six feet beyond the pin, gave it a quick once over and banged it squarely into the hole.

It was nice drama. The only improvement would have been another win for The Haig, who, by all the law of averages, shouldn't have survived the qualifying round. But he scored an under-par seventy-two to lead McSpaden two up at the end of their morning round, and except for a spell of absent mindedness would have held him all square at thirty-six. He simply didn't see McSpaden's ball when he dragged his club across it on the thirty-first hole.

Snead Slaughters Hines

Snead shot five under par golf to slaughter Jimmy Hines, seven and six. Runyan, the little beezer who can't drive within forty yards of any opponent, knocked out Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, four and three.

Kirk, the boy from Michigan, was the only real outsider among the surviving eight. But he waded through some nice opposition the last two days. He was the guy who trimmed Jimmy Demaret yesterday, two and one, and he was only two above par for thirty-two holes when he closed out Art Clark of Uniontown, Pa., five and four today.

Hogan, the year's biggest money winner, shot a seventy-one in the morning and was four under par when he finally bashed Al Brisch of Farmingdale, N. Y., five and four. He wound it up typically with four pars in the last five holes.

Guldahl, whom the boys still say isn't a match player, was four shots under par when he wrapped up Jim Foulis of Hinsdale, Ill., five and three. If he loses to Hogan tomorroy, then, all right, he isn't a match player.

Cincinnati Recalls Johnny Vander Meer

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds recalled Johnny VanderMeer, their double-no-hit king of two years ago, from the Indianapolis Club of the American Association tonight.

Johnny, plagued by wildness all last year, was sent to Indianapolis early this season in hopes of improving his control. He has won six and lost three for the Indians, a Red farm club, and came within shouting distance of another no-hit game.

Jewel Ens, Indianapolis manager, told Manager Bill McKechnie of the Reds that Vandy was ready to come back to the Majors and McKechnie ordered him to report Saturday.

Second-Class Tournament For a First-Class Price

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

By JOHN LARDNER

NEW YORK, Aug. 29—The National tennis singles tournament is about to get under way. Nope, no professionals. Just professional amateurs. In other words, the United States Lawn Tennis Association will give the public a pretty good second-class tournament for the price of a good first-class one.

You can't blame the U. S. L. T. A. They have to get permission from the International Federation before they can stage open tennis over here. And where is the International Federation? It left no forwarding address. Last seen headed for Indo-China.

Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini are now in charge of tennis in Europe, and until they give the word that this country may go ahead with an open tournament, what can we do? It's a tough situation, but you wouldn't want the U. S. L. T. A. to violate section XIV, rule B2, would you, just for the public's sake? Nossir.

While waiting for Hitler's O. K., therefore, we must make the best of what we have. It's not a bad tournament. No Budges, Perrys or Vinesses, but it seems close enough to be interesting to the several thousand bugs who must have their tennis at Forrest Hills, and are willing to pay a few bucks daily for the privilege of watching Frank Kovacs intimidate the ball-boys.

Galli-Curci Mannerisms

They'll see plenty of Kovacs, for in spite of Galli-Curci mannerisms this tall sprout from California is a good tennis player and one of the three who figure to go a distance and make it interesting.

The other two are Robert L. Riggs, the defending champion, and Don McNeill, the slugger. Frank Parker, still steady with the pat-ball, and Gilbert Hunt, the young mathematical wizard, are capable of springing upsets. Welby Van Horn might suddenly recover the touch that took him to the finals last year. But the form says it is Riggs, McNeill, and Kovacs who will play the best tennis, and the form is probably right.

Riggs is small; Kovacs is tall; McNeill is middle-sized. Kavocs has the best stroke equipment. Riggs has the best temperament and tennis brain. McNeill has the speed. It may be that Riggs and Kovacs were designed by nature to be better players than McNeill, but you must remember that pure slugging power, when under control, is a weapon that can offset all the balance and precision and strategy and skillful stroking in the game. Maurice McLoughlin proved that once, and Ellsworth Vines proved it again.

Vines in his heyday was by no means the athlete that Pred Perry was, or the tactician that Tilden was, nor could he match the balance and varsity of Budge. But when he had control of his brutal-speed—when he had the ball skimming the net and clipping the lines—he could beat the best of them at their best. They were fast, too, especially Tilden and Budge, but not fast enough.

McNeill Needs Control

Naturally, control desserts the slugger more often than it does the balanced player. Vines was never as consistent as Budge or Tilden, and his span of domination was shorter. Tilden ruled for a long time, Budge will probably do the same.

McNeill, like Vines, needs control to win, though his game is somewhat sounder and he leaves himself a wider margin of error. If he keeps the touch throughout the next ten days, he may beat Kovacs or Riggs and win the National (Amateur) championship.

He doesn't have to beat them both, for Riggs and Kovacs, as the first and third seeded players, respectively, are in the same half of the draw. If form holds, they will meet in one semi-final while McNeill is taking on Frank Parker, or whomsovere, in the other.

The heat will be on on the chips will be down, for nine or ten full days. That is what makes this tournament dangerous to players of erratic temperament, like Kovacs. Of all the leading candidates, Kovacs is the one most likely to be upset early. A player like Parker can always be upset, but not through want of steadiness—only because there are several lower-ranking men who can play better tennis than he can on their good days.

Gil Hunt, Joe Hunt, Van Horn, even Frank Shields might sneak into the semi-final round. Riggs and McNeill are the players most likely to reach that round. Riggs is the safest bet to win. And my hunch is McNeill.

As for the women, there is a nice blonde named Alice Marble in there who can win looking over her shoulder. But she ought to be ashamed to take the money.

Kern Will Take 39 Players to Camp Sunday

Mountaineer Football Candidates Will Train near Kingwood

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Aug. 29—West Virginia's Bill Kern tonight disclosed he would take a squad of thirty-nine players to Camp Dawson, near Kingwood, W. Va., for two weeks of preliminary training camp workouts. The players, along with coaches and other team attaches, will assemble at Mountaineer Stadium Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and then will be taken to camp by bus, arriving there in time for the evening meal.

Kern, switching to the Mountaineers after three seasons at the helm of Carnegie Tech's football forces, has selected Labor Day for the start of actual practice. He aims to get the Mountaineers down to heavy drill as soon as possible, declaring "we've got a lot of work ahead of us, and very little time in which to do it." Candidates for the team received new shoes nearly two weeks ago, thus giving them time to break them in properly.

The squad Kern is taking to camp falls into these categories: Ends (6), tackles (6), guards (9), centers (3), quarterbacks (3), halfbacks (9), and fullbacks (3). Thirteen of this number were lettermen last year, six of them regulars. Here is the camp squad:

ENDS—Charley Harris, Hinton; Howard Lewellen, Warwood; Bob Mellace, Parkersburg; Steve Narick, Benwood; John Shonk, Charleston, and Joe Siko, Carmichaels, Pa.

TACKLES—Henry Goodman, Bradford, Pa.; Frank Kimble, Williamson; Norm Laughlin, Fairmont; John Morris, Fairmont; Walt Pike, Northfork, and George Sharp, Marlinton.

QUARTERBACKS—Charley Seabright, Benwood; Quentin Barnette, Charleston, and Charley Stansbury, Beckley.

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—News item: Phil Wrigley announces Gabby Hartnett will manage the Chicago Cubs again next year; says he is not making any money out of the club and does not pay too much attention to it.

In view of the circumstances, the conversation might be expected to run something like this:

Wrigley—Come in, come in, Mr—er—Hartnett. Sit down. You've been with us quite a while now, haven't you?

Hartnett — Yes sir. Going on twenty years.

Wrigley—Started from the bottom, didn't you, apprentice boy in the receiving department. Worked your way up to manager of the production end.

Hartnett—Yes sir.

Wrigley—Well, Hartnett, I have a surprise for you. In view of your long service and loyalty I'm going to retain you as manager next year. Now, now, wait a minute. Understand, I'm not any too well satisfied with the way things have been going this year. Of course, I don't blame you, but, well, we shall expect better results in 1941.

Hartnett—Yes, sir.

Wrigley—You should understand that we have been operating without profit. That must stop. Yes—yes, I know the purchasing department has been at fault. That was a mistake in paying $185,000 for that what's his name, Dean. But I feel that if we retrench all along the line, we can show a profit. Your job is to produce victories. When that is done, our income will increase automatically. Just one more thing. I'd start by recalling that—er—what's his name—Dean—immediately. That will be all. Good day.

. Hartnett—Good day sir, and thank you.

Wrigley's early statement concerning Hartnett's status is refreshing in comparison with the tight-rope act staged by the Cub boss last winter, when over a considerable period he kept the loyal Gabby in embarassed bewilderment by periodic pronouncements which reflected a mental game of leap frog as to whether he should keep Hartnett or fire him.

With Hartnett's status cleared up, the major question with reference to Major League managers involves Oscar Vitt. The idea seems to be that no matter where the Indians finish, it will be the end of Uncle Os, and also that he would want no part of the 1941 tribe except a few scalps for his own personal collection.

Otherwise, at this early date, the pilots seems pretty well fixed.

If they wanted to start riding a manager whose team hasn't done as well as expected, they might start on Joe McCarthy, but it would be necessary to toss a blanket over the past and those four straight pennants to do it with a clear conscience.

Lavagetto Is Lost to Dodgers By Appendicitis

Operation on Third Sacker Deal Stunning Blow to Brooklyn

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP)—Acute appendicitis struck Harry "Cookie" Lavagetto today and dealt a new stunning blow to pennant hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

As surgeons removed a gangrenous appendix from the 25-year old veteran third sacker, Manager Leo Durocher assembled a "scrambled" infield and insisted "we'll carry on." He conceded, however, that his pennant-hungry charges had experienced another tough break in their injury-plagued battle to wrest the league lead from the champion Reds — currently eleven and one-half games.

"Lavagetto is a very sick boy," said Dr. Reed Shank, staff surgeon of the Cincinnati Reds as he left an operating room in Christ Hospital.

The appendix had not ruptured but, he added, "there was a definite gangrenous condition and we took it in the nick of time."

The young Californian was stricken during the night after retiring in apparent good health. He will be confined to the hospital a week or ten days and must rest the remainder of the baseball season.

Rookie Pete Reiser will take over the hot corner and Durocher and Johnny Hudson will divide the shortstop trick where Reiser has been performing in the absence of Harold "Peewee" Reese.

Reese, from Louisville, Ky., and one of the rookie finds of the year, fractured a bone in his left foot several weeks ago shortly after recovering from the effects of a "beaning."

Whit Wyatt of the hurling staff nursed a bad knee early in the season; Joe Medwick, $150,000 ex-Cardinal outfielder, and Pitcher Hugh Casey were hit with pitched balls; Dolph Camilli, slugging first baseman, was out with a muscular ailment and Durocher himself has recently complained of a sore throwing arm.

City League Series Will Open Today

After two postponements, the best-two-out-of-three game playoff series for the championship of the City Softball League will get under way here today at 5:30 at Community park.

Principals in the series are Keegan's Gassers, first half winners, and the North End Merchants, who walked off with the pennant in the last half race.

During the regular season, the Gassers and Merchants met four times with each team scoring two victories. In the first half race, won by Keegan's with a perfect record, the Gassers bested the North Enders 5-2 and 9-4.

In the last half, the Merchants copped ten of 12 battles to nose out the Gassers, who took nine of 12. Two of Keegan's setbacks in the home stretch were 11-2 and 7-2 reverses at the hands of "Sparky" Chisholm's combination.

Season on Doves And Railbirds Opens Monday

Prospects "Seem To Be Very Good" Game Warden Says

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30 (AP)—Doves and Railbirds become legal targets Monday, and prospects for the hunting season "seem to be very good," Chief Deputy Game Warden Richard Norris said today.

"Strong sales" of hunting licenses can be expected to start next week, he said, as sportsmen open this first phase of the state's long, varied game season.

The season on Doves and railbirds opens Sept. 1, but hunting is prohibited on Sundays.

Norris said the State Games and Inland Fish Commission had received many inquiries regarding hunting dates for squirrels, and that the season runs from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 with no "reopened period" later in the fall. Until last year, the season had been reopened from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30.

"The exception is in Garrett and Allegany counties, where squirrels may be hunted again from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30, he said.

Doves may be taken until Sept. 30, and from Nov. 15 to Dec. 31 Railbirds can be hunted until Oct. 31, the Maryland law "taking precedence over federal law setting the season from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30. The law giving greater protection takes precedence," Norris explained.

The dove bag limit is twelve this year, instead of fifteen. The hunting season on wild water fowl starts Nov. 2, continuing to Dec. 31.

Biddles Win Doubles Title at White Sulphur

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., of Philadelphia, resting after journeying from Europe's war zones, ended their battle for the Robert E. Lee Week tennis trophy today by capturing the mixed doubles title.

In the play-off series at the resort, Biddle, former U. S. Minister to Poland, and his wife won 47 games against a field of 22 teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orton of Chicago won second place with 42 victories. Third place went to Prince and Princess Aleksander Hohenlohe the Biddles' daughter and son-in-law.

Fidler Is Reappointed

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 29 (AP)—Ray H. Dumont, president of the Nationau Semi-Pro Congress, reappointed K. F. Fidler of Harrisville, W. Va., today as a state baseball commissioner.

Red Cross Golf Tourney To Be Completed Monday

In order to wind up the Red Cross Handicap Golf Tournament before the regular Fall Tournament gets under way, each participant, regardless of whether he won or lost his first match, is asked to play one 18-hole round before Monday evening, September 2.

Carroll Boggs, pro, must be notified of the player's intention to compete before the player leaves the first tee. Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third low net scores. Handicaps will be posted before Friday afternoon. This supersedes the matchplay program of the present Red Cross tournament.

The fall tournament qualifying period will be from August 30 to September 8 inclusive. Eighteen holes will be played and players can qualify and compete for Red Cross prizes with the same round.

Georgia has 161 counties.

Lavagetto Is Lost to Dodgers By Appendicitis

Operation on Third Sacker Deal Stunning Blow to Brooklyn

CINCINNATI, Aug. 29 (AP)—Acute appendicitis struck Harry "Cookie" Lavagetto today and dealt a new stunning blow to pennant hopes of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

As surgeons removed a gangrenous appendix from the 25-year old veteran third sacker, Manager Leo Durocher assembled a "scrambled" infield and insisted "we'll carry on." He conceded, however, that his pennant-hungry charges had experienced another tough break in their injury-plagued battle to wrest the league lead from the champion Reds — currently eleven and one-half games.

"Lavagetto is a very sick boy," said Dr. Reed Shank, staff surgeon of the Cincinnati Reds as he left an operating room in Christ Hospital.

The appendix had not ruptured but, he added, "there was a definite gangrenous condition and we took it in the nick of time."

The young Californian was stricken during the night after retiring in apparent good health. He will be confined to the hospital a week or ten days and must rest the remainder of the baseball season.

Rookie Pete Reiser will take over the hot corner and Durocher and Johnny Hudson will divide the shortstop trick where Reiser has been performing in the absence of Harold "Peewee" Reese.

Reese, from Louisville, Ky., and one of the rookie finds of the year, fractured a bone in his left foot several weeks ago shortly after recovering from the effects of a "beaning."

Whit Wyatt of the hurling staff nursed a bad knee early in the season; Joe Medwick, $150,000 ex-Cardinal outfielder, and Pitcher Hugh Casey were hit with pitched balls; Dolph Camilli, slugging first baseman, was out with a muscular ailment and Durocher himself has recently complained of a sore throwing arm.

City League Series Will Open Today

After two postponements, the best-two-out-of-three game playoff series for the championship of the City Softball League will get under way here today at 5:30 at Community park.

Principals in the series are Keegan's Gassers, first half winners, and the North End Merchants, who walked off with the pennant in the last half race.

During the regular season, the Gassers and Merchants met four times with each team scoring two victories. In the first half race, won by Keegan's with a perfect record, the Gassers bested the North Enders 5-2 and 9-4.

In the last half, the Merchants copped ten of 12 battles to nose out the Gassers, who took nine of 12. Two of Keegan's setbacks in the home stretch were 11-2 and 7-2 reverses at the hands of "Sparky" Chisholm's combination.

Saturday—Keyser at Westvaco, two games, Middleton (plate) and Merrbach (bases) and Merrbach (plate) and Middleton (bases).

Sunday — Keyser at Frostburg, Kenney (plate) and Dyer (bases); Midland at Westvaco, Dunn (plate) and Cavanaugh (bases) and Cumberland at Hyndman, Merrbach (plate) and Miller (bases).

Monday—Hyndman at Frostburg, Dunn (plate) and Cavanaugh (bases); Keyser at Midland, Layman (plate) and Merrbach (bases), and Westvaco at Cumberland, Dyer (plate) and Kenney (bases).

Season on Doves And Railbirds Opens Monday

Prospects "Seem To Be Very Good" Game Warden Says

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30 (AP)—Doves and Railbirds become legal targets Monday, and prospects for the hunting season "seem to be very good," Chief Deputy Game Warden Richard Norris said today.

"Strong sales" of hunting licenses can be expected to start next week, he said, as sportsmen open this first phase of the state's long, varied game season.

The season on Doves and railbirds opens Sept. 1, but hunting is prohibited on Sundays.

Norris said the State Games and Inland Fish Commission had received many inquiries regarding hunting dates for squirrels, and that the season runs from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 with no "reopened period" later in the fall. Until last year, the season had been reopened from Nov. 15 to Nov. 30.

"The exception is in Garrett and Allegany counties, where squirrels may be hunted again from Nov. 1 to Nov. 30, he said.

Doves may be taken until Sept. 30, and from Nov. 15 to Dec. 31 Railbirds can be hunted until Oct. 31, the Maryland law "taking precedence over federal law setting the season from Sept. 1 to Nov. 30. The law giving greater protection takes precedence," Norris explained.

The dove bag limit is twelve this year, instead of fifteen. The hunting season on wild water fowl starts Nov. 2, continuing to Dec. 31.

Biddles Win Doubles Title at White Sulphur

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 29 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Jr., of Philadelphia, resting after journeying from Europe's war zones, ended their battle for the Robert E. Lee Week tennis trophy today by capturing the mixed doubles title.

In the play-off series at the resort, Biddle, former U. S. Minister to Poland, and his wife won 47 games against a field of 22 teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orton of Chicago won second place with 42 victories. Third place went to Prince and Princess Aleksander Hohenlohe the Biddles' daughter and son-in-law.

Fidler Is Reappointed

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 29 (AP)—Ray H. Dumont, president of the Nationau Semi-Pro Congress, reappointed K. F. Fidler of Harrisville, W. Va., today as a state baseball commissioner.

Red Cross Golf Tourney To Be Completed Monday

In order to wind up the Red Cross Handicap Golf Tournament before the regular Fall Tournament gets under way, each participant, regardless of whether he won or lost his first match, is asked to play one 18-hole round before Monday evening, September 2.

Carroll Boggs, pro, must be notified of the player's intention to compete before the player leaves the first tee. Prizes will be awarded for first, second, and third low net scores. Handicaps will be posted before Friday afternoon. This supersedes the matchplay program of the present Red Cross tournament.

The fall tournament qualifying period will be from August 30 to September 8 inclusive. Eighteen holes will be played and players can qualify and compete for Red Cross prizes with the same round.

Georgia has 161 counties.

Guardsmen Will Not Lose Vote If Called Out

Governor O'Conor Asks Law Department for Advice on Procedure

Members of Company G, National Guard, who have been wondering if they will be allowed to vote this November if called away from their homes, will be glad to hear that they have Gov. O'Conor in their corner.

Gov. O'Conor announced yesterday that he expects to take whatever action is necessary to protect the voting rights and privileges of all Marylanders who may be called away from their homes before the Nov. 5 election by the National Guard mobilization or the still-pending draft bill.

He has asked the State Law Department to advise him on the proper steps and to prepare the proclamation which, under the law, the governor must issue to change the election statutes in time of military emergency.

Seeks Clarification

The law states definitely that members of the National Guard and the Naval Militia may be permitted to vote by mail when called up for duty but it is not specific as to whether this would include civilians called for emergency training.

It is especially in regard to the part of the law concerning conscriptees that the governor has asked for clarification.

Maryland is one of the states which does not permit its citizens to vote by mail under ordinary circumstances. However, the law contains a special section which says:

"Whenever a state of war exists in the United States, or such other circumstances occur as to cause the Government of the United States to call into service the Maryland National Guard, . . and the Maryland Naval Militia, . . and duly qualified voters of the State are absent from the ward or election district in which they reside, . . the Governor may, by proclamation, published once in no more than three newspapers in each county and Baltimore City, suspend the operation of the election laws of the State. . ."

Absentee Provisions

Regulations governing absentee voting arrangements are then set forth. One section says:

"At any time not more than forty-five days before the holding of any election, any such person who expects to be absent on election day may make application in writing to the Board of Supervisors of Elections of the county of Baltimore city, in which he resides, for a ballot.

"Such applications must be received by the Supervisors of Elections not less than seven days before the holding of any election, and shall contain the full name and place of residence. . . . from which the applicant is registered, and the address to which the ballot is to be mailed to him.

"The application shall also state the position or rank in the military or naval service which the applicant holds."

Other Regulations

The law also sets forth regulations by which mail ballots, especially marked, shall be sent to the absent voter, who must fill out the ballot in accordance with specific instructions and send it in.

In the present case, it is possible that many of the Maryland trainees will be close to home on election day and may therefore be able to vote as usual.

In the event that large numbers of men are unable to vote from their legal residences, it is expected that Army and National Guard officials will set up temporary "bureaus" where the men can have their absentee voting handled with dispatch.

Settlement of School Difficulties Appear Certain after Conference

Kopp To Explain Situation to Citizens at Midland Tuesday Night

Differences of opinion over the Allegany county board of education's consolidation program, which earlier had resulted in a school "strike" threat, appeared headed for settlement without difficulty today.

The new turn of events followed a conference yesterday morning between School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp and a delegation representing several small communities whose schools are to be abandoned or their higher grades transferred.

Kopp To Attend Meeting

Chief result of the conference, which apparently swung some members of the delegation around in favor of the consolidation plan, was calling of a special meting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Firemen's hall Midland at which Superintendent Kopp and possibly the entire board of education will explain the program to the protesting citizens.

The delegation's belligerent attitude softened after the school superintendent explained the reasons for the consolidation move, and it was apparently the committee's idea to have their fellow-citizens hear the same explanation in hope of reaching an amicable solution.

Others are Wavering

It was a lengthy conference, beginning at 10 a. m. and lasting until 12:30 p. m. At its conclusion, several members of the group appeared definitely won over and the others, while still protesting to some extent, were wavering.

Kopp emphasized once more that the school board's idea was only to "provide the best educational opportunities for all the children of Allegany county at the most reasonable cost." He was emphatic in declaring that if the citizens gave the plan a trial, they would find it satisfactory.

Outlines Advantages

Among the "many advantages" of consolidated schools listed by Kopp was the greater benefit to pupils when teachers teach only one grade instead of two or more. At the same time, he said, modern education is "more than just teaching the three R's," and consolidation means more opportunity for the "socializing process" in "assembly activities," with children of the same age and grade mingling together—something impossible in a one-room school.

Chief objection of the citizens appeared to be the possible dangers of transporting small children on school buses. The school superintendent answered this objection by noting that Allegany county and the state as a whole have a "splendid" record of safe transportation of school children, with "hazards reduced to a minimum."

Members of the delegation included Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, Midland; Walter Patterson, Lord; Benjamin Filer, Midlothian; Floyd Winebrenner, Carlos; Russell Aldridge and William Yantz, Ocean; Thomas Kight, Gilmore; and Mrs. Isobel Adams, Mt. Savage.

Mt. Savage Protests Again against Transfer Of Its High School

Mt. Savage's objections to transfer of its high school department to the new Beall high school at Frostburg were voiced again yesterday before School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

The speaker was Mrs. Isobel Adams, who made a plea for retention of the Mt. Savage high school after citizens of the county's smaller communities had stated their case against closing of their elementary schools.

Mrs. Adams's appeal, however, drew no definite response from Kopp, who said merely that "I appreciate your comments."

The Mt. Savage woman declared that while she recognized there were certain advantages to be derived from a consolidated school, she felt that Mt. Savage is "so situated that we don't come in that circle. We ought to have a high school of our own."

There are enough taxpayers and enough students in Mt. Savage to support such a school, she stated.

Principal objection she raised to consolidation was that it would in large measure deprive Mt. Savage students of the social aspects of high school, since bus pupils cannot very well take part in extra-curricular activities.

This is especially important, Mrs. Adams said, since about eighty-five per cent of Mt. Savage children go no further than high school.

Other objections were to the dangers of the road between Mt. Savage and Frostburg and the inconvenience to farm families when children spend about an hour a day going to and from school.

She concluded that retention of the school would make for "better citizens" in Mt. Savage and said she feared many would quit school rather than go to Frostburg.

Other Local News On Page 14

Gateway Chatter

by News Staff Members

The principal topics of conversation in Cumberland yesterday were passage of the conscription bill by the Senate and the announcement that the national guard would probably be called out by September 15.

Dozens of persons gathered around the bulletin board in front of the NEWS-TIMES buliding Wednesday night after the bulletin announcing passage of the bill by the Senate was posted.

There were various comments. Some young men didn't seem to be bothered over the prospects that they might be among the first group called for training. Others were lamenting the fact they would have to give up jobs, sever home ties, leave their best girl and the like.

The most unusual statement made was by a man who was "sore as a boil" because the age limit was 21 instead of 18. He said "I've two sons, between 18 and 21 who aren't doing anything and I'd like for them to have the training".

For his information, young men between 18 and 35 can volunteer if they so desire.

—o—

While no definite word has been received by Guard officers here as to when Company G will be inducted into service, Gateway Chatter is informed that members of the company have been told they should get "everything in shape" to be away from their jobs and homes for a year or more."

Whether the local company will be called out around September 15 is not known, but many persons here seem to think it will be about that date or by the middle of October.

—o—

Here's some information about the military conscription bill which will doubtless prove interesting to persons between twenty-one and thirty years of age:

The bill provides that the men shall receive the same pay, allowances and other benefits as enlisted men of like grades and length of service in the regular army, land and naval forces.

Section 14 provides the monthly base pay of enlisted men of the army and the marine corps shall be as follows:

First grade $126; Second grade $84; Third grade $72; Fourth grade $60; Fifth grade $54; Sixth grade $36; Seventh grade $30; except the monthly base pay of enlisted men with less than four months' service during their first enlistment period and of enlisted men of the Seventh grade whose inefficiency or other unfitness has been determined under regulations prescribed by the secretary of war, shall be $21.

Seventeen More Aliens Register

Registration of aliens fell of some yesterday according to Frank L. M. Storm, with seventeen being indexed and twenty taking home papers to be filled out, making a total of fifty-nine who have registered.

The Italian group still leads in registrants with nineteen followed by the English with thirteen. Seven Austrians registered making a total of eleven.

An English family of father, mother and daughter registered yesterday and the teen-age daughter was a typical English lass, with rosy cheeks, blonde hair and blue eyes.

One thing noticed by the registrants, while being fingerprinted, is that a sensation of tickling or itching seems to occur in the nose.

One man who registered yesterday was from the duchy of Luxembourg, which was overrun by the German army in its march to France. He said it was necessary to learn both French and German to get by in that country because of the mixed population. The first German refugee also registered yesterday.

In addition to the Italian, English, and Austrian people so far, five Polish, three Turkish, one Finnish five Canadians, two German, one Australian and one Swedish alien have registered.

Two Drivers Fined In Magistrate's Court

Alex Barclay, Jr., of Lonaconing, was acquitted of the same charge.

Both drivers were arrested yesterday morning by State Trooper Carl F. Storm after their cars collided at the intersection of the National highway and Mt. Savage road. No one was injured.

Another driver, Joseph W. Lavin, 1440 Bond street, Baltimore, was fined $5 and costs for speeding on the McMullen highway, two miles south of Cumberland. He pleaded guilty.

State Trooper John H. Doud preferred the charge.

Ruth Matheney Takes Position In Stockholm

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Matheney Stays in Sweden

News that their daughter, Ruth, has accepted a position in a Stockholm, Sweden, hospital, had been received today by Mr. and Mrs. William Matheney.

Prior to Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. Matheney believed that their daughter was aboard the refugee liner American Legion which reached New York after a perilous 12-day crossing from northern Finland.

Once the liner docked, an official of the nursing corps with which Miss Matheney had been affiliated called the Matheneys from New York, informed them that their daughter had decided to take a nursing position in Sweden.

Mr. Matheney said last night that the last time they heard from their daughter was on July 24.

Praise Is Passed Out at Meeting Of Kiwanis Club

Leaders of Sunshine Camp Lauded for Work with Children

Cumberland Kiwanians heard themselves lavishly praised yesterday and handed out a few bouquets themselves.

At the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Fort Cumberland hotel, the club as a whole was acclaimed for its establishment of Sunshine Camp on Haystack mountain by members of the camp staff. Then leaders of the club repaid the compliment by lauding members of the staff for their splendid work with the underprivileged children who attended the camp.

Joseph W. Young, who served as camp director, was introduced by President William M. Somerville and outlined the work accomplished in the last month of the camp, when nearly sixty Cumberland girls were given two-week vacations. Previously, some sixty boys had been given similar vacations.

Young, after telling his fellow club members what a fine project they had started, introduced the four girls who served as counselors: Jean Witherup, Rebecca Sterne, Dorothy Williams and Dorothy Thrush. He was loud in his praise of their services.

Another member of the camp who was applauded was Mrs. Young, who, along with the counselors, was given a gift token of the club's appreciation.

Consensus of the Youngs and the counselors was that they had spent "one of the most worthwhile and at the same time pleasant summers" of their lives. And consensus of the Kiwanians was that the staff had done a bang-up job of "building for tomorrow" by their leadership of the youngsters.

Earlier, at a brief business session, President Somerville named John Rodman a delegate to the Capital district Kiwanis convention in Richmond, Va., in October. Dr. C. L. Owens was appointed alternate.

Plans are underway for a large group of Cumberland Kiwanians to accompany the official delegate to the Richmond meeting.

Following mobilization, the Guard is expected to join the other units of the Twenty-ninth Division at Fort George G. Meade for intensive training.

Once the Guard is mobilized there is expected to be a thorough testing of existing setups and personnel shifts wherever efficiency is substandard.

Youth Is Found Guilty of Assault

Six Months Suspended Sentence Is Given Paul Bowman

Accused of assaulting Delmor Dally, of Flintstone Paul Bowman, 19, also of Flintstone, was given a suspended jail sentence of six months yesterday morning in trial magistrate's court.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., who presided at the hearing, suspended the jail term on condition he keep the peace, especially toward Dally, and report to the court semi-monthly on his conduct.

According to Magistrate Bruce, the assault occurred Tuesday when Dally attempted to take a bicycle, valued at $20, away from Bowman. The bike belonged to Dally's son, Carl.

Prior to the assault, Bowman took the bicycle away from Dally's son, he said. The defendant testified he "won a race" with young Dally.

Bowman was also arraigned on a charge of larceny, but Magistrate Bruce ruled that he didn't steal the vehicle when he took it from the Dally youth.

Dally's wife, Belle, obtained the warrants for Bowman's arrest.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Hamilton Fish

New Yorker Is Prominent in National and International Affairs

Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York will appear as the final lecturer on the 1940-41 Community Forum, according to Thomas B. Finan, Jr., chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce Forum committee.

In an effort to present a completely rounded program on the season's Forum, Congressman Fish was obtained to close the season because of his ability as an orator and his prominence in national and international affairs.

Prominent Lecturers Booked

The Forum committee has already booked George Fielding Eliot, noted military authority, world traveler and commentator; Dr. Morris Fishbien, famed physician, scientist and medical authority; J. Anton deHaas, economist, educator and lecturer. Added to these four outstanding speakers, will be an entertainer such as Ruth Draper, Cornelia Otis Skinner or Dorothy Crawford, to add a light and feminine touch to the series and some outstanding humorist and traveler, yet to be selected.

Congressman Fish is noted for his lectures on such subjects as "How Can We Keep Out of War," "Peace and National Defense," "War and Profits," "Have Faith in America," "Capitalism vs. Socialism," "Americanism vs. Internationalism" and "Our American System."

Probably no outstanding personality in American public life better symbolizes — in background and point of view—American systems and institutions than Congressman Fish. He has led the fight in Congress to keep America out of foreign wars. He is a champion of enlightened individualism, and has always been a leader in questions of national economic importance.

Entertaining Speaker

Fish was chairman of the House committee in 1930 to investigate Communist activities and propaganda in 1930. For twenty years he has been a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the House of Representatives. He has debated with such well known personalities as H. V. Kaltenborn, Senator Elmer Thomas, Upton Sinclair, Norman Thomas and many others. On every public appearance his views and comments have been given widespread publicity, and he is regarded by those who have heard him as an entertaining as well as enlightening speaker and orator.

Delicious Meals Will Be Prepared At Cooking School

National Expert To Give New Recipes to Local Housewives

The art of making fine gravies and delicious stuffings will be emphasized at the American Way Cooking School scheduled to open Sept. 10 at the Strand theater according to Miss Emily Conklin, a national expert on cooking, who will have charge of the course.

Among the cooking school dishes with extra-good gravies are Pork Chop favorites. A dressing of cracker crumbs and hard-cooked egg is placed on top of each drop. The chops are then cooked slowly in milk. The gravy thus formed is unusually fine.

Stuffings extend the flavor of the meat and add a festive touch to otherwise simple dishes. Among the good stuffings on the cooking school program is the celery dressing for the cushion shoulder of lamb. A liver sausage dressing is used for the Veal Birds in another tasty recipe. The Pocket Round of Beef has a sausage dressing. Breast of Lamb is stuffed with a rice and mushroom dressing.

These are some of the many recipes Miss Conklin will explain for the instruction of Cumberland homemakers who will attend the school arranged by the Cumberland News and the Evening Times.

Inspection of Motor Vehicles To Be Held In Safety Campaign

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP) — Maryland's annual motor vehicles inspection—aimed particularly this year at eliminating accidents caused by "faulty mechanism"—will be held from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15.

There will be "positively no extension of time" for inspections, Motor Vehicle Commissioner W. Lee Elgin added.

"The rise in accidents along Maryland highways in some respects is attributed to faulty mechanism, and this contributing factor will be greatly eliminated by rigid inspections and the removal of unsafe vehicles from the highways," he said.

"Due to the number of accidents which have been caused by broken or worn king bolts, this item will be added to the list of mechanical parts to be checked."

About 1,500 garages and service stations will be available to make inspections, he continued, and "a complete check of each applicant for an inspection station will be made to determine qualifications and equipment."

Elgin said he had asked Governor O'Conor for cooperation of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee "in making this campaign a success."

Drivers Should Be Extremely Careful Over the Holidays

Recalling eleven fatal accidents in Maryland counties last Labor Day week-end, F. H. Rockwell, manager of the Cumberland Automobile Club, last night called on all Western Maryland drivers to be extremely careful this year.

At the same time the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee issued another plea for safe driving over Labor Day and urgently requested that vacationists "not allow slight delays to impair their temper; bad attitudes in driving usually are the forerunners of accidents."

The committee, recalling the loss of life due to traffic accidents over the last Labor Day period, announced that "each of us can do our part to insure our own safety as well as the safety of our fellow traveler by proper conduct when operating a motor vehicle."

American Legion To Celebrate in Pershing's Honor

Eightieth Birthday of Beloved A. E. F. Leader To Be Observed

A nationwide observance of Gen. John J. Pershing's eightieth birthday, Friday, September 13, will be celebrated by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, with fitting ceremonies.

National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, in a proclamation to the 11,681 Legion posts, says:

"The memory of the great soldier who led those who are now the American Legion in the days of their youth, 1917-18, must ever remain an inspiring and happy recollection.

"As the well-beloved leader of the A. E. F., General John J. Pershing is the Honorary National Commander of the American Legion. His principles of services, his dynamic purpose, his unqualified and proven patriotism will always enshrine him to the American Legion as the Commander-in-Chief of us all.

Urged National Defense

"With full recognition of the great value of his services during the past 20 years in support of an adequate national defense establishment for the United States—the truth of his statements now being generally and belatedly accepted by the citizenry of this generation—

"Now, there, I, Raymond J. Kelly, National Commander of the American Legion, do hereby officially proclaim the day of September 13, 1940, inasmuch as it is the 80th anniversary of the birth of our beloved leader, General John J. Pershing, as a special American Legion day of observance, in all posts and affiliated bodies throughout the entire organization, and

"I do urge all members of the American Legion to join on that day in paying proper and dignified tribute to this great American soldier, who was the fourth in our national history to earn the full rank of General, and who commanded the largest army ever to cross the sea."

Pershing Appreciative

National Commander Kelly's proclamation calling upon the American Legion to observe fittingly the 80th birthday of General Pershing, was in compliance with a resolution adopted by the National Executive Committee.

General Pershing wrote to National Adjutant Frank E. Samuel of the American Legion, as follows:

"I have been deeply touched by the recent resolution of the National Executive Committee setting apart my 80th birthday as a special American Legion day. To feel that my comrades of the Legion, after 23 years, hold me in such esteem gives me the utmost gratification. I assure you with all my heart that my affection for them is most profound and has always been so."

Guardsmen Will Not Lose Vote If Called Out

Governor O'Conor Asks Law Department for Advice on Procedure

Members of Company G, National Guard, who have been wondering if they will be allowed to vote this November if called away from their homes, will be glad to hear that they have Gov. O'Conor in their corner.

Gov. O'Conor announced yesterday that he expects to take whatever action is necessary to protect the voting rights and privileges of all Marylanders who may be called away from their homes before the Nov. 5 election by the National Guard mobilization or the still-pending draft bill.

He has asked the State Law Department to advise him on the proper steps and to prepare the proclamation which, under the law, the governor must issue to change the election statutes in time of military emergency.

Seeks Clarification

The law states definitely that members of the National Guard and the Naval Militia may be permitted to vote by mail when called up for duty but it is not specific as to whether this would include civilians called for emergency training.

It is especially in regard to the part of the law concerning conscriptees that the governor has asked for clarification.

Maryland is one of the states which does not permit its citizens to vote by mail under ordinary circumstances. However, the law contains a special section which says:

"Whenever a state of war exists in the United States, or such other circumstances occur as to cause the Government of the United States to call into service the Maryland National Guard, . . and the Maryland Naval Militia, . . and duly qualified voters of the State are absent from the ward or election district in which they reside, . . the Governor may, by proclamation, published once in no more than three newspapers in each county and Baltimore City, suspend the operation of the election laws of the State. . ."

Absentee Provisions

Regulations governing absentee voting arrangements are then set forth. One section says:

"At any time not more than forty-five days before the holding of any election, any such person who expects to be absent on election day may make application in writing to the Board of Supervisors of Elections of the county of Baltimore city, in which he resides, for a ballot.

"Such applications must be received by the Supervisors of Elections not less than seven days before the holding of any election, and shall contain the full name and place of residence. . . . from which the applicant is registered, and the address to which the ballot is to be mailed to him.

"The application shall also state the position or rank in the military or naval service which the applicant holds."

Other Regulations

The law also sets forth regulations by which mail ballots, especially marked, shall be sent to the absent voter, who must fill out the ballot in accordance with specific instructions and send it in.

In the present case, it is possible that many of the Maryland trainees will be close to home on election day and may therefore be able to vote as usual.

In the event that large numbers of men are unable to vote from their legal residences, it is expected that Army and National Guard officials will set up temporary "bureaus" where the men can have their absentee voting handled with dispatch.

Settlement of School Difficulties Appear Certain after Conference

Kopp To Explain Situation to Citizens at Midland Tuesday Night

Differences of opinion over the Allegany county board of education's consolidation program, which earlier had resulted in a school "strike" threat, appeared headed for settlement without difficulty today.

The new turn of events followed a conference yesterday morning between School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp and a delegation representing several small communities whose schools are to be abandoned or their higher grades transferred.

Kopp To Attend Meeting

Chief result of the conference, which apparently swung some members of the delegation around in favor of the consolidation plan, was calling of a special meting at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at Firemen's hall Midland at which Superintendent Kopp and possibly the entire board of education will explain the program to the protesting citizens.

The delegation's belligerent attitude softened after the school superintendent explained the reasons for the consolidation move, and it was apparently the committee's idea to have their fellow-citizens hear the same explanation in hope of reaching an amicable solution.

Others are Wavering

It was a lengthy conference, beginning at 10 a. m. and lasting until 12:30 p. m. At its conclusion, several members of the group appeared definitely won over and the others, while still protesting to some extent, were wavering.

Kopp emphasized once more that the school board's idea was only to "provide the best educational opportunities for all the children of Allegany county at the most reasonable cost." He was emphatic in declaring that if the citizens gave the plan a trial, they would find it satisfactory.

Outlines Advantages

Among the "many advantages" of consolidated schools listed by Kopp was the greater benefit to pupils when teachers teach only one grade instead of two or more. At the same time, he said, modern education is "more than just teaching the three R's," and consolidation means more opportunity for the "socializing process" in "assembly activities," with children of the same age and grade mingling together—something impossible in a one-room school.

Chief objection of the citizens appeared to be the possible dangers of transporting small children on school buses. The school superintendent answered this objection by noting that Allegany county and the state as a whole have a "splendid" record of safe transportation of school children, with "hazards reduced to a minimum."

Members of the delegation included Mr. and Mrs. John Robertson, Midland; Walter Patterson, Lord; Benjamin Filer, Midlothian; Floyd Winebrenner, Carlos; Russell Aldridge and William Yantz, Ocean; Thomas Kight, Gilmore; and Mrs. Isobel Adams, Mt. Savage.

Mt. Savage Protests Again against Transfer Of Its High School

Mt. Savage's objections to transfer of its high school department to the new Beall high school at Frostburg were voiced again yesterday before School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp.

The speaker was Mrs. Isobel Adams, who made a plea for retention of the Mt. Savage high school after citizens of the county's smaller communities had stated their case against closing of their elementary schools.

Mrs. Adams's appeal, however, drew no definite response from Kopp, who said merely that "I appreciate your comments."

The Mt. Savage woman declared that while she recognized there were certain advantages to be derived from a consolidated school, she felt that Mt. Savage is "so situated that we don't come in that circle. We ought to have a high school of our own."

There are enough taxpayers and enough students in Mt. Savage to support such a school, she stated.

Principal objection she raised to consolidation was that it would in large measure deprive Mt. Savage students of the social aspects of high school, since bus pupils cannot very well take part in extra-curricular activities.

This is especially important, Mrs. Adams said, since about eighty-five per cent of Mt. Savage children go no further than high school.

Other objections were to the dangers of the road between Mt. Savage and Frostburg and the inconvenience to farm families when children spend about an hour a day going to and from school.

She concluded that retention of the school would make for "better citizens" in Mt. Savage and said she feared many would quit school rather than go to Frostburg.

Other Local News On Page 14

Gateway Chatter

by News Staff Members

The principal topics of conversation in Cumberland yesterday were passage of the conscription bill by the Senate and the announcement that the national guard would probably be called out by September 15.

Dozens of persons gathered around the bulletin board in front of the NEWS-TIMES buliding Wednesday night after the bulletin announcing passage of the bill by the Senate was posted.

There were various comments. Some young men didn't seem to be bothered over the prospects that they might be among the first group called for training. Others were lamenting the fact they would have to give up jobs, sever home ties, leave their best girl and the like.

The most unusual statement made was by a man who was "sore as a boil" because the age limit was 21 instead of 18. He said "I've two sons, between 18 and 21 who aren't doing anything and I'd like for them to have the training".

For his information, young men between 18 and 35 can volunteer if they so desire.

While no definite word has been received by Guard officers here as to when Company G will be inducted into service, Gateway Chatter is informed that members of the company have been told they should get "everything in shape" to be away from their jobs and homes for a year or more."

Whether the local company will be called out around September 15 is not known, but many persons here seem to think it will be about that date or by the middle of October.

Here's some information about the military conscription bill which will doubtless prove interesting to persons between twenty-one and thirty years of age:

The bill provides that the men shall receive the same pay, allowances and other benefits as enlisted men of like grades and length of service in the regular army, land and naval forces.

Section 14 provides the monthly base pay of enlisted men of the army and the marine corps shall be as follows:

First grade $126; Second grade $84; Third grade $72; Fourth grade $60; Fifth grade $54; Sixth grade $36; Seventh grade $30; except the monthly base pay of enlisted men with less than four months' service during their first enlistment period and of enlisted men of the Seventh grade whose inefficiency or other unfitness has been determined under regulations prescribed by the secretary of war, shall be $21.

Seventeen More Aliens Register

Registration of aliens fell of some yesterday according to Frank L. M. Storm, with seventeen being indexed and twenty taking home papers to be filled out, making a total of fifty-nine who have registered.

The Italian group still leads in registrants with nineteen followed by the English with thirteen. Seven Austrians registered making a total of eleven.

An English family of father, mother and daughter registered yesterday and the teen-age daughter was a typical English lass, with rosy cheeks, blonde hair and blue eyes.

One thing noticed by the registrants, while being fingerprinted, is that a sensation of tickling or itching seems to occur in the nose.

One man who registered yesterday was from the duchy of Luxembourg, which was overrun by the German army in its march to France. He said it was necessary to learn both French and German to get by in that country because of the mixed population. The first German refugee also registered yesterday.

In addition to the Italian, English, and Austrian people so far, five Polish, three Turkish, one Finnish five Canadians, two German, one Australian and one Swedish alien have registered.

Two Drivers Fined In Magistrate's Court

Laton W. Phares, 19 West Oldtown road, was fined $5 and costs yesterday in trial magistrates court on a charge of reckless driving.

Alex Barclay, Jr., of Lonaconing, was acquitted of the same charge.

Both drivers were arrested yesterday morning by State Trooper Carl F. Storm after their cars collided at the intersection of the National highway and Mt. Savage road. No one was injured.

Another driver, Joseph W. Lavin, 1440 Bond street, Baltimore, was fined $5 and costs for speeding on the McMullen highway, two miles south of Cumberland. He pleaded guilty.

State Trooper John H. Doud preferred the charge.

Ruth Matheney Takes Position In Stockholm

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Matheney Stays in Sweden

News that their daughter, Ruth, has accepted a position in a Stockholm, Sweden, hospital, had been received today by Mr. and Mrs. William Matheney.

Prior to Wednesday night, Mr. and Mrs. Matheney believed that their daughter was aboard the refugee liner American Legion which reached New York after a perilous 12-day crossing from northern Finland.

Once the liner docked, an official of the nursing corps with which Miss Matheney had been affiliated called the Matheneys from New York, informed them that their daughter had decided to take a nursing position in Sweden.

Mr. Matheney said last night that the last time they heard from their daughter was on July 24.

Leaders of Sunshine Camp Lauded for Work with Children

Cumberland Kiwanians heard themselves lavishly praised yesterday and handed out a few bouquets themselves.

At the weekly luncheon-meeting of the Fort Cumberland hotel, the club as a whole was acclaimed for its establishment of Sunshine Camp on Haystack mountain by members of the camp staff. Then leaders of the club repaid the compliment by lauding members of the staff for their splendid work with the underprivileged children who attended the camp.

Joseph W. Young, who served as camp director, was introduced by President William M. Somerville and outlined the work accomplished in the last month of the camp, when nearly sixty Cumberland girls were given two-week vacations. Previously, some sixty boys had been given similar vacations.

Young, after telling his fellow club members what a fine project they had started, introduced the four girls who served as counselors: Jean Witherup, Rebecca Sterne, Dorothy Williams and Dorothy Thrush. He was loud in his praise of their services.

Another member of the camp who was applauded was Mrs. Young, who, along with the counselors, was given a gift token of the club's appreciation.

Consensus of the Youngs and the counselors was that they had spent "one of the most worthwhile and at the same time pleasant summers" of their lives. And consensus of the Kiwanians was that the staff had done a bang-up job of "building for tomorrow" by their leadership of the youngsters.

Earlier, at a brief business session, President Somerville named John Rodman a delegate to the Capital district Kiwanis convention in Richmond, Va., in October. Dr. C. L. Owens was appointed alternate.

Plans are underway for a large group of Cumberland Kiwanians to accompany the official delegate to the Richmond meeting.

Following mobilization, the Guard is expected to join the other units of the Twenty-ninth Division at Fort George G. Meade for intensive training.

Once the Guard is mobilized there is expected to be a thorough testing of existing setups and personnel shifts wherever efficiency is substandard.

Youth Is Found Guilty of Assault

Six Months Suspended Sentence Is Given Paul Bowman

Accused of assaulting Delmor Dally, of Flintstone, Paul Bowman, 19, also of Flintstone, was given a suspended jail sentence of six months yesterday morning in trial magistrate's court.

Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., who presided at the hearing, suspended the jail term on condition he keep the peace, especially toward Dally, and report to the court semi-monthly on his conduct.

According to Magistrate Bruce, the assault occurred Tuesday when Dally attempted to take a bicycle, valued at $20, away from Bowman. The bike belonged to Dally's son, Carl.

Prior to the assault, Bowman took the bicycle away from Dally's son, he said. The defendant testified he "won a race" with young Dally.

Bowman was also arraigned on a charge of larceny, but Magistrate Bruce ruled that he didn't steal the vehicle when he took it from the Dally youth.

Dally's wife, Belle, obtained the warrants for Bowman's arrest.

Hamilton Fish

New Yorker Is Prominent in National and International Affairs

Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York will appear as the final lecturer on the 1940-41 Community Forum, according to Thomas B. Finan, Jr., chairman of the Junior Association of Commerce Forum committee.

In an effort to present a completely rounded program on the season's Forum, Congressman Fish was obtained to close the season because of his ability as an orator and his prominence in national and international affairs.

Prominent Lecturers Booked

The Forum committee has already booked George Fielding Eliot, noted military authority, world traveler and commentator; Dr. Morris Fishbien, famed physician, scientist and medical authority; J. Anton deHaas, economist, educator and lecturer. Added to these four outstanding speakers, will be an entertainer such as Ruth Draper, Cornelia Otis Skinner or Dorothy Crawford, to add a light and feminine touch to the series and some outstanding humorist and traveler, yet to be selected.

Congressman Fish is noted for his lectures on such subjects as "How Can We Keep Out of War," "Peace and National Defense," "War and Profits," "Have Faith in America," "Capitalism vs. Socialism," "Americanism vs. Internationalism" and "Our American System."

Probably no outstanding personality in American public life better symbolizes — in background and point of view—American systems and institutions than Congressman Fish. He has led the fight in Congress to keep America out of foreign wars. He is a champion of enlightened individualism, and has always been a leader in questions of national economic importance.

Entertaining Speaker

Fish was chairman of the House committee in 1930 to investigate Communist activities and propaganda in 1930. For twenty years he has been a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs in the House of Representatives. He has debated with such well known personalities as H. V. Kaltenborn, Senator Elmer Thomas, Upton Sinclair, Norman Thomas and many others. On every public appearance his views and comments have been given widespread publicity, and he is regarded by those who have heard him as an entertaining as well as enlightening speaker and orator.

Delicious Meals Will Be Prepared At Cooking School

National Expert To Give New Recipes to Local Housewives

The art of making fine gravies and delicious stuffings will be emphasized at the American Way Cooking School scheduled to open Sept. 10 at the Strand theater according to Miss Emily Conklin, a national expert on cooking, who will have charge of the course.

Among the cooking school dishes with extra-good gravies are Pork Chop favorites. A dressing of cracker crumbs and hard-cooked egg is placed on top of each drop. The chops are then cooked slowly in milk. The gravy thus formed is unusually fine.

Savory Veal Steaks also provide a fine gravy. Ginger and mustard are used to give a special flavor.

Old-fashioned cream gravy accompanies the salt pork, dipped in cornmeal, which is one of the typical American dishes on the program. Veal hearts on noodles have a very special and tasty gravy.

Stuffings extend the flavor of the meat and add a festive touch to otherwise simple dishes. Among the good stuffings on the cooking school program is the celery dressing for the cushion shoulder of lamb. A liver sausage dressing is used for the Veal Birds in another tasty recipe. The Pocket Round of Beef has a sausage dressing. Breast of Lamb is stuffed with a rice and mushroom dressing.

These are some of the many recipes Miss Conklin will explain for the instruction of Cumberland homemakers who will attend the school arranged by the Cumberland News and the Evening Times.

Inspection of Motor Vehicles To Be Held In Safety Campaign

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29 (AP) — Maryland's annual motor vehicles inspection—aimed particularly this year at eliminating accidents caused by "faulty mechanism"—will be held from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15.

There will be "positively no extension of time" for inspections, Motor Vehicle Commissioner W. Lee Elgin added.

"The rise in accidents along Maryland highways in some respects is attributed to faulty mechanism, and this contributing factor will be greatly eliminated by rigid inspections and the removal of unsafe vehicles from the highways," he said.

"Due to the number of accidents which have been caused by broken or worn king bolts, this item will be added to the list of mechanical parts to be checked."

About 1,500 garages and service stations will be available to make inspections, he continued, and "a complete check of each applicant for an inspection station will be made to determine qualifications and equipment."

Elgin said he had asked Governor O'Conor for cooperation of the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee "in making this campaign a success."

Drivers Should Be Extremely Careful Over the Holidays

Recalling eleven fatal accidents in Maryland counties last Labor Day week-end, F. H. Rockwell, manager of the Cumberland Automobile Club, last night called on all Western Maryland drivers to be extremely careful this year.

At the same time the Maryland Traffic Safety Committee issued another plea for safe driving over Labor Day and urgently requested that vacationists "not allow slight delays to impair their temper; bad attitudes in driving usually are the forerunners of accidents."

The committee, recalling the loss of life due to traffic accidents over the last Labor Day period, announced that "each of us can do our part to insure our own safety as well as the safety of our fellow traveler by proper conduct when operating a motor vehicle."

Eightieth Birthday of Beloved A. E. F. Leader To Be Observed

A nationwide observance of Gen. John J. Pershing's eightieth birthday, Friday, September 13, will be celebrated by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, with fitting ceremonies.

National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, in a proclamation to the 11,681 Legion posts, says:

"The memory of the great soldier who led those who are now the American Legion in the days of their youth, 1917-18, must ever remain an inspiring and happy recollection.

"As the well-beloved leader of the A. E. F., General John J. Pershing is the Honorary National Commander of the American Legion. His principles of services, his dynamic purpose, his unqualified and proven patriotism will always enshrine him to the American Legion as the Commander-in-Chief of us all.

Urged National Defense

"With full recognition of the great value of his services during the past 20 years in support of an adequate national defense establishment for the United States—the truth of his statements now being generally and belatedly accepted by the citizenry of this generation—

"Now, there, I, Raymond J. Kelly, National Commander of the American Legion, do hereby officially proclaim the day of September 13, 1940, inasmuch as it is the 80th anniversary of the birth of our beloved leader, General John J. Pershing, as a special American Legion day of observance, in all posts and affiliated bodies throughout the entire organization, and

"I do urge all members of the American Legion to join on that day in paying proper and dignified tribute to this great American soldier, who was the fourth in our national history to earn the full rank of General, and who commanded the largest army ever to cross the sea."

Pershing Appreciative

National Commander Kelly's proclamation calling upon the American Legion to observe fittingly the 80th birthday of General Pershing, was in compliance with a resolution adopted by the National Executive Committee.

General Pershing wrote to National Adjutant Frank E. Samuel of the American Legion, as follows:

"I have been deeply touched by the recent resolution of the National Executive Committee setting apart my 80th birthday as a special American Legion day. To feel that my comrades of the Legion, after 23 years, hold me in such esteem gives me the utmost gratification. I assure you with all my heart that my affection for them is most profound and has always been so."
